ETHIOPIAN KING CALLS ON PEOPLE TO DEFEND LAND

Better to Die Free Than to Live Without Liberty' Haile Selassie Tells Soldiers, Parliament.

ASSERTS HE'LL LEAD HIS TROOPS IN WAR

Declares He Does Not Want Conflict but Will Carry on Fight to the Last Man.

By the Associated Press.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, July 18.—Emperor Haile Selassie, in addressing his soldiers and Parliament today, called on all Ethiopians to follow him into battle, declaring it was better to die free than to live without liberty.

The King of Kings and Lion of Judah said the military preparations by Italy now going forward proved the intentions of that country to conquer Ethiopia.

He called on all of his subjects to unite and co-operate for the defense of the country, saying he would lead the troops into war. He appealed to all not to fear death.

"Our ancestors," he shouted, "preserved their independence by sacrificing their lives. Follow their example!

"God will be our fortress and shield and the modern armament of aggressors cannot deter our duty which is sacred for Ethiopian independence."

The Efforts for Peace.

Reviewing Ethiopia's past relations with Italy and the events from the skirmish at Ualual last December until now, the Emperor described Ethiopia's efforts for a peaceful settlement of the dispute and also similar efforts by the British which, he said, Premier Mussolini of Italy had "brutally rejected."

He said the fact that Italian military preparations were continuing proved Italy's intention to conquer Ethiopia forcibly and said the danger of war was evident despite the fact that Ethiopia was profoundly imbued with respect for promises and the sanctity of treaties.

He said Ethiopia did not wish war but would defend itself to the last man if attacked.

He said Ethiopia did not desire a hegemony and did not menace its neighbors but was master of its own country and would fight to the bitter end defending its integrity, independence and sovereignty.

The Emperor declared that Italian intentions to use modern scientific weapons of warfare would meet with the resistance of all his subjects.

Message to Soldiers.

He continued: "Soldiers: When on the battlefield you learn the death of your beloved and respected chief, who has fallen in the defense of liberty, do not weep and do not despair but think of those who die for the fatherland as happy mortals!

"Soldiers, traders, peasants, young and old men and women: Unite and co-operate for the defense of the country.

"As in the past, women will heroically participate in the defense of the country, encouraging the soldiers and treating the wounded.

"Regardless of faiths, all will face the invader in common unity, thwarting the efforts of Italy to create discord between Christians and Mohammedans.

Cites Kellogg Pact.

He repeatedly stressed that Ethiopia did not want war and was desirous of following the ways of peace mentioned in the Kellogg-Briand pact. He said his appeal to the United States under that pact and the initiation of final steps by the League of Nations Council were proofs of this desire.

"If our repeated efforts for good will fail," he said, "our conscience is clear and the Ethiopian people, united, can confidently stretch their hands to God who will defend the just cause of our country, upholding the heroic courage of our soldiers in a battle for independence."

Many in the audience burst into tears when the Emperor made his reference to his possible death on the battlefields. The rest of his fiery address was met with enthusiasm, applause and shouting.

In the course of his address, Haile Selassie said that Premier Mussolini had insulted Ethiopia by saying its barbarity excluded a peaceful solution and that Italy desired through a so-called "civilizing mission" to settle with blood the Italian defeat at Aduwa in 1896.

The Emperor said Ethiopia was not the provocator at Aduwa but that, rather, it had merely resisted invasion there and had won, but still did not reap all the advantages it could have gained since it did not

COURT UPHOLDS GUILDERS CLAUSE IN RAILROAD BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt) railroad must pay a European holder of its bonds in Dutch gold guilders, or their equivalent in United States currency, Federal Judge John C. Knox ruled today.

Judgment was given against the railroad for $16,383, to be paid off at the rates of $39.63 for each $25 coupon due Jan. 1, 1934; $42.23 for each $25 coupon payable July 1, 1934; and $42.26 for each $25 coupon due Jan. 1, last. This represents the market value of the guilders at the various times.

The bondholder was Anglo-Continentale Treuhand A. G., a bank in the European principality of Liechtenstein. Of several foreign coins in which the interest obligation was payable, under the terms of the bonds, the holders chose to insist on payment in Dutch guilders. Currency of the Netherlands is still on the gold basis, and its value, in American dollars, was increased 58 to 68 per cent by the devaluation of the dollar.

The railroad company contended that payment of the face of the obligation in United States currency was sufficient, under the ruling of the Supreme Court upholding the congressional act suspending the gold clause. It pleaded that the plaintiff, Anglo-Continentale Treuhand, had acquired the bonds since the suspension act was passed by Congress in 1933 and that the bonds were never offered abroad, but were sold in this country.

Wall street circles expressed the belief that dollar devaluation was "coming home to roost," in commenting on Judge Knox's decision.

The case had an important bearing on the question whether payments on American bonds held abroad shall be made in dollars or the gold equivalent of foreign currencies.

The suit against the railroad was filed March 1. At the time, the European concern said it had no intention of testing devaluation.

Daniel Upthegrove, president of the Cotton Belt, said here today that the railroad company would appeal from the decision of Judge Knox.

CATHOLIC PRIESTS TOLD TO TEACH NAZI-ISM

End of Church's Youth Movement in Germany Forecast After Goering's Order.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 18.—Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, commander of Germany's secret police, issued an order to criminal prosecution authorities today to enforce strictly the existing decrees against "political Catholicism."

Goering said this Catholicism "must be overcome by positive National Socialism."

His statement foreshadowing the end of all Catholic youth organizations, stressed the important task which the Hitler youth movement faces in the present clash between the philosophies of life.

Today's decree said: "The minister emphatically demands that all authorities promote the Hitler youth organization." It continued with a claim that Goering, now as before, rejects the idea of a cultural fight against the Roman Catholic Church but said, "all means will be invoked against those Catholic priests who misuse their religious authority."

The order follows shortly after a bitter protest by the Catholic church against the sterilization law, the restriction of Catholic youth organizations, and the use of Rosenberg's paganistic book, "The Mystery of the Twentieth Century," as often causing a violation of the concordat with the Vatican.

Catholic priests who are religious teachers will be tolerated in the future, under the terms of the order, only if they change into Nazi propagandists.

"It must be demanded," said the decree, "that Catholic priests refrain from expressing a negative attitude toward National Socialism but express their unlimited support of Nazi ideas."

At another point, the decree stated :"If the Catholic movements do not fundamentally change their attitude, they will be regarded as political organizations and will be forbidden."

CHINESE WED IN U. S. SAID TO HAVE 3 WIVES

Son of President of China Denies Shanghai Report He Has Two Others There.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHANGHAI, July 18.—Intense interest was aroused today by news James Lin, adopted son of Lin Sen, president of the Chinese Republic, had married Miss Viola Brown in Columbus, O. According to Lin's brother-in-law, Chen Hsiang-yuan, the bridegroom already has had two wives in China.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—Shanghai dispatches telling of two wives of K. M. James Lin, son of the President of China, who married Miss Viola Brown, clerk in a local five-and-ten cent store last Sunday, left the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brown, unperturbed today.

Lin accused political enemies of circulating the report to injure him and his father. He said the Shanghai cable was not authentic.

Lin and his bride were found in a university lodging house where the bridegroom is suffering from a cold.

"I am very happy and wish people would let me alone," said Mrs. Lin.

Lin said that he had had "romances" in China, but declared emphatically "there's nothing to" the marriage report.

NINE COAL MINERS KILLED IN KENTUCKY EXPLOSION

Bodies Recovered at Van Lear; Gas Is Believed to Have Caused Deaths.

By the Associated Press.

VAN LEAR, Ky., July 18.—Bodies of the nine men entombed by a coal mine explosion here yesterday were found by rescue workers today. Seven of the bodies were carried to the surface, one by one, in mine railway cars as police and mine officials held back an assembled crowd.

John F. Daniel of Lexington, chief of the State Department of Mines and Minerals, said he thought that all nine had been killed instantly by gas.

Some of the men had been crushed by falling slate and coal.

Frank Price, chief clerk of the Consolidation Coal Co., whose mine No. 5 was the scene of the disaster, said the bodies recovered were those of William Kretzler, assistant foreman; Charles Kretzler, Virgil Clay, James E. Vaughan, Derwood Litz, Sherley Hereford , Roy Murray, John Gool and Frank Tuzy.

MEDICAL JOURNAL LINKS LONG LIFE WITH PEACE OF MIND

Says Equanimity, Contentment and Optimism Might Increase Expectancy to 105 Years.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—By cultivation of proper mental attitudes, man's life expectancy may increase to 105 years, the journal of the American Medical Association said today.

The average life of an animal is five times the number of years required for full skeletal development, the journal said, and since 21 years is required for that growth in man, 105 years might be set as the approximate normal human limit. The journal recommended cultivation of equanimity, contentment and optimism.

At present, only 33 of every 100,000 persons can expect to live to be 100 years old, the journal said.

RASKOB GROUP BUYS ONCE NOTED MINES IN NEVADA

SENATOR PITTMAN EMPLOYED IN DEAL

New Owners Expect to Seek Silver in Shafts Which Formerly Produced Gold Also.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., July 18.—The purchase of a controlling interest in the Consolidated Virginia Mining Co. at Virginia City, Nev., by John J. Raskob and his New York associates, and the purchase by the company of three adjoining properties, would place the heart of the historic Comstock lode in the hands of the Eastern capitalists, mining men here said today. The properties have produced both gold and silver, but the present deal apparently looks to the production of silver.

Senator Key Pittman of Nevada has been named a member of the board of directors in the new company. The board includes Robert P. Raskob and John J. Raskob Jr., sons of the financier; Acquin Feeney, Zeb Kendall, A. L. Kendall, W. J. Henley and Pittman. Zeb Kendall is president, W. J. Henley, secretary and Robert Raskob treasurer of the new company.

Announcement that Raskob had acquired 2,103,623 shares in the company, which will be capitalized at $5,000,000, was made by Zeb Kendall, its president, yesterday. Shares will have a par value of $1. Kendall announced that the Consolidated Virginia would acquire properties of the Ophir, Andes and Mexican gold and silver mining companies, all old producers in the once productive district.

The company is preparing to expend $400,000 in development work and the erection of a milling plant, Kendall said.

The Consolidated Virginia property was the famous "big bonanza" discovered in 1873 and operated by John W. Mackay, James G. Fair, James C. Flood and William S. O'Brien. The Mexican was discovered in 1874 and the Ophir in 1859. The Andes property is another of the famous mines of Virginia City's boom days.

The total production of the Comstock Lode has been variously estimated at from $450,000,000 to $700,000,000, but accurate figures have never been compiled.

The Consolidated Virginia was at one time one of the greatest producers of silver and gold in the world, but its production for the last 20 years has been very small. Un to 1911, the production of the Consolidated Virginia alone was estimated at $113,471,000, while the Ophir was credited at the same time with $15,314,000. Accurate figures on the other two mining companies involved in the new transaction are not available.

The Consolidated Virginia shaft is 2300 feet deep with many miles of drifts and underground workings. Engineers assert that there is a vast quantity of low-grade ore on the upper levels which can be mined profitably at present prices of silver employing modern methods in mining and milling.

Unconfirmed reports are to the effect that Bernard M. Baruch is associated with Raskob in the mining venture.

Pittman Employed to Organize Merger, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Senator Pittman of Nevada today denied a published report that he was a member of a syndicate, along with John J. Raskob, which was buying a $5,000,000 interest in the Comstock Silver Lode in Nevada.

The Senator, credited with being the "father" of the administration's silver policy, said he had been employed by Raskob and stockholders of five silver companies to organize a merger of the properties, but that he was not personally interested, financially, in the project.

"There have been a number of insinuations, some baseless and some even libelous, to the effect that I was advocating a restoration of silver because of my personal interest in the matter," he said.

"I sold out all silver interests I had in 1925 and have not acquired any interests since. While I withdrew from the active practice of law in 1915 and maintain no office, on occasion when my friends think it is a phase of law that I am particularly familiar with I have yielded."

Pittman said he had been engaged as an attorney by both sides in the negotiations.

PROCESSING TAX TO BE COLLECTED, CUMMINGS SAYS

AWAITS APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Attorney-General Cummings, at a press conference today, insisted in a brief statement that the Government would try to collect processing taxes in all jurisdictions, pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court of the Hoosac Mills decision by the First Circuit Court of Appeals at Boston, holding the AAA taxes unconstitutional.

Cummings declared that the Hoosac decision did "not prevent collection of processing taxes except in that particular case. "He said that "a statute of long standing provides that no injunction shall be granted to restrain the collection of any tax" and that this statute had "heretofore" been adhered to "except in the most extraordinary and exceptional circumstances."

Asked whether the decision would not be binding on all the Federal District Courts of the First Circuit, Cummings stated that it would rest with each court in each case to decide whether it would adhere or depart from "the ancient statute." When it was pointed out that the first Circuit Court itself and "a large number" of District Courts had departed from the statute, Cummings observed that perhaps several had granted injunction writs restraining the collection of the processing taxes.

Up to Individual Judges.

The Attorney-General was elusive when asked whether, as a matter of practical law, a processor could not cite the First Circuit Court's decision in asking for an injunction. He said that if the court believed that the case presented was in harmony with the Hoosac case, a restraining order against the Collector of Internal Revenue might be obtained. He insisted, however, that the judge would have to decide each case on its own merits.

This observation, of course, was in line with general legal rules, but when it was pointed out that the court's decision was in such comprehensive terms that virtually all processing taxes would be held unconstitutional by the courts of the First Circuit, the Attorney-General said it was up to the judges to make their own decisions.

A reporter pointed out that if the courts of the First Circuit should generally hold the processing taxes unconstitutional and issue restraining orders against their collection, this would give an advantage to New England textile mills against the Southern mills, where the courts might hold the taxes constitutional. Cummings observed that this was the case with all laws and jurisdictions.

Won't Discuss Pending Bills.

The Attorney-General refused to comment on the proposition that the pending AAA amendments in Congress, if enacted, would render "moot" the questions raised by the present processing taxes. The Supreme Court can hold an issue "moot," when subsequent legislation has changed the law under which the original suits were brought. The Attorney-General said it would be improper for him to discuss the legal effect of pending legislation.

The Attorney-General also declined to discuss for publication why he appeared before Senate Banking and Currency Committee yesterday to give his legal opinion on the Administration's proposal to outlaw gold clause suits yet did not give the Hill Subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee his views regarding the validity of the Guffey coal bill, also an administration measure.

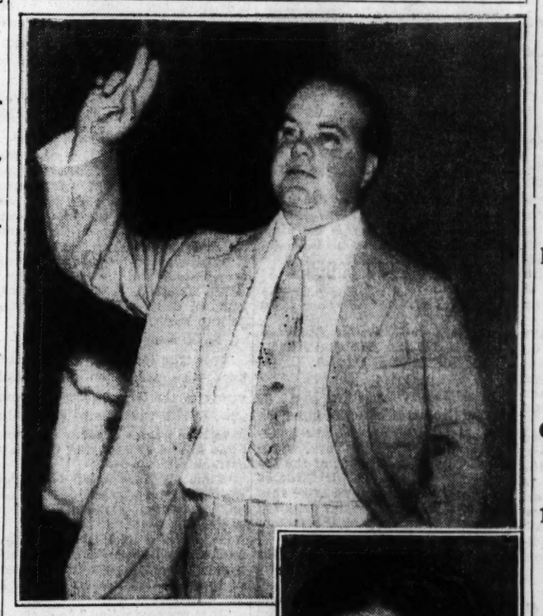

Asked whether he had found any precedents for the resolution of Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, calling on him for a written opinion as to the constitutionality of the Guffey bill, Cummings said that he had looked into the question but would not tell what he had found or what he expected to do should the resolution be adopted.

CAMPAIGN SPREAD OVER 26 STATES

127,000 Telegrams on Subject Received in Washington in 15 Days — Associated Gas Spent $700,000 to Beat Measure.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Faked telegrams, vanished records and playful talk about arson at high noon today occupied the rapt attention of the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee, as it delved deeper into attempts of the Associated Gas & Electric Co., to influence Pennsylvania Congressmen against the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill. Western Union officers disclosed that 127,000 telegrams on that subject have been received here during a period of 15 days. These telegrams cost around $76,000.

Associated Gas & Electric spent $48,000 sending message sfrom Erie, Warren, Easton and small neighboring towns to Pennsylvania Senators and Representatives. Then officers burned or otherwise destroyed all office records of the campaign.

R. P. Herron, bond salesman who sent 1100 telegrams from Warren, signing them with names obtained from the city directory, was the first witness. He was followed by his superior, E. W. O'Brien, Erie manager of the Utility Investing Corporation, a subsidiary of Associated Gas & Electric, and both spent a very uncomfortable morning on the stand.

Testimony of O'Brien.

O'Brien said he had been directed by U. E. Beach, manager of the securities department of Associated Gas & Electric at Ithaca, N. Y., to dispose of his records. He said he placed them in a wastebasket. Immediately, O'Brien added, he told all his branch offices to get rid of their records.

"Did Beach say to you that the company was going to destroy every record it had everywhere in the United States in connection with the Wheeler bill?" asked Chairman Black. "I don't remember," was the reply.

O'Brien said Beach told him "we had no longer use of our legislative records—that we were through with utility legislation work."

Herron Tells of Order.

Herron said he had "burned" his records after O'Brien had told him there was to be an investigation and he should clear out his files.

Herron told about taking the names from the city directory, and dictating telegrams to J. A. Fisher, Western Union manager at Warren, but he denied that he had any part in, or knowledge of, the subsequent burning of the originals in the basement stove of the Western Union office. There was some "joking conversation" between himself and Fisher about dumping a barrel of kerosene in the cellar and touching a match to it, he conceded, but he did not believe that had any connection with the incendiary episode which ensued a few hours later. Just a coincidence, he explained.

Campaign Over 26 States.

O'Brien, responding slowly under the savage questioning of Chairman Black (Dem.), Alabama, disclosed that his company's campaign against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill extended over 26 states, and that it involved instructions to use cash and personal checks that could not be traced to the company. A statement issued last night at the com-

LOUIE ALTERIE, GANGSTER, KILLED IN CHICAGO STREET

Former Associate of Dion O'Banion Shot to Death From Room Across Way From His Hotel.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Louie ("Two-Gun") Alterie, Chicago gangster who survived some of the city's worst bootlegging feuds, was shot as he left his hotel today and died an hour later. He was hit by nine slugs.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, in charge of the State's Attorney's investigating force, said "there was no doubt" Alterie had been shot because of his connection with a labor union.

Police said Alterie was president of the Theater and Motion Picture Building Janitors' Union, Local 25, and maintained offices downtown. He kept this office even when operating a "dude" ranch near Jarr Canon, Colo.

Alterie, who had been in "retirement" for six years, came back to Chicago after Colorado had banished him. He was convicted there of assault with intent to murder and received a suspended sentence and an order to leave the State.

Alterie was killed with a shotgun. The shots missed Alterie's woman companion, identified by police as his wife, Irma, 35 years old.

Alterie was ambushed in traditional gangland style. His hotel, the Eastwood Towers, was at 926 Eastwood avenue, on the city's North Side. Across the street, at 927 Eastwood avenue, the killers rented a first floor apartment commanding a view of the door from which Alterie emerged.

In the apartment police found a repeating shotgun, an automatic rifle and three shotgun shells. The rifle had not been fired. A "dark stocky man" had rented the room eight days ago, sharing it, the manager said, with one other. "Both were quiet and well behaved," said neighbors.

Alterie's two murderers left a green steamer trunk behind, and police set out to trace them through this and the weapons.

"There were a thousand reasons why Alterie might have been killed," Capt. Gilbert said. "His name has been 'in the hat' for years. He lived by 'muscling in,' for years and since he severed connections with the Moran gang after prohibition he had had his fingers in every pie."

Recalling an old connection between the Janitors' Union of which Alterie was president and the Moving Picture Operators' Union, police began investigating a theory that Alterie's assassination might have grown out of inner strife in the latter organization.

WOMAN TAKES DIVORCE FIGHT TO HIGHEST BRITISH TRIBUNAL

Contends Decree Granted Former Alberta Official Is Void Because Hearing Was Secret.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 18.—The validity of a divorce decree granted in secret was challeneged before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the British Empire's highest tribunal, today.

The case is that of O. L. McPherson, former Minister of Public Works of Alberta, who divorced his wife four years ago, alleging adultery. Mrs. McPherson filed the appeal.

The original suit was heard by Justice Tweedie in his chambers at Edmonton, Alta, in April, 1931. Mrs. McPherson first appealed to the Supreme Court of Alberta, insisting the decree was null and void because the suit was not heard in open court. The Supreme Court dismissed her action.

Wilfrid Greene, her attorney, asked the Judicial Committee today: "If the learned Judge withdraws himself from the proper public court appointed for the hearing of trials and places himself deliberately in a place where the public will not find him, is he acting as a Judge at all?" He contended Judge Tweedie was not the Judge presiding over the regular divorce hearings in Edmonton at the time of the hearing.

SENATE TAKES RAYON TAX OUT OF AAA BILL

PRICE FIXING CLAUSE ALSO THROWN OUT

Amendment Rejected Would Have Permitted Secretary to Set Re-Sale Price of Commodities.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — With a shout of "no" the Senate today struck out of the administration's bill to amend the Agricultural Adjustment Act, a compensatory tax on rayon. The vote came after Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, had withdrawn an amendment he had proposed as a joint protection to cotton and rayon. It would have placed a tax on rayon and on silk.

An amendment proposed by the Agriculture Committee, placing on rayon alone a tax of 125 per cent of the processing tax on cotton, then was defeated after Chairman Smith of the committee had said he was not insistent on it.

In giving way to opposition against the rayon tax amendment, Smith declared he was fearful the Byrnes amendment would have "a disastrous effect on the export trade on cotton" due to the present exchange of commerce with Japan silk makers, and Scandinavian makers of wood pulp, from which rayon is made.

Upsets Previous Approval.

The Senate by a vote of 44 to 41, yesterday upset its previous 40 to 38 approval of the price-fixing provision which would have permitted the Secretary of Agriculture, with the approval of half of the handlers of any commodity, to fix the resale price.

After the reversal vote Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, said: "The Senate undoubtedly has overestimated the importance of those price-fixing provisions. They are not an essential feature of the amendments by any means."

Action on the amendment came shortly after word was received from President Roosevelt that he believed it wise to proceed with the amendments regardless of the adverse Circuit Court ruling in Boston on the processing tax. He said the farm program would continue until there is a Supreme Court ruling.

Those opposed to the price-fixing feature said that other language in the House bill, touching on the same issue, would be taken up as soon as Senate amendments were disposed of.

The House part of the price-fixing machinery yet to be considered by the Senate gives the Secretary of Agriculture authority to fix the price handlers must pay producers for the commodity. Most Senators deemed either section an integral part of the other, but consideration of both phases was blocked by a Senate rule requiring action first on amendments attached by the Senate Committee.

A proposed 35 cents a bushel processing tax on flaxseed was defeated, but a levy of 25 cents a bushel on barley was retained after Senator Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, said a move by Senator Guffey (Dem.), Pennsylvania, to delete it was designed only to protect brewers.

Discussion on Amendment.

Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, said the price-fixing provision gave handlers the authortiy to agree on minimum prices for farm products, without reference to the producers.

"The whole price-fixing program," Smith retorted, "is predicated on the consent of producers." His offer to have the section amended to make more certain that growers would have a voice in the program won little support.

The flaxseed processing tax went out under warnings of Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, and King (Dem.), Utah, that it would increase the price of paint and linoleum and throw "thousands of people" out of employment.

"It would make it impossible to compete abroad," George declared, "and would place a burden of $5,000,000 annually on American consumers."

Meantime the Agricultural Committee reported favorably a special amendment to put potatoes under a crop control act. Under its terms, potato growers would be subject to quota assignments enforced by a tax of three-fourths of a cent a pound on any potatoes produced in excess of quota.

Vote on Price-Fixing.

The roll call on the price-fixing amendment follows:

For the amendment:

BONUS MARCHERS ORDERED AWAY FROM HOUSE STEPS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Two hundred bonus marchers supporting the bill introduced by Representative Fish (Rep.), New York, which would pay the bonus out of the $4,000,000,000 works fund, were ordered off the House steps soon after they appeared yesterday. They departed and held their rally at the foot of Capitol Hill.

After the leaders, headed by Roy Robertson of California, had presented a petition at the office of Speaker Byrns, urging action on the legislation, Fish and Robertson walked down the long flight of steps to the waiting marchers outside. Before Fish told them their meeting had been forbidden, he had Kenneth Romney, House sergeant-at-arms, read the law prohibiting assemblages at the Capitol without permit from the Vice-President and the Speaker.

Fish told the marchers the law unconstitutional, but that he wanted them to go peaceably off the grounds. Robertson said they would abide by the law, and Fish and Representative Fenerty (Rep.), Pennsylvania), followed the men to participate in the meeting.

U. S. INFORMS ALL ENVOYS OF ITS POLICY ON ETHIOPIA

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—William Phillips, Acting Secretary of State, said today that all American envoys abroad had been authorized to inform other Powers of the United States Government's desire for a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

This country will not be represented by an observer at the League of Nations session on the question, Phillips said, because the Italo-Ethiopian controversy is considered of concern principally to European nations.

American Ambassadors and Ministers in European countries, however, are keeping in close touch with the Governments to which they are accredited concerning all developments, he said.

Phillips said Secretary Hull had invited the Italian, British and French Ambassadors to the State Department on July 10 and 11 to obtain their views of the situation and to clarify this Government's position.

Phillips discloses for the first time, officially, that Hull had diplomatically notified Augusto Rosso, the Italian envoy, that the United States would view hostilities in Africa with deep concern and sincerely hoped that a settlement would be achieved without recourse to arms.

BOUND BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN CHICAGO SEWER

Dead Three Months, Police Say, Making Identification Difficult.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—A woman's body was found in a Chicago sewer today by a group of workmen. The body was wrapped in linen and the hands had been tied.

Investigators said the woman had been dead three months and that identification would be difficult.

Officers seeking Mrs. Evelyn Smith, 35 years old, in connection with the murder of Ervin Lang, 28, rushed to the place in the belief that the body might be that of Mrs. Smith, but on investigating discarded the theory.

BORAH ASSAILS PLAN TO PREVENT AAA TAX SUITS

Says It Would Aid Big Firms Which Pass Levy on and Hurt Small Ones Unable to Do So.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The Administration's proposal to close the courts to procesing tax recovery suits was denounced today by Senator Borah of Idaho, as a step benefiting big companies which have passed the tax on to consumers but injuring small companies which have been unable to do so.

The Senate deferred action on the outlawing of suits in an attempt to work out a compromise.

Senators Borah; Norris of Nebraska and Smith of South Carolina sought to work out a compromise under which processors who had not passed on the tax to the consumers or others would be permitted to bring recovery suits.

"Where there has been a wrong perpetrated, and property taken," Borah asserted, "I do not believe you can deny a man the right to go into court.

Says Small Firms Suffer.

"It is true that some of the taxes have been passed on to the consumer by the large processing companies, but the small companies have been unable in many instances to do so and by reason of that have suffered.

"Thus we have a bill benefiting the companies who can pass the tax on, but denying the small companies the right to recovery."

He declared denial of the "right to sue the sovereign" has "been embodied in the law over the objection of some of the ablest members of our court."

"It is my contention," he declared, "that the right to sue should never be denied except in the rarest cases."

Borah attacked what he termed the "fiction" that "you can't sue the sovereign."

Robinson Interrupts.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, interrupted to defend the administration proposal.

"Why does the Senator refer to this fundamental principle as a fiction?" Robinson asked. "Does he not recognize that from the beginning of the Government that principle has been adhered to?"

"It originated in the past with the theory that 'the King can do no wrong,'" Borah retorted. "England never had any law supporting it. It rests upon what I claim is a pure fiction that the King can do no wrong.

"There is not in the Constitution a line or letter indicating exemption of the Government from suits by citizens."

"Do you mean there is no limit at all to suits against the Government?" Robinson asked.

Insists It Is Fiction.

"If I had my way that is what I would contend," Borah replied. "But I realize I am closed to that. I cannot conceive why when a citizen is wronged under a free government he shouldn't have a right to be heard. It is a fiction, a falsehood, a libel upon free government."

The amendment on which Borah and Robinson clashed would bar suits to recover the more than $900,000,000 in AAA taxes already paid by processors of farm products.

"Settled Principle of Law."

"It is a settled principle of law that no sovereign can be sued except with consent of that sovereign," said Robinson. "If the Government were subject to suit in every claim, I ask you to consider how long it would continue in existence."

"I make the assertion that in almost, if not every instance, the tax has been passed on and the people who paid the tax cannot be identified," Robinson argued.

"When you refund, in 99 cases out of 100, you pay a bonus to someone who is not entitled to it."

He insisted "the sound reason and the only sound reason" for the proposal was that those who have paid the tax could not be identified.

Borah Takes Notes.

The Democratic leader then quoted previous speeches by Borah in which the Idahoan argued that the processing taxes almost universally had been passed on. Borah took notes, apparently preparing for a rebuttal.

Robinson quoted from some of Borah's earlier attacks against the AAA, in which the Idahoan accused meat packers of "manipulating" prices so that the producer received a price lessened by the amount of the processing tax.

Senator Hastings (Dep.), Delaware, asked if the Government had reached the point where citizens were to be denied the right to sue for taxes which "everyone" believes ultimately will be held unconstitutional.

"What is the danger?" he asked. "It's perfectly ridiculous to say you must deny all rights merely because the tax has been passed on to the consumer."

The processor has been "gravely damaged," he said, adding that many small packers have gone out of business because it was 'impossible for them to pass the tax on,"

$180,000,000 SUIT BY RECEIVERS FOR PIPE LINE FIRM

Missouri-Kansas Action Filed Against Columbia Gas and Columbia Oil Under Anti-Trust Acts.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Charging violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Law and the Clayton Anti-trust Act, Henry T. Bush and C. Ray Phillips, receivers for the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co., filed suit for $180,000,000 today in the United States District Court against the Columbia Gas & Electric Co., Columbia Oil & Gasoline Co., and officers and directors of the concerns.

The plaintiffs charge the defendants conspired and performed acts to monopolize and restrain trade and commerce in natural gas in Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and other states and territories. Under provisions of the Federal anti-trust laws, the plaintiffs ask for triple the amount of actual damages alleged—$60,000,000.

The complaint said that Columbia Gas & Electric had more than 75 subsidiary and affiliated companies and that its issue of outstanding capital stock exceeded $500,000,000. Columbia Oil & Gasoline is described as the principal affiliate. Between them, the plaintiffs allege, the corporations operated the largest pipe line system in the United States.

Individual defendants named are as follows: Philip G. Gossler, who was president of Columbia Gas & Electric and a director of Columbia Oil & Gasoline; Charles A. Munroe, who was president of Columbia Oil and a director in the two concerns; George H. Howard, a director of Columbia Gas and a former director in the Panhandle-Eastern Pipe Line Co.; Thomas B. Gregory of Pittsburgh, vice-president and a director in both defendant firms; Thomas R. Weymouth, Pittsburgh; vice-president and a director in both corporations; Edward Reynolds Jr., executive vice-president and secretary of Columbia Gas, and secretary and a director in Columbia Oil; Burt R. Bay, Kansas City, former vice-president and general manager of the Pipe Line Company; and John H. Hillman Jr., Pittsburgh, a director in the Pile Line Company.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT DENIED 'SPOT' REAGAN BY COURT

Defense Sought Bail on Contention Charge Should Be Second, Not First-Degree Murder.

Bail was denied to John J. (Spot) Reagan today by Circuit Judge McAfee, who rejected the application of Reagan's attorney for a writ of habeas corpus, which the court has had under consideration since Tuesday.

Reagan is under indictment for first-degree murder in the killing of Clifford Appler. His attorney, Thomas Rowe, contended at the hearing Tuesday that the facts alleged by the State would warrant a charge of second-degree murder—one committed in the heat of passion. The Court, however, found that the offense charged could be nothing but first-degree murder, an offense which is not bailable.

Reagan has been in jail since his capture in Kansas City, Mo., June 5. He fled from St. Louis in May, 1933, after Appler was shot and killed in a dispute over a backyard baseball game.

Utility Men Tell of Destroying Data

pany's New York office disclosed it had spent more than $700,000 in its efforts to beat the bill.

"They may have spent $700,000—or they may have spent $5,000,000"—Black remarked today. "We have no way of telling, because it is obvious they systematically destroyed their records."

Senators Guffey and Davis and various Pennsylvania Representatives were bombarded with telegrams in batches of 40 and 50 at regular hours during the day. Most of them were never seen by the persons whose names were signed to them.

Queried on Delay in Appearing.

Senator Black grilled Herron severely on his failure to appear yesterday morning. He was subpenaed by wire Tuesday afternoon. Herron admitted that he telephoned several company officers after receiving the summons.

Among them was U. E. Beach, manager of the Securities Department of the Associated Gas & Electric Co. At Beach's suggestion, Herron went yesterday from Warren to Philadelphia, wh re he was met by William Hill, a lawyer. Hill accompanied him to Washington. Herron insisted that this was not the cause of his delay in reaching Washington, however.

He disclosed that, in addition to the 800 telegrams sent to Representatives and Senators by Western Union, about 300 were sent by Postal.

"Who paid for those messages?" "I did."

"Where did the money come from?" "Associated Gas & Electric."

"Did you get the consent of the people whose names you signed to the telegrams?" "I got the consent of approximately 300 out of the 1100."

"And you got the rest of the names out of the city directory?" "Senator, let me tell you how it happened. I have lived around Warren for quite a while. I know the people, and I thought I knew who would be against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, so I looked through the directory, and selected the ones I felt sure would be against the bill."

"How did it happen," Black asked, "that the names of nearly all those you felt would be against the bill began with the letters A and B?"

Admits Burning Own Records.

Under a merciless hammering, Herron admitted that he had destroyed all his own records pertaining to telegrams, to prevent them from falling into the committee's hands. He said when he informed Fisher of the fact, Fisher remarked: "It would be a good thing if we had a fire around here—we've been paying rent on this building a long time." To this Herron said he replied: "Anybody can dump a barrel of kerosene in the cellar, and put a match to it."

As committee members stared incredulously, the dapper bond salesman insisted that he had not intended to suggest that Fisher burn the telegrams, although, the evidence indicates, they were destroyed that night.

"This was just a playful conversation about arson that happened, by a coincidence, to take place the same day that the telegrams were burned?" asked Black. The reply was inaudible. Herron was in distress.

O'Brien said he was told by Beach to "clear my files" of documents showing the company's activities in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

"So you burned them?" Black asked. "I set them aside."

"Where did you set them? "Well—in the waste basket."

Admits Advising Herron.

O'Brien said he told Herron to destroy his records, but denied that it was in anticipation of the Senate investigation. Later, however, he modified that statement somewhat.

"Did you talk to Mr. Hill this morning about the testimony you were to give here?" "Yes, sir."

"What did he tell you?" "To tell the truth."

"Mr. O'Brien, did you have to have a lawyer come all the way from Philadelphia to instruct you to tell the truth?" "Not necessarily," the witness replied, as the crowd laughed.

Subpena Issued for Beach.

O'Brien was not off the witness stand before a subpena was winging its way to Ithaca, N. Y., for Beach. He is expected tomorrow.

"Did you destroy all records of your legislative campaigns?" Black asked O'Brien. "No," he answered.

"Only in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill?" "Yes."

"Why?" "Mr. Beach told me they were of no consequence, and to get rid of them.'

Herron had already testified that they were destroyed in anticipation of the Senate investigation. Neither, however, was allowed in the committee room while the other was testifying.

"So you got rid of them because they could be of no consequence in a Senate investigation?" Black asked. The witness squirmed, and finally said "something might be made out of them," or "they might be made to look like something."

"Why did you pay the bill for these telegrams with your personal check?" Black continued. "There was no other way of paying it."

"Do you usually use your personal check in paying company bills?" "No sir."

O'Brien told of a meeting of securities sales managers at Ithaca, early this year, at which four hours was consumed in discussing ways and means of beating the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. It was there that they decided to "move quietly," O'Brien said, and "not to broadcast what we were doing."

It was soon afterward, he said, that Beach instructed him to pay cash for telegrams that would be addressed to members of Congress.

"Why was that?" asked Senator Schwellenbach. "We were moving quietly," the witness answered.

"You didn't want Western Union records to show that Associated Gas was paying for the telegrams?" "I don't know."

"You wanted members of Congress receiving the telegrams to believe they were sent by the people whose names were signed to them?" "You can infer that."

"I'm not inferring," rasped Schwellenbach. "The fact is that you wanted to conceal the fact that Associated Gas & Electric was paying for these messages?" "No, not to my knowledge."

"Acting Under Orders."

Eventually Schwellenbach pinned O'Brien down to an admission that he and his associates wanted to avoid leaving any record of their activities. O'Brien said he was acting under orders, and didn't know what the purpose of secrecy was.

The witness, a plump little man with pink cheeks, thinning hair and a tan suit, mopped his brow repeatedly, and was often admonished to raise his voice and make his answers more responsive. He labored heavily.

Explanation of Inquiry's Speed.

The speed with which Black has rushed the Senate investigation without pausing to make the customary exploratory inquiries, is not difficult to explain. The Wheeler-Rayburn bill, with its controversial "death sentence clause," is in conference between the two houses. Black voted for the bill and for the "death sentence." Revelations of the kind which have been made by the Lobby Committee in the last three days might well be expected to influence the conferees in favor of the "death sentence."

In addition, Black is the author of an anti-lobbying bill, which has passed the Senate and has been mysteriously delayed in the House. It would require lobbyists to register, and to report their expenditures. The investigation is calculated to expedite House action on Black's bill, by stirring congressional resentment against lobbying activities.

$500,000 SPENT PROMOTING SALES OF ARMY SUPPLIES

Joseph Silverman Jr. Dealer Admits He Expended That Amount Over Period of Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—An assertion that Joseph Silverman Jr., dealer in army surpluses, had spent $500,000 over a period of years to promote his business with the War Department was given to the House Military Committee today by Chairman McSwain.

The hearing renewed the committee's investigation, ordered by the House a year ago, into War Department business and procurement practices.

It was punctuated by frequent "hells" and "damns" from the witness. McSwain had to caution Silverman at one time to use "chaste" language.

"We had a power lobby that created a furore in Washington by spending $300,000," McSwain asserted. "And here we have you, a single firm, spending nearly $500,000 around Washington."

Silverman, who declared he has residences in Washington and Bradley Beach, N. J., said the money was spent over 15 years and affected a dozen families of his relatives.

The chairman said money had been spent for gambling, flowers and whisky for army officers and the like.

"Do I have to get your permission to do that?" Silverman asked, chewing a long unlighted cigar.

McSwain drew from Silverman testimony that companies in which he is interested with his brother had attempted to sell army uniforms, tents, overcoats and signal flags to the Ethiopian Government.

Silverman denied, though, that he had any desire to promote a war between Ethiopia and Italy. McSwain said the signal flag offer was made in February of this year.

Silverman said, too, that efforts had been made to sell surplus goods obtained from the army to Bolivia and Guatemala. He said the State Department had provided a "tip" that Bolivia might provide a market.

EDNA BOOKER MADE UP STORIES TO GET ESTATES

'GRANDMOTHER' LEFT $50,000, SHE SAID

From Behind Bars She Fabricated Glib Tales Supported by Letters "From Friends."

Edna Booker, Negro convict who testified falsely at two Kelley trials that she was the daughter of John C. Johnson, murdered State's witness in the kidnaping cases, has tried to carry on an inheritance racket from behind prison walls, further investigation by the Post-Dispatch has disclosed.

Her fabrications, supported by a wealth of detail, were equal in plausibility to the fanciful tale she related to Sheriff Deuser and Deputy Newbold at the penitentiary to convince them of her relationship to the witness Johnson, a few days after he was murdered and shortly before the first trial.

Disclosure last week by the Post-Dispatch that she was not Johnson's daughter, shattered the hopes of at least one Clayton attorney, William J. Becker, of obtaining a lucrative fee by representing the woman in her claim that she was sole heir to "her grandmother's" $50,000 estate. So convincing was her story, as related to the lawyer from behind bars of her cell at Clayton, that Becker was reluctant to credit her either with the intelligence or information necessary to devise the inheritance story, until complete results of the Post-Dispatch inquiry were submitted to him. He notified her today of his withdrawal from the case.

In Jail at Clayton.

She was taken to jail at Clayton more than a year ago from the penitentiary at Jefferson City where she is serving a life sentence for murdering a Negro woman. Prosecuting Attorney Anderson has requested Sheriff Deuser to delay her return until he concludes an investigation of her deception.

During her prolonged stay at County Jail she has not been idle. Before her fraud was exposed, she had supplied officials with letters "from friends" which sought to establish not only Edna's parentage, but the identity of the midwife who attended her at birth, for which she had given varying dates. The midwife died last summer, which fact had appeared in the newspapers.

One detail of her correspondence, noted after it became known she was an impostor, was that letters from the "outside" which she submitted to support her claims, invariably were contained in envelopes addressed in handwriting unlike that of the letters. Post-marks on the envelopes usually were torn or otherwise obliterated.

When Attorney Becker, summoned to the jail by Edna, received from her two letters she said were from her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, he did not doubt their authenticity. Grandmother, Edna said, had died a few weeks before at Wickenburg, Arizona, leaving a $50,000 estate, to which she was rightful heir. Unless her identity was established it would revert to the State of Arizona, she said.

An Involved Account.

She then gave an involved account of her ancestry, asserting that Mrs. Smith, once known as Harris, and Albert McNair, were her maternal grandparents. They separated years ago, she said, and ultimately their daughter, known as Ellen McNair, married John C. Johnson, the St. Charles farmer, who, Edna added, were her parents. Through devious means, Edna, her mother and grandmother Smith, all were united before Edna went to the penitentiary in 1930. And Edna submitted the letters signed by Mrs. Smith, addressing Edna as "granddaughter," to prove it.

Inquiry at Wickenburg by Becker established that Elizabeth Smith, elderly Negro, had died, leaving property valued at $50,000, and authorities were seeking her husband, Will, thought the only heir. Becker's suspicions were aroused when he noticed that a letter, which Edna said had been mailed in Arizona to her at Clayton, bore only a 2-cent stamp. He withdrew from the case when a Post-Dispatch reporter told him that publication of the Smith death and estate had been made in the St. Louis Argus, Negro weekly newspaper, a few days before Edna had retained him; that the records of the midwife, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Reiter, named by Edna, and which had been preserved by the widwife's daughter, showed that Mrs. Reiter had assisted in the birth of but one Negro child, in 1897, and Edna gave her birthdate to Becker as 1909.

Some More Deceptions.

Becker concluded the letters from "grandmother" were forgeries, as

Some More Deceptions.

Becker concluded the letters from grandmother" were forgeries, as were the letters Edna submitted from "John C. Johnson, your loving father." The Post-Dispatch investigation also disclosed that Edna was legally married—a fact she never mentioned until questioned by the Sheriff after her deception in the Johnson matter was discovered—to James T. Wilson, in 1919 at Kansas City, where Wilson, still her husband, lives. In applying for marriage license she said she was Edna McNeil, 22 years old, and lived in Kansas City, another fact she had denied.

Just how many times Edna has sought to work her inheritance racket from the penitentiary has not been established, but authorities believe her motive for injecting herself into the Kelley case was a desire to possess herself of Johnson's small estate, later proved valueless.

Her white sponsor at the penitentiary, Mrs. Mary E. Clark of Kansas City, recalled investigating for Edna, a street car accident in which Edna told her that her mother had been killed. Mrs. Clark's inquiry failed to disclose that such an accident had occurred or that Edna's mother had ever lived in Kansas City. Mrs. W. D. Long, wife of the Deputy Warden at the prison, at whose home Edna was employed for several months, told a Post-Dispatch reporter of a visit from lawyers who said "something about a damage suit growing out of the death of Edna's mother in a railroad accident, and said they were going to get $35,000 for her."

Attempt to "Recover" Bonds.

As has been told, she attempted to "recover" Government bonds from a St. Louis banker, alleging she had turned them over to him before going to the penitentiary. Inquiry by the banker's son, who investigated Edna's claim received after his father's death was published in newspapers, found that no bonds bearing numbers Edna listed ever were issued.

Confronted by Sheriff Deuser and Deputy Willmann with discrepancies and misstatements in her various accounts, Edna has proved a provoking subject for questioning, resorting at times to a sullen refusal to talk, at other times meeting earnest efforts of her questioners to exact the truth, with laughter and jests.

CORRECTION ON FEE CLAIMED BY ADMINISTRATOR SHEEHAN

Amount Obtained for Handling J. Avil Sims Estate Was $70.94, Not $1418 as Reported.

Public Administrator Sheehan yesterday called attention of the Post-Dispatch to an erroneous statement in Tuesday editions that he received a fee of $1418 for administration of the estate of J. Avil Sims, 4045 Cook avenue, a Negro who died in May, 1932.

Although his office had been required to supervise rental and maintenance of real estate included in the $18,000 estate since June, 1933, the total fee he obtained was only $70.94 as shown in the approved final settlement in Probate Court. Sheehan stated he had a legal right, which he did not assert in filing the settlement, to claim a fee of 5 per cent on notes for $6731 classified as uncollectible in an inventory by the West St. Louis Trust Co., or an additional $336.55, since suit had not been brought to determine whether the money was recoverable.

Sheehan also withdrew a claim for $100 which had been made as representing part of the cost of the $100,000 blanket bond given by the Public Administrator before Probate Judge Arnold declined to approve such charges against estates because the total exceeded the actual cost of the bond.

Des Moines Union Men March Strikebreakers Out of Town

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

UNION bakers and drivers of Des Moines, Iowa, marching out of town 25 men from the Ahner private detective agency of St. Louis who, they asserted were imported to break their strike. They met them at the train, held them prisoner until time for an outbound train and then saw that they boarded it.

IOWA STRIKERS EJECT 25 IMPORTED GUARDS

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 18. — Twenty-five men from the A. A. Ahner private detective agency of St. Louis were given a warm reception here yesterday by 200 striking union bakers and drivers who met them at the 'rain, held them prisoner until time for an outbound train and then escorted them out of town.

Union leaders, who had been apprised by St. Louis labor leaders that the men were being brought to Des Moines to break the strike, assembled union members at the railroad station.

When the train pulled in they gathered around it, jeering and threatening. Union leaders, accompanied by a policeman, boarded the train and advised the delegation that they were not going to stay long in Des Moines.

The St. Louis men did not protest, saying they were unaware of the strike but had been told they could get jobs in Des Moines. Ahner asserted his men were imported "for Des Moines business men to guard Des Moines property."

The Des Moines union men marched the St. Louisans to Labor Temple and held them under guard until time for a train to leave for St. Louis. Then they marched them to the train and saw that they left town.

OWNER ORDERED TO CLOSE TAVERN TWO DAYS A WEEK

Penalty, to Continue Over Five Weeks, Given Man Who Sold Beer on Sunday.

Louis Castiglione was ordered to close his tavern at 1117 North Sarah street each Friday and Saturday for the next five weeks after police had testified at a hearing yesterday before Acting Excise Commissioner Berkley that beer was sold in his establishment on a Sunday.

Castiglione admitted he opened his tavern Sunday, June 30, and sold beer as the police testified. He said that on the previous Sunday, in the course of a walk, he noticed several establishments open for business and thought that he, too, could remain open.

Fifteen other cases were dismissed after hearings when no evidence was offered that they were selling intoxicating liquor although they were open on Sunday.

STEWART WILLIAMS, SON OF EX-SENATOR, IS DIVORCED

Mrs. Jennie Williams, Married After Acquaintance of Eight Days, Charges Indignities.

Mrs. Jennie Williams, 5826 Cabanne avenue, was divorced yesterday from Stewart Williams, whom she married Dec. 29, 1933, at Belleville following an acquaintance of eight days. Williams, an employe of a Texas oil company, is the son of former United States Senator George H. Williams.

Alleging general indignities, Mrs. Williams testified that her husband had an ungovernable temper, was quarrelsome and abusive and criticised her in the presence of friends and relatives. In reply to a question by Circuit Judge Sartorius, Mrs. Williams said that on one occasion her husband struck her while he was intoxicated. They separated last October. Mrs. Williams' maiden name, Jennie Owings, was restored. She is a graduate nurse.

Williams filed an entry of appearance, but did not contest. The marriage was his second. In March, 1932, he was married to Miss Jeanette Elliott, who divorced him the following year, testifying that he "maltreated" her and called her names.

NEW WEBSTER GROVES SEWER TAX RATE SET AT 18C ON $100

This Will Make Total Levy $4.43; Attorney Says Not All of Bonds Voted Will Be Needed.

The tax rate for the new Webster Groves sewer district was fixed at 18 cents on the $100 valuation by the St. Louis County Court yesterday on application of Alva Trueblood, attorney for the sewer district. This will make the total tax rate in Webster Groves $4.43.

Trueblood said the sewer tax would produce about $20,000 in revenue this year. The district authorized an $800,000 bond issue in May, but Trueblood said a PWA grant of $335,000 would make it unnecessary to issue all the bonds.

TAXI DRIVER TO WORKHOUSE

Gets 10 Days for Speeding; Fined Twice Before.

James D. Sweeney, a taxicab driver, of 2011 Maury avenue, was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse by Police Judge Simpson today for speeding. He appealed.

Sweeney, who had been fined twice for speeding in the last two years and had been arrested for other traffic violations, was arrested July 9, last, for going 42 miles an hour on Market street. Charges of careless driving and felonious wounding brought against him last year were dismissed because of failure of prosecuting witnesses to appear.

BANKRUPTCY SUIT IS FILED AGAINST H. J. KATTELMAN

Fourth Action Involving Stock-Selling Company of Which St. Louisan Is Sole Owner.

Legal complexities involving the H. J. Kattelman Co. since the Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit against it as an insolvent bucket shop increased today with the filing in Federal Court of an involuntary bankruptcy petition against Harold J. Kattelman, sole owner of the telephone stock-selling firm.

The bankruptcy petition was filed by three creditors who assert they paid Kattelman about $3000 and some stocks for securities which he "purported to sell to them." It charges he is insolvent and that he committed an act of bankruptcy by making preferential payments to other general creditors during the last four months. The only payment of this sort specified is alleged to have been $3000 in cash and securities to William Biggs, as attorney and agent for a Mr. Watters.

Latest Claimants.

The three petitioning creditors and the amounts they allege they paid Kattleman are: Harry W. Mueller, $800 and 225 shares of common stock in the Missouri National Life Insurance Co.; E. C. Noble, $1411.24; and Mrs. M. Dearing, $1180.53 and a bond valued at $547.50. The suit named Kattelman as "doing business as the H. J. Kattelman Co."

In a hearing of a receivership suit against the company before Circuit Judge Douglas today, a temporary order restraining Kattelman from disbursing any funds of the company was issued. Further hearing of the suit, brought by two customers, was delayed until Saturday when Kattelman's attorney, Patrick H. Cullen, announced he was not ready to file an answer.

Cullen protested against issuance of the restraining order, stating that the company's affairs had already received considerable publicity and that such an order would result in more publicity.

Another Suit Filed.

Another snarl was added to the legal tangle in which the company has become involved by the filing of a second receivership suit yesterday in Circuit Court at Clayton. While the company has its office, and battery of telephones in the Central National Bank Building, it is not incorporated. Kattelman, its sole owner, lives in the county, on the Florissant road in Normandy.

The suit before Judge Douglas today was filed a week ago. Kattelman, who has closed his office and has been in seclusion, was not served with notice of it until yesterday, when deputy sheriffs found him in Cullen's office. Until then they had been unable to find him to serve notice.

Complainants in the action before the Court today were Arthur Mathes and A. H. Asadorian. Mathes said he had deposited $700 in cash and certain stocks with the Kattelman company toward the purchase of $2570 in stocks. Asadorian said he had deposited $1859 in cash toward the purchase of $4625 in stocks.

Their petition stated that many of the customers of the company were able and willing to complete payment for the stocks they had ordered, and to accept delivery, but that they were unable to do so because the company had closed its office.

They asked that a receiver be named to operate the business to protect the interests of the customers, and that Kattelman be enjoined from disbursing any of the company's funds.

Calhoun Early Apples Rot for Want of Paying Market

About 140,000 Bushels Going to Waste Because It Costs More to Handle Them Than Producers Get.

Nearly 140,000 bushels of early apples, chiefly transparents, are rotting in the orchards of Calhoun County, Ill., because the growers receive from 7 to 15 cents less for each basket than it costs them to prepare the apples for market.

In the St. Louis market, where about 70 per cent of the county's crop is shipped. commission men have been paying from 25 to 50 cents for a bushel basket, depending on the size of the fruit.

Many retail stores in St. Louis priced Illinois transparents at 5 cents a pound today As a bushel of the apples weighs 48 pounds, the retail price is $2.40 a bushel. In other stores a price of three pounds for 10 cents was listed.

The growers compute their marketing costs, on the average, at 47 cents a bushel. They must pay 5 cents for picking, 9 cents for packing, 11 cents for the basket, 2 cents for liner and cap, 10 cents for drayage to the market, and 10 cents commission on the sale.

High Price in 1927.

In 1927, a price of $3.25 a bushel was frequently paid. Harry Herron of Hardin, shipped 528 bushels of mixed varieties to Chicago that year, receiving $1372. The same shipment this year would bring $122. Since 1927, the prices have averaged from $1.20 to $1.60. In the last week prices for yellow transparent, the most popular early variety, have increased somewhat, 75 cents having been paid for small consignments.

Some Picking, Anyway.

A few growers have proceeded with the picking and marketing of the transparents even though they realize that each shipment will be unprofitable. Charles Wieneke Jr. of Hardin estimated his trees bore 12,000 bushels of the early apples. He is removing the best fruit, hoping the price will rise.

Most of the others are ignoring the transparents, and are working on later-bearing trees.

Near-Record Crop Prospect.

Favorable weather conditions during the growing season have resulted in an excellent crop prospect. The present estimate, according to John H. Allison, county farm adviser, is 1,300,000 or 1,500,000 bushels of all varieties. Calhoun County, long and narrow, lying between the Mississippi and Illinois Rivers, produces one-third of the Illinois crop. The 12-year average yield for the area is about 1,000,000 bushels a year.

Growers generally attribute the poor prices to the fact that markets, particularly St. Louis, are flooded with transparents. Allison explained that Southern Illinois orchards, bearing apples 10 days before Calhoun, yielded an unusually large crop which was sent to market in all grades. A number of recent consignments have gone to Chicago and Peoria.

HOSIERY WORKERS VOTING ON STRIKE FOR 30-HOUR WEEK

Poll Being Taken at Philadelphia Convention to Test Support for Walkout.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Delegates to the twenty-fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers voted informally today on the question of a strike to force a 30-hour week in the industry.

The poll was taken by Emil Rieve, federation president, who sought to determine how much support there was for such a strike. He will report his findings to the convention Saturday before a final vote is taken.

ST. LOUISAN KILLED IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Mrs. Stuart Judson In Auto Accident Near Herculaneum—Mrs. Selma Clede Injured.

Mrs. Stuart Judson, 1422 Louisville avenue, was killed and a St. Louis County woman was injured in an automobile collision on Highway 61, near Herculaneum, Mo., at 1 a. m. today.

Mrs. Judson, with her husband and three other persons, was a passenger in an automobile driven by Mark Mascow. A car going in the opposite direction was driven by Norman Valleroy, 18-year-old student, 4182 Newport court, who was accompanied by his father, Earl Valleroy, a policeman attached to Wyoming Street District. The machines crashed headon. Mrs. Judson was pronounced dead at Festus.

Mrs. Selma Clede, 4745 Rose avenue, St. Louis County, another passenger in the Mascow car, is in St. John's Hospital in serious condition. The other occupants of the two machines escaped with minor hurts.

AIRPLANE JOY RIDERS SOUGHT BY ST. LOUIS COUNTY SHERIFF

Machine Taken From Steuby's Airport Is Returned With Propeller Broken, Nose Damaged.

The sheriff's office at Clayton has been asked to determine who removed a three-place biplane from a hangar at Steuby's Airport, near Valley Park, and damaged it, presumably in landing after a joy ride early yesterday morning.

Ray Bronson, manager of the field, reported finding the plane, with propeller broken, nose damaged and struts bent, standing near the hangar. He said the damage apparently was done when it nosed over making a landing. The plane, which is the property of Virgil Lane, 3704 Commonwealth avenue, Maplewood, was removed from the hangar after two others had been rolled out to make a clearance. A key was used to enter the hangar, Bronson said.

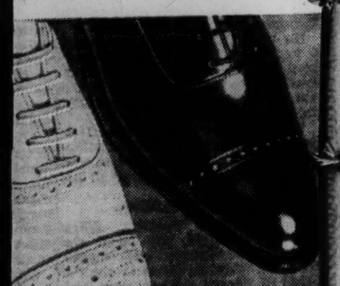

Deputy sheriffs will attempt to fix responsibility through numerous fingerprints they obtained from the damaged plane. Several farmers nearby said they saw a light at the airport about 3 a. m. and later heard a plane droning overhead.

John Roosevelt's Assumed Name.

ATHENS, Tenn., July 18.—The name on the hotel register was "John Aspinwell." Later the tall, sun-tanned youth giving the name was identified as John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, who is spending his summer vacation working in the forestry division of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

ITALY CHARGES ATROCITIES IN ETHIOPIANS' RAID

Numerous Children Mutilated, It Is Said in Attack on "Defenseless" Natives of Eritrea.

MUSSOLINI'S PAPER HINTS WAR IS SURE

"Duel Opened With Arms Cannot Be Resolved Except by Arms," His Journal Declares.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 18.—Italy charged Ethiopian tribesmen today with "mutilating numerous children" in a mass attack on natives of Eritrean Dancali.

The details of the alleged raid on the Italian colony May 31, charged in a propaganda ministry communique, were published for the first time in this morning's Italian newspapers.

"Numerous children were mutilated and left bleeding along the paths of the tribal invasion," it said.

A brother of Chief Mohammed Ahau of the Ethiopian Dancali tribe of Dammohoita, assisted by an Ethiopian chieftain named Negaso, were accused of commanding the invaders. These leaders were called responsible for the infiltration into Eritrean Dancali of large contingents of the Dammohoita tribe and the Alaita tribe of Ethiopian Dancali.

Tribes Said to be Defenseless.

The communique said that at dawn May 31 the attacking tribes struck out along the Madra plain of the Italian colony of Eritrea against the "defenseless" tribes of Gumartho, Gangoita, Auligura and Assa Juad. A small Italian military post at Dol was said to have been surrounded and attacked, but to have driven off the enemy.

Italian reinforcements were sent from Assab, but were unable to reach the scene, the communique said, before the raiders killed and wounded native herders with their women and children, and made off with 4000 head of cattle, as well as many slaves.

The communique said Italian troops halted at the Ethiopian border in response to commands that they should not pursue the raiders beyond the frontier.

Telegram to Eritrean Official.

Premier Mussolini in a telegram today to High Commissioner Gen. Debono of Eritrea said:

"I wish to inform the country the works of thet High Commissioner have been developed in all fields with intense and ceaseless rhythm so as to put Eritrea in a position to face present and future tasks.

"All that is necessay fo the life of a population 10 times increased and of the metropolitan and native army—roads, water, foodstuffs, barracks, communications, hospitals and an infinite number of other necessities—have been provided for, despite the difficulties which, for various reasons, principally that of great distance, have been immense.

"The congestion at the port of Massaua, which gave us lively anxiety, is about to cease. Fascist faith and will has bent the opposition.

"In regard to military services, much remains to do, but I believe the most difficult period has passed."

Article in Mussolini's Paper.

Premier Mussolini's own newspaper Popolo d'Italia, reviewing the Italian-Ethiopian crisis in an article thought to have been written or at least inspired by Mussolini himself, asserted:

"A duel opened with arms cannot be resolved except by arms."

The article said Ethiopia's military preparations, coupled with constant border incidents, constituted a menace which France or England "would confront with cries of 'scandal,' flame and fire if they occurred upon their frontiers."

Terming the League of Nations "a great insurance society for constituted empires," it said Italy did not need the League because as yet it had no empire.

Without Italy, however, the article said, the League would have difficulty in "saving its face." The comment indicated that League members should be cautious about offending Italy.

The responsibility for Italy's difficulties with Ethiopia was laid by the newspaper on Ethiopia itself and on "foreign adventurers who furnished it with arms."

Government Comment.

A Government spokesman said Italy watched developments toward Ethiopian mobilization and a special session of the League of Nations Council, confident of its own preparedness and the justification of its cause. He said Italy was keenly aware of Ethiopian military preparations.

He said Italy was sure Ethiopia did not want peace, citing Ethiopian tactics in the Conciliation Commission which broke up when representatives of the African empire sought to take up boundary issues.

Stating Italy's cause was justifiable, he said nevertheless the nation had received no invitation to meeting about July 25 to deal with the Italian-Ethiopian dispute.

Informed circles predicted Italy would accept such an invitation, but would refuse to yield any of its demands and would oppose any further League efforts to settle the dispute.

The salaries of soldiers and Blackshirts in the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland were increased today to five lire a day (about 40 cents) in Eritrea and six lire in Somaliland.

The steamer Gange sailed from Naples today for East Africa with more than 1000 soldiers.

Seven steamers are being loaded in the harbor there with men and materials intended for East Africa.

EMPEROR CALLS ON ALL ETHIOPIANS TO DEFEND COUNTRY

expand its territory through that victory.

Speech by Tribal Chief.

At the close of the speech, the Somali chief of Ogaden Province arose and spoke in Arabic, translated into Amharic, Ethiopia's state language, pledging his loyalty and the loyalty of his people to Haile Selassie and promising in the name of all Mohammedans their faithfulness and their willingness to fight to the last man.

He shouted: "Long live the Emperor and Ethiopia!"

The Coptic Christian Archbishop Abouna Kyrilos, the head of the Ethiopian Church, preached to the assembly, admonishing unity in the defense of the country. He told his listeners not to fear death and assured them that God was with the Ethiopians.

Ethiopia Adheres to Geneva Red Cross Convention.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, July 18.—The International Committee of the Geneva Red Cross convention announced today that Ethiopia had adhered to the convention, thereby pledging its respect for medical formation.

Before this adherence becomes effective, the Ethiopian Government must transmit the document of adhesion to the Swiss Government which is the depository of ratification.

Treaty to Protect Integrity of Ethiopia Cited at Geneva.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, July 18. — League of Nations circles said today that smaller states would demand that the Council, to deal with the Italian-Ethiopian crisis, protect the integrity of Ethiopia—to which Italy, England and France are committed by the treaty of 1906.

BOONEVILLE DAM AGREEMENT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Roosevelt and his aids reached an understanding today for sale of power from the Bonneville Dam in Oregon by the Power Commission.

Senator McNary (Rep.), Oregon, who participated in the White House meeting, will introduce legislation provided that the War Department shall complete work on the dam and make the contracts for power sales, but the Power Commission is to fix the rates on a basis of amortizing the cost of the dam construction in 50 years.

You've noticed it... people are becoming more critical of whiskey. Do your friends really enjoy the drinks you serve?

Of course they're polite. But what is their honest opinion?

Why take chances? It's so easy to be praised as a host . . . to have people look forward to your drinks. For there's one whiskey more people prefer than any other. Seagram's Crown! GEORGE SISLER JR., GETS SCHOLARSHIP AT COLGATE

Son of St. Louis Baseball Player Receives Award for Academic and Athletic Record.

George Sisler Jr., 6343 Pershing avenue, has received a four-year scholarship at Colgate University, for his academic and athletic record at John Burroughs School, where he was graduated last June. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sisler. His father is the widely known former first baseman and manager of the St. Louis Browns.

At John Burroughs School, young Sisler won letters in football, basketball, baseball and track. His pitching, including a no-hit game, aided the school to win its league baseball championship.

DOMESTIC ALLOTMENT PLAN URGED AS AAA SUBSTITUTE

Congressman Dies Writes Roosevelt; for Paying Benefits Now Due From Works Fund.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A suggestion that the present farm program be replaced with a domestic allotment plan, because of questions of constitutionality of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, was made to President Roosevelt yesterday by Representative Dies (Dem.), Texas.

In a letter Dies advocated that benefit payments already due farmers be paid out of the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund.

"I fear that proceeds from the processing taxes and future collections will be permanently tied up with injunctions," he said. Dies has a domestic allotment bill pending in Congress.

"It seeks to give the farmers a tariff benefit upon that part of their crop domestically consumed which in the case of cotton will be not less than 12 cents a pound and in the case of wheat not less than 42 cents a bushel above the world market price," he explained.

"Under my bill, the American price of cotton, wheat and other basic commodities will be the same as the world price so that we will be abe to compete with foreign producers in the sale of our exportable surpluses and regain our lost trade. My bill is based upon the same principle as the protective tariff and will operate in the same way, insofar as the actual benefits derived by the farmers. . . . There is no question about its constitutionality. . . . The money can be derived from custom receipts or general revenues."

NEW YORK COURT UPHOLDS REVISED PUBLIC ENEMY LAW

Sentences Two Men Under Statute Forbidding Persons of "Evil Reputation" to Associate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Salvatore Spitale, employed as intermediary in the Lindberg kidnaping case, was convicted of violating the State's new public enemy law yesterday by a Magistrate who served notice on the underworld there would be no quibbling over the revised statute.

Convicted with Spitale was Salvatore Arcidiaco, with whom he was dining when police arrested them under a law making it illegal for "known criminals" or men of "evil reputation" to consort with one another.

Magistrate Nathan D. Perlman sentenced both men to three months imprisonment. Their attorneys announced they would appeal, "to the Supreme Court of the United States if necessary."

Spitale was in court dressed for a round of golf. But he went to the Tombs instead. He is a bookmaker.

Magistrate Perlman said the new law, which shifts the burden of proof from the State to the defendants, was constitutional and would answer the purpose for which it was intended.

"Habitual criminals and consistent violators of our laws, having no respect for peace and order, may not justly complain of reasonable legislative regulation of their rights or of their liberty for the purpose of averting an immediate danger," he said.

Sentenced for Killing Fiancee.

By the Associated Press.

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 18.—William F. Letherman, 25 years old, convicted of the churchyard killing of his fiancee, Viola Dennis, was sentenced yesterday to from two and one-half to five years in the Allegheny County workhouse. Defense attorneys announced an appeal. Letherman was released on $10,000 bond. Letherman, son of a school principal at Webster, was convicted of manslaughter.

AMERICAN DANCER FINED $3.30 IN PARIS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 18.—Joan Warner, American dancer, was found guilty today of "outraging the morals" of Paris and was fined 50 francs—$3.30.

The decision makes a basis for prosecution of all nude dancers in theaters and night clubs here.

M. Faudrin, manager of the club where she danced, was fined 200 francs ($13) because of his "purely commercial spirit."

The costs of the trial multiplied the fines eightfold.

The Judge said Miss Warner's "powder and paint somewhat masked her nakedness, but the single article Mlle. Warner wore conceaeld very little." He commented that the dancer "undressed bit by bit. Her dance is artistic, but it is difficult to distinguish between art and indecency—sometimes a look or a gesture will change everything."

WALTHER LEAGUE CONVENTION CLOSES

The Rev. O. A. Geiseman, in Last Sermon Denounces Materialism in Churches.

The forty-third annual convention of the International Walther League, an organization of Lutheran young people, closed today with a final session at the Municipal Auditorium. The convention began on Sunday and was attended by 1500 delegates and visitors from outside St. Louis.

The Rev. J. W. Behnken of Houston, Tex., and the Rev. F. W. Pfotenhauer of Chicago, newly elected and retiring presidents, respectively, of the Missouri Lutheran Synod, addressed the convention this morning. The Rev. Mr. Behnken said "it is encouraging in this age of ungodliness to find a large convention of young people who come together to express their faith."

Summarizes Convention.

Summarizing the work of the convention in the closing sermon, the Rev. Richard R. Caemmerer, pastor of Mount Olive Lutheran Church, St. Louis, said: "We grew in the awareness of the fact that our young people's activities are not to be giggled over, but to pray over. The spiritual note must become even more predominant in our work; personal and individual touch with God by word and prayer must be more generally and more self-evidently the first requisite."

At a service on the athletic field of Concordia Seminary last night, attended by 2000, the Rev. O. A. Geiseman of River Forest, Ill., delivered the last of four sermons on the convention motto, "Thy Kingdom Come.' He said that more than half of the American population is not nominally affiliated with any church, that seven out of every 10 young boys and girls get no religious training, and urged his audience to get more church members.

Materialistic Influence.

"It is true," he said, "that some of these people have turned to churches for a moment, but have come away in disgust, for they discovered that the churches to which they went had become influenced by materialism. It is a tragic fact that not a few of the so-called Christian churches have abandoned the fundamental truths of the Bible and have degenerated into second and third rate social agencies, interested only in man's physical welfare."

He called attention to the fact that the Lutheran church has "at the present time a trained army of several hundred young men," graduates of a theological school, who are waiting to be assigned to pastorates. "These men cannot be sent," he said, "not because their services are no longer needed, but because funds are not available. Surely this is a pitiful testimony to the sincerity and earnestness of our prayer, 'Thy Kingdom Come.'"

Next Convention at Houston.

The service last night followed a tour of the city on which the delegates were taken to places of civic and Lutheran interest. It was voted to hold the 1936 convention in Houston, Tex.

100,000 LETTERS AND CARDS FOR LINDBERGH COLLECTION

Mail Sent to Flyer Being Classified and Labeled at Jefferson Memorial.

Classification and labeling of more than 100,000 letters and postal cards mailed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, an accumulation of eight years, has almost been completed by the Missouri Historical Society, custodian of the Lindbergh trophy collection at Jefferson Memorial.

Working in spare time, Mrs. Nettie H. Beauregard, curator, and Miss Anne Kinnaird, assistant archivist, have gone through a dozen huge boxes stored in the basement and arranged 27,884 postal cards, 57,438 envelopes and hundreds of miscellaneous bundles of newspapers in steel filing cabinets.

The large boxes of mail which the society received for safe keeping after Lindbergh's flight to Paris in 1927 have been increased by thousands of additional letters from admirers which followed his various good will and exploration flights. Only a few letters from important personages have been placed on exhibition with the Lindbergh collection.

NATION-WIDE RED CROSS DRIVE ON AUTO FATALITIES

Campaign Calling for 15,000 Roadside First Aid Stations to Begin in Fall.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A campaign against automobile fatalities calling for establishment of 15,000 roadside first aid stations throughout the United States is being planned by the American Red Cross. Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Red Cross chairman, said today in announcing the undertaking that it would be started "sometime this fall."

Present plans call for a permanent bureau of public safety here to co-operate the work of contributory organizations. The present 37,000 Red Cross chapters will be drawn on heavily for field work, Grayson said.

Persons trained in first aid will man each of the 15,000 emergency stations and in addition to rendering assistance at the scene of accidents will show moving pictures and give first aid talks to persons interested. Telephone company employes and boy and girl scouts will be asked to co-operate.

TREASURY BONDS AT 2.78 PCT.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The Treasury's sale on an auction basis of a third block of bonds, amounting to $100,000,000, was described by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today as "very successful." He said tenders had been received for a total of $510,958,000 of the 2⅞ per cent bonds, maturing 1955-60. Of that amount $100,967,000 was accepted at prices ranging from 101 27-32 to 101 19-32.

Prices accepted were equivalent to a yield of about 2.78 per cent to maturity, said to equal the lowest interest rate the Treasury has paid for comparable loans.

CHARGES HIS WIFE BEAT HIM

Charges that his wife struck him on the head with a telephone and a poker last Christmas day were made by William F. Davinroy, coal trucker of 831 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, in a suit for divorce filed in East St. Louis City Court yesterday.

Two weeks later, his petition stated, she threw a jar of cold cream at him and kicked him. He asked for the divorce on the ground of cruelty. His wife, Mrs. Aurietta Davinroy, lives in French Village.

Thousands of visitors were present to view the street pageantry and to see Paul "in person," a figure 12 feet in height, woodsman's ax on his shoulder and a jovial smile parting his grizzled whiskers. AUTO CRASH VICTIM DIES OF TETANUS

Earl W. Thompson, 32, Famous-Barr Floor Walker, Hurt July 6 in Illinois.

Earl W. Thompson, floor walker for a department store, died at City Hospital yesterday afternoon of tetanus resulting from injuries suffered in an automobile accident on an Illinois highway July 6.

Thompson, 32 years old, was thrown o.. of his roadster, driven by his wife, Betty, in a headon collision with another machine near Red Bud. He suffered lacerations of the face, arms and shoulders, and was given anti-tetanus serum by his physician two days later.

A definite diagnosis of tetanus was made early yesterday and Thompson was ordered to the hospital. He was employed by the Famous-Barr Co., and resided at 2754 Meramec street.

Mrs. Thompson told police that the other machine was driven on a zigzag course, causing her to swerve partly off the highway in an effort to avoid a crash. The driver identified himself as Elmer Ruthsatz, 2300A St. Louis avenue, she said.

Police today found Ruthsatz, a salesman for the Stix, Baer & Fuller Co., under treatment at his home for internal injuries suffered in the accident. He was placed under bond returnable next Wednesday.

290,000 FARM FAMILIES TAKEN OFF RELIEF IN YEAR

Most of These Now Under Rural Rehabilitation Bureau, Others Self-Sustaining.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Rural resettlement officials said today that 290,155 farm families were taken off relief rolls in the year ended last April through rehabilitation activities formerly under the relief administration.

The latest reports showed that in April, a total of 212,712 farm families were listed as rural rehabilitation clients. They had been removed from the direct relief olls of FERA.

Officials said that the difference between the total number of families taken off relief rolls during the year and the total number of families under the rehabilitation classification on May 1, was due to the fact that thousands of families had returned to a self-sustaining basis.

They said the latest estimate from FERA placed the number of rural farm families receiving direct relief at approximately 825,000.

Estimating an average of five persons to the family, officials said approximately 4,125,000 individuals on farms were receiving direct relief, and that 1,450,000 had been removed from relief during the past 12 months.

Reports indicated $29,234,691, or an average of $101 a family, had been spent by the rehabilitation agency in helping relief families re-establish themselves. Missouri had 21,805 rehabilitation clients on May 1.

A precious case of GILBEY'S GIN swayed on a carrier's kinky head as Stanley bowed, "Dr. Livingstone, I presume"

THE day that Henry Stanley jumped off into Darkest Africa to find the long-lost Dr. Livingstone, Gilbey's Gin was barely five years old. But even so, its fame was already so great that when Stanley stopped at Bagamoyo for supplies Gilbey's was there on the British traders' shelves.

Day by day, for 69 years, the fame of Gilbey's grew. Where the British flag went, Gilbey's went too. And from placid windows of Piccadilly clubs to crackling campfires at the far corners of the earth, men who loved fine liquors came to know the mellow vigor and rare delicacy of Gilbey's.

Today, the extraordinary quality that made Gilbey's one of the world's great liquors, now comes to you at a most extraordinarily LOW price! For Gilbey's is now made in America . . . which immediately eliminates all tariff duties. And made under the control of America's greatest distilling organization from grain to bottle . . . which effects astonishing additional savings in the price.

When you can have this international quality at the same price you pay now for ordinary gins . . . well, it's your own fault if you don't mix the world's best-tasting gin drinks from now on.

BLACKHEADS?
PIMPLES? OPEN PORES?

Not If You Let This Sensational Beautifier Keep Your Skin Clear

Thousands of women who formerly were miserable over a skin spoiled by blackheads, whiteheads, large pores and blemishes, now rave about a new beautifier. This exciting preparation contains live oxygen that penetrates into the mouths of the pores, purges them of poisons, cleans out the dirt, detaches worn-out tissues, and loosens ugly blackheads.

When the dirt and grease are gone, the pores close up to normal size and the skin resumes its natural, clear appearance. It is soft, smooth, and finely-textured. Sallow or muddy color is gone, while lines, spots, freckles, flakiness and patches of tan are literally wiped away in a short time.

No beautifier in the world is like Dioxogen Cream. It is the only preparation that supplies active oxygen to the skin. Oxygen is the precious substance that gives color to the rose.

No long waiting for results with Dioxogen Cream. From the first time you use it, you see that your skin is becoming fairer and clearer . . . the pores less open. Even the woman with a complexion that has "gone to pieces" soon becomes enthusiastic about Dioxogen Cream.

Dioxogen Cream is lovely to use and never disappoints you. Simply follow the easy directions with every jar—apply it generously at night, when you remove make-up. In the morning, after you've washed your face, apply a very thin layer as a powder base. Dioxogen Cream thus works to beautify you 24 hours a day. It benefits every type of skin . . . corrects excess oiliness, prevents dryness and flakiness.

NAZI PRESS CALLS FOR MORE DRASTIC ANTI-JEWISH LAWS

Violent Attacks Are Dropped by Government Order but Newspaper Campaign Goes On.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 18.—Nazi Jew-baiters dropped their more violent methods by Government order today but the anti-Semitic campaign continued in the press.

The newspaper Judenkenner, which rivals the Stuermer in its anti-Semitic views, advocated the death penalty for Jews guilty of intimacy with Aryan women.

The Nazi party's syndicate service, in an article in the National Sozialistische Partei Korrespondenz, demanded that Jews be forbidden to rent apartments to Aryans, engage Aryan domestic help or accept Aryan clients, under pain of death if necessary.

A postcard depicting an Aryan girl standing in a gutter with a Jewish pair and surrounded by Storm Troopers was shown in a conscpicuous place. A placard around the girl's neck bore this rhyme:

A swine am I, the town about
With Jews alone do I go out.

Printed in large type below the picture was a warning to passers-by: "Do you want to be photographed like that?"

Reports from the Schoenberg district said large crowds congregated before a Jewish-owned shop there, but that the disturbance was confined to shouts as police looked on.

Press Criticises Reports.

The controlled press protested bitterly against "atrocity" reports abroad of the anti-Semitic disorders, although they did not deny that the outbreaks occurred. Columns were devoted to criticism of such reports under such headlines as "Unjustified Foreign Atrocity Campaign," "Malicious Reports," and "Exaggerated Descriptions."

One newspaper, the Nachtausgabe, asserted: "No German editor ever would think of publishing any of those foreign blody clashes which occur daily."

It cited as examples, "the lynching of two Negroes and strikes in which 50 persons, seriously injured, were treated in hospitals."

(Reports of lynchings in the United States have been delivered to the German press by the official agency and published, as have been reports of disorders elsewhere such as those in Belfast, Northern Ireland).

Musical Leader Ousted.

Prof. Gustav Havemann has been summarily removed by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels from his post as leader of the Reich Musicians' Guild.

Prof. Havemann was reported to have aroused Goebbels' displeasure when he attempted to intervene on behalf of the composer Paul Hindemith, who has been under the suspicions of the Nazis because of his Jewish affiliations.

Havemann, one of the oldest Nazi musicians, had taken Hindemith's part with Wilhelm Furtwaengler, who resigned last September as leader of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, in opposing the Nazi boycott of Hindemith's works.

It was reported that Reichfuehrer Hitler virtually agreed with Havemann's contention that Hindemith should be given a clean bill of health, but that Goebbels—unaware of Hitler's views—dismissed Havemann nevertheless.

AMERICAN EDITOR OF BIBLE MAGABINE SEIZED BY NAZIS

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 18.—M. C. Harbeck, the American editor of the German edition of the magazine "Golden Age," published in Berne, Switzerland, by the International Bible Students' Society, was arrested today by Berlin secret police.

Harbeck was permitted to communicate with the United States Consulate General. Harbeck was charged with attempting to remove money from property under attachment and of maintaining connections with the Watchtower Bible Society, an organization barred by the Nazi Government.

It was also alleged that, as editor of the Golden Age issue published in Berne, he printed attacks on the present German Government. The Bible students society has long maintained a printing plant at Magdeburg. The Nazis closed the plant once but the United States Consulate intervened and the plant was permitted to reopen. Recently civil action was brought against the plant and it was sealed. Authorities allege Harbeck took out money which fell under the seal provisions.

BUSTER KEATON'S WIFE SUES HIM AND WOMAN

Seeks Divorce and $200,000, Alleging Mrs. Leah Sewell Stole His Affections.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 18.—Mrs. Mae Elizabeth Keaton filed suit yesterday, asking for a divorce from Buster Keaton, movie comedian. She also filed a $200,000 alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Leah Clampitt Sewell.

Mrs. Keaton's petition charged that she found her husband and Mrs. Sewell together in a Santa Barbara County hotel July 4, and that they remained there for three days.

The Keatons were married Oct. 21, 1933, at Ventura, Cal., after his divorce from Natalia Talmadge.

Mrs. Sewell appeared yesterday before Superior Judge Marshall F. McComb in connection with her application for a receiver for the $28,000,000 trust fund of her husband, Barton W. Sewell, pending trial of her suit for separate maintenance. She termed Mrs. Keaton's suit "ridiculous."

"I think Mrs. Keaton will be very sorry she started anything like this," Mrs. Sewell said. "I've fought all this time to protect my good name and I am not going to stop now."

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell figured in the "wife-swapping" divorce suit last February of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Emerson. At that time Emerson named Sewell as co-respondent and Mrs. Emerson named Mrs. Sewell as co-respondent in her cross complaint.

Mrs. Sewell was exonerated by Judge Ben B. Lindsey, who denied a divorce to the Emersons. Sewell has a divorce suit pending in Las Vegas, Nev.

Garrido Said to Be on Way for Conference With Mexican President.

MEXICO, D. F., July 18.—Hundreds of students advanced on the Southeastern State of Tabasco today, determined to carry on their campaign to end the dictatorial rule there of Tomas Garrido Canabal.

Garrido was reported to be on the way to Guadalajara to confer with President Lazaro Cardenas. Dispatches from Tehuacan, Puebla, said one of Garrido's planes landed there last night with the former Secretary of Agriculture and five bodyguards.

In a clash Monday in Tabasco, four students and four followers of Garrido were killed.

JAPANESE BOAT ON AMUR REPORTED HIT BY RIFLE FIRE

Protest to Be Made to Russia Over Disabling of Gold Seekers' River Craft.

TOKIO, July 18.—Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatches from Harbin said today the Japanese authorities there were informed that a small river boat belonging to a Japanese gold mining company and flying the Japanese flag while seeking alluvial gold was subjected to rifle fire from the Soviet bank of the Amur July 9 while seeking gold in the sands.

The three Japanese aboard the ship, 250 miles upstream from Blagoveschensk, escaped unharmed, the officials said, but the rifle fire disabled the engine of the boat and it drifted downstream for two days before coming alongside a Manchoukuan gunboat.

The foreign office of the Japanese-sponsored State of Manchoukuo announced its intention to deliver a strong protest to Russia.

NEGRO ACCUSED OF SWINDLING SEVERAL LAWYERS ARRESTED

Obtained Small Amounts of Money After Retaining Them on Fictitious Accidents.

A Negro identified as one who has obtained small amounts of money from several lawyers after retaining them to represent him in accidents which never happened was arrested yesterday at Twenty-third street and Lucas avenue.

Detectives picked him up principally because his turned-up, pointed-toe shoes were conspicuous That had been an element in the description of the swindler given by each of the attorneys from whom he obtained money. In each instance he told the attorney that a member of his family had been killed in an accident. After employing the attorney, the Negro "borrowed" what he could from him.

ARMED ROBBER GETS $256 IN CLEANING COMPANY BRANCH

Returns $2 to Customer at 949 Goodfellow Bl. When She Says It Is All She Has.

A branch of the Howard Cleaners Inc. at 949 Goodfellow boulevard was robbed of $256 at 5:40 p. m. yesterday by an armed man who held up the manager, Mrs. Lucille Anselm, a collector for the company, Dudley Cochran, and two woman customers.

The robber took $250 from Cochran, who had just called at the store, and $6 from the cash register. He took a purse containing $2 from Mrs. James Barry, 5729 Chamberlain avenue, a customer, but gave it back when Mrs. Barry told him it was "all she had for supper."

TENNESSEE JUDGE BARS PWA-TVA LOAN TO CITY

Overrules Demurrer to Injunction Against Federally Financed Distribution System.

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 18.—Chancellor A. E. Mitchell upheld yesterday the right of the Tennessee Public Service Co., a local utility, to a temporary injunction restraining the City of Knoxville from building a municipal electric power istribution system to use Tennessee Valley Authority current. He overruled the city's demurrer which tested the company's right to a temporary injunction on questions of law alone.

The city's attorneys announced an appeal would be taken to the State Supreme Court.

The city had obtained a $2,600,000 loan and grant from the Public Works Administration and started construction of a municipal system when it was stopped by a temporary injunction last March 27.

Chancellor Mitchell held that the Federal Government through the PWA had no constitutional authority to make a loan and grant to the city to build a distribution system since such a system "is purely intrastate," and the loan and grant "is not in connection with any of the delegated powers of the Federal Government."

He held the TVA had no right to fix the resale rate of its surplus electricity "as such is an unconstitutional invasion by the Federal Government of the jurisdiction of Tennessee, and the right to control rates of utilities in Tennessee is entirely State business."

NEW YORK RELIEF PROJECTS INCLUDE SURVEYS OF 70 KINDS

One of Them Is Finding Out What Those on Rolls Can Do; Another Is Depth of Rocks.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Seventy kinds of surveys for New York City, ranging from mapping the rocks beneath to studying the clarity of the air above, were approved yesterday by President Roosevelt.

They formed a large share of the 136 work relief projects for that city for which the President approved the use of $20,642,700.

Some of the biggest projects on the list were: Slum survey, broadening city school work, extending vocational school facilities, establishing street and play centers for children and unemployed adults and finding out what work those on relief rolls can do.

Among the topics listed for surveys and research work were: Mapping the location, extent, character and depth below the surface of rock in the city, a study of light and heat and power needed, a study of fuel burning methods and an air pollution survey.

BROWNING'S DEATHBED BEQUESTS HELD VOID

$300,000 of Realty Man's $9,000,000 Estate Goes to Adopted Daughter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Counsel for Dorothy Sunshine Hood sought today to obtain the entire $9,000,000 estate of Edward W. (Daddy) Browning for his adopted daughter, already the winner of $300,000 in bequests denied to others.

The $300,000 in gifts were invalidated yesterday when Surrogate James A. Delehanty refused probate to a deathbed codicil, holding that the real estate operator was mentally incompetent when it was attached to his will last October. It had been signed with an "X."

Declared intestate property, the $300,000 will go to Mrs. Hood as next of kin.

"The testimony of (Browning's business attorney, Victor K.) Ross that he read the paper to the deceased is untrue," wrote the surrogate. "The proof is that Browning was sleeping at the time."

With few exceptions, Surrogate Delehanty pointed out, provision had been made in the codicil for "everyone who could give any information as to the actual condition of the deceased during the last four weeks of his life."

The codicil bequeathed $100,000 to a hospital, $100,000 to a sister, and smaller amounts to doctors, nurses and others. It named the attorney as one of three executors for the estate.

The original will, which left $25,000-a-year income to Mrs. Hood, bequeathed 98 per cent of the estate to charity. It was this which Daniel A. Shirk, Mrs. Hood's counsel, planned to attack next. The law provides that not more than half of an estate shall be left to philanthropies if relatives survive.

W. Z. FOSTER OUTLINES PLAN FOR WORKERS' PARTY IN U. S.

Writes in Moscow Communist Publication That It Could Run Candidate in 1936.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 18.—A plan to build a workers' party in the United States was outlined by William Z. Foster, former Communist candidate for President of the United States, in an article today in the magazine Communist International, the official organ of the Comintern, international party central organization.

He said the party would constitute a united front of all workers and farmers desiring to break with the two major political parties and might be sufficiently organized to have a presidential candidate in 1936.

He said it would be a mistake to try to organize the party under Communist control but declared that Communists were bound nevertheless, "if they act energetically," to acquire a leading influence in it.

Foster said that among the "demands of the people," which could go into a party platform would be unemployment insurance and old-age pensions, payment of the bonus to the war veterans, a 30-hour working week, a national minimum wage law, aid to impoverished farmers, a check on growing taxes, aid to small home owners, prohibition of child labor and equal rights for Negroes.

BRITISH STEAMERS COLLIDE

By the Associated Press.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 18.—The steamships Niagara of the Canadian Australasian line and the King Egbert, a lumber carrier of the King line, docked here today after a collision 23 miles off Race Rocks last night. Both vessels returned to port under their own power. The Niagara was struck a glancing blow by the King Egbert, and ship's officers said she appeared to be stove in astern. The King Egbert was badly stove in at the bow, the damage extending backward to the collision bulkhead. Her forecastle was demolished and hawser pipes and anchor carried away.

Among the passengers on board the Niagara is Joseph A. Lyons, Premier of Australia.

MINNEAPOLIS POSTMASTER DIES

W. C. Robertson, Former Newspaper Man, Succumbs in Columbus, O.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—William C. Robertson, Postmaster of Mineapolis, and newly elected grand treasurer of the Benevolent and Portective Order of Elks, died in his hotel room today apparently from heart attack. Robertson, who was 48 years old, was formerly managing editor of the Minneapolis Star.

He had been engaged in newspaper work in the West for many years and was widely known in the profession. He served three terms as exalted ruler of the Minneapolis Elks' lodge.

Two Drowned in Missouri River.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 18.—A frightened 10-year-old boy last night told of the drowning of two playmates when police investigating their disappearance found they had left home with him. The victims were Harry Bennett Jr., 10, and his brother, Merle, 8, who strayed too far into the Missouri River here and were swept to their deaths, Albert Sladish, 10, related.

RED ANT KILLS BLACK WIDOW SPIDER, NATURALIST REPORTS

Placed in Bowl With It, Smaller Insect Bites Off First Its Legs, Then Its Head.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—Frank Wilmoth, amateur naturalist, caught a black widow spider and put it in a fish bowl for observation. He also dropped in a red ant, thinking it would serve as food for the spider.

Suddenly the ant attacked the spider, he said, tearing off one leg. In less than an hour the ant had amputated all the spider's legs. Then it killed it by cutting off its head.

Yesterday a black widow spider was matched in a fight with a gray wolf spider, 10 times its size. The black widow killed it in a short time. The red ant was smaller than the spider.

SEVENTH DEATH IN FIGHTING BETWEEN IRISH FACTIONS

Clash Occurs at Cemetery During Burial of Victim of Clash; Snipers Fire on Marchers.

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 18.—The disorders arising from Orangemen's celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne resulted in a seventh death today. James Andrews, sole support of his blind parents, was killed by a sniper's shot.

Church leaders took steps to bring peace. Protestant Bishop MacNeice called a meeting of his clergy to "help create an atmosphere without which we cannot hope for peace."

Catholic leaders sent to Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland an "emphatic protest against the inadequacy of measures taken by the Northern Government to end the un-Christian campaign in Belfast."

The charred ruins of 15 houses burned last night were guarded against looters by 150 special officers.

The first trouble yesterday occured at a cemetery where one of the victims of the Catholic-Protestant fighting was being buried. The two factions stoned each other until a volley from troops and soldiers' rifles, fired over their heads, dispersed them. Returning from the funeral, 6000 men, carrying the British flag, were fired on by snipers from the Carrick Hill, nationalist section. At Donegal street, at the other end of Carrick Hill, there was heavier fire. Police knelt in the streets and poured fire into the snipers' nest. Passengers lay on the floors of street cars as police, riding in a small tank, fired a machine gun into the air to disperse gatherings. Many persons were taken to hospitals with injuries inflicted by thrown rocks.

Another Earthquake in Formosa.

TAIHOKU, Formosa, July 18.—A fresh earthquake rocked the districts of Byoritsu and Chikanan today, terrorizing anew the inhabitants of the earthquake-ridden area. No fatalities were reported.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Gordon W. Bull, 62 years old, widely known commission man, died in a hospital today of two bullet wounds which Chief of Police Clyde McGuire of Wilmette said were self-inflicted. Bull, former director of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, shot himself yesterday, McGuire said. He left three notes telling of financial reverses.

And for tub washing—marvelous! Soaks clothes whiter, brighter—safely

IF YOU'RE not fortunate enough to own a washer — then that's all the more reason why you should use Rinso. For Rinso's rich, lively suds loosen and soak out dirt with absolute safety. And the dirt doesn't "settle back" because Rinso suds have "lifting power"—they hold dirt in suspension. The dirt stays in the wash water and drains away; so your clothes never get that dingy, half-washed look. Clothes come 4 or 5 shades whiter. They last 2 or 3 times longer, too — because they don't have to be scrubbed or boiled. That means you'll save lots of money.

Rinso gives creamy, lasting suds—even in hardest water. Recommended by makers of 34 famous washers. Grand for dishes and all cleaning. Easy on hands. Get the BIG household package.

ST. LOUIS JUNIOR CHAMPION LOSES TO CALIFORNIAN AT DES MOINES

By Davison Obear.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 18.—Richard Tindall, St. Louis junior champion, was eliminated in the quarter-final round of the Missouri Valley junior tennis championship here this morning by Robert Riggs of Los Angeles, the recent winner of the California junior singles title. The score was 6—1, 6—1.

There were three deuce games in the first set and two in the second. Riggs' cross court shots featured in his victory.

Tindall's defeat left four St. Louisans in the running for Valley championships.

Merceina Weiss, St. Louis girl, advanced to the semifinal round of the women's singles through her victory over Betty Howard, Des Moines player. The score was 6—0, 6—0. Miss Weiss will oppose Betty Butler, Des Moines, in the semifinal tomorrow.

Tindall had a busy time yesterday. In the morning, he defeated Robert Sandler, Des Moines, 7—5, 6—3, in the junior singles and then came back in the afternoon to lose a hard fought match to John Vander Zee of Iowa City, Ia., in the men's singles.

In the first set of his match against Sandler, Tindall was not up to top form. He was somewhat erratic but in the second set played splendidly. It took Vander Zee three sets with a total of 41 games before he could down the 17-year-old St. Louis junior. In the first set, Vander Zee led at 5 to 0 in games only to have Tindall rally to bring the score to 5-all. The Iowa player led again at 9 to 8 in games, but Tindall took three straight to win the set, 11—9.

Vander Zee found Tindall a little tired at the start of the second set and by some very consistent playing won the set, 6—3. The St. Louisan came back in the third set and quickly ran up a 5 to 2 lead. He began to slow down in the next game and Vander Zee took five straight games, and the set, 7—5, and the match.

Howard Stephens Jr. found it impossible to break up the net attack of Ed Davis, Peoria, Ill., player in their third round men's singles match and lost, 6—3, 6—2. The St. Louis player won the first, seventh and ninth games in the first set. There were three deuce games in this set. Stephens won the first and sixth games in the second set in which there were two deuce games.

RACE JUDGES BOOED WHEN 25-TO-1 SHOT IS DECLARED WINNER

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY TRACK, N. Y., July 18.—Mrs. L. H. Nimkoff's Legionary, allowed to recede in the betting to 25 to 1, scored a nose victory in the Irvington, a class "C" handicap at a mile and a sixteenth here today. The four-year-old daughter of Cohort, ridden by B. Wimmer, just lasted to beat W. N. Adrians' consistent Golden Way.

C. V. Whitney's Rough Diamond and the Starmount Stable's Brindle followed as named in the blanket finish.

There was booing of the judges' decision, many thinking Golden Way had made the grade on the outside, but it was so close that only the officials were in a position to decide the verdict. Legionary ran the distance in 1:46 3-5. This filly won three races at Jamaica in the spring, but failed in good company at Rockingham in June. She had since been rested up, but the layoff did not dull her speed.

Breaks May Decide Davis Cup Match Between United States And Germany, Nusslein Says

By Hans Nusslein,

(Copyright, 1935.)

LONDON, July 18.—The outcome of the German-American Davis Cup final to be played at Wimbledon next Saturday, Monday and Tuesday is so close that a slight break for either team may be the deciding factor. Having worked with the American team in their own country and since coming here, I am naturally deeply interested in their fate. As a German, I am proud of the fact that the German team has so ably won its way to the inter-zone final. I feel that I know the capabilities of both German and American players equally well.

As to the Germans—Baron von Cramm I know personally as a very pleasant fellow and a fine sportsman. As a tennis player he ranks second only to Perry. He has lost but two matches this season, the finals of the French and British championships — in both cases to Perry.

NUSSLEIN.

In the Australian-German Davis cup tie Von Cramm defeated both Crawford and McGrath. Crawford defeated Sidney Wood and McGrath defeated Wilmer Allison at Wimbledon. Von Cramm defeated Don Budge at Wimbledon. Judging from comparative play it wouldn't be a wild guess to say that Von Cramm might easily win both his singles against the American team whether Allison and Wood fi the singles assignments or whether Budge is used in one singles berth as now seems probable.

Von Cramm is an easy, fluent player. His most dangerous weapon is a powerful first service which carries almost as much dynamite as Tilden's famous cannon-ball delivery. His second service is a treacherous, twisting affair aimed at his opponents backhand.

The German ace proved himself dangerous as a doubles opponent last week when he was drafted for doubles duty with Lund against the Czech team. He dominated the match and added a doubles victory to his two singles in that tie. Von Cramm is 26 years old, an experienced internationalist and of sturdy physique.

Young Heiner Henkel, No. 2 man on the German team, is, like Budge, getting his first taste of international play this season. And like the American boy, he has shown that he stands in no awe of older and more experienced opponents. He won his stripes by defeating both Crawford and McGrath in the Australian-German tie.

Forced Borotra to Five Sets.

At Wimbledon he had the luck, good or bad, to draw Borotra in the first round. The youngster went right to it and by keeping the Frenchman from going to the net as much as possible and by passing him when he did succeed in getting there, finished the fourth set on equal terms with his famous opponent. At this point it looked as if Heiner might add another noted player to his list of victims. But the Frenchman pulled out the fifth set by the volleying of which he is a past master. The score, 6—4, 1—6, 8—6, 2—6, 6—2, shows the closeness of this match.

Henkel carried Rodermich Menzel to five sets in the German-Czech tie, winning 20 games to Menzel's 25 in two and one-half hours of play. He won his match against Jon Caska, No. 2 Czech player.

Henkel appears to have an even chance to win one singles match in the series against the Americans.

LOCAL TEAM DEFEATS KENTUCKY COLONELS

Lou Kissel, 15-year-old Buick pitcher, handed the Kentucky Colonels their first defeat in 45 games as the South Side Buick-Pontiac, leaders of the Congress Men's League at the National Park, shaded the Colonels, 5-4, in a 10-inning game at the National softball park last night.

The Colonels will close their series tonight when they meet the Weber-Deibels. Joe Bommaretta will pitch for the home club, with Bailey again hurling for the Kentuckians.

Aubuchon-Dennison Team To Play Ironton Nine for Southeast Missouri Title

By Harold Tuthill.

The Aubuchon-Dennison Post, city champions of the American Junior Legion baseball race, will meet Ironton, Mo., for the Southeast Missouri title, it was learned today. The game probably will be played next Monday afternoon at Sherman Park.

The St. Louis title winners will be in good shape to start the drive for the State championship, for of the 15 players on the squad only one, Thomas Bishop, second baseman, is on the injured list. He has a sprained ankle. If he is unable to play, Richard Egan, third baseman, will move to second and Herbert Vallat will play third.

A New "Pretzel Battery."

In all probability the "pretzel battery" of Norvall Hunthausen and Joe Schultz will start against Ironton. This combination carried the Anderson Post to the State final last year. They prepared for the past Junior Legion season by working for the St. Louis University School team this spring.

Hunthausen pitched four of the seven victories that the Aubuchon team scored over the other members in the Junior Legion League race. Louis Kissel, twin brother of Lester Kissel, hurled two victories, while Jimmy Byrne chalked up one and suffered the only defeat recorded against Aubuchon.

Incidentally, Hunthausen missed being over age by only nine days, for the rule for eligibility states that a boy must not be 17 years old by June 30. Hunthausen's seventeenth birthday was on July 9. The youngest player on the team is Larry O'Connell, who was born Jan. 24, 1920.

If the Aubuchon team survives the battle with Ironton, it will meet the winner of the northeast quarter for the championship of the eastern half of Missouri. The victor then will play the western half champion for the State title and the right to represent Missouri in the national tournament.

The tentative Aubuchon lineup now is Hunthausen, pitcher, and Schultz, catcher; Jack Bowers, first base; Richard Egan, second; Thomas Woodruff, short; Herbert Vallat, third; Clayton Mudd, left field; Larry O'Connell, center, and Bernard Steele, right. That leaves Louis Kissel and James Byrne as reserve pitchers, Lester Kissel as spare infielder, Francis Brady as alternate catcher and Teddy Johns as an extra outfielder.

Seven From St. L. U. High.

Seven of the players on the squad attended St. Louis University High. They are Bishop, Hunthausen, Schultz, Woodruff, Brady, Mudd and Egan. The Kissel twins attended Scruggs and were in the ninth grade. O'Connell and Steele went to St. Marks and were in the eighth grade, as was Johns at Rock Springs. Vallat was in the ninth grade at Benton and neither Bowers nor Byrne was in school last spring.

CAREY BOUGHT BY THE BROWNS FROM ROCHESTER

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Browns today announced a deal whereby they obtained the services of Infielder Thomas Carey from the Rochester club of the International League. For Carey, the Browns gave Bob Weiland, who has been out on option to the Albany club of the International, and cash in the amount, it was said, of $7500.

Carey, who went south in the spring with the Cardinals and who was the propert, of that club, last year played in 142 games, batted .287 with 165 hits for a total of 218 bases. His hits included 28 doubles, eight triples and three home runs. He batted in 81 runs during the season. He is a right-handed hitter.

Needed Reserve Infielder.

With Bejma on the inactive list, Hornsby needed another infielder badly inasmuch as Burnett has not come up to expectations and Hornsby and Bell, an outfielder, are the only other reservists who can take over an infield post.

The trade was the first business at a conference between Hornsby and President Louis B. Von Weise. Of course, it may be a bit early—the second half of the present season having just begun—to go into the matter of the manager's tenure of office. Probably, if the matter does arise, it would be a question not of whether the club officials are satisfied with Hornsby, but whether Hornsby is satisfied to continue at the helm of a club unless there is some assurance that the team will be strengthened so as to be more nearly a major league organization than it is at the present time.

Hornsby says he is satisfied that the officials have done all in their power to give him what he wants and that he is sure they will continue to do so. He does not blame the present status of the Browns on lack of help from the "front office," but rather on the non-coming-through of several of them on whom he had counted strongly for 1935.

Players Failed to Com. Through.

"I figured Burns, Melillo, Strange and Clift would develop into a real infield," he said today. "What happened: Melillo and Strange are gone because neither came up to the standard expected of them with the coming of a new season. Last year, Burns had a bad season, and it didn't seem possible he would repeat. But, he did. Then, Clift, who looked like a sure comer, failed to advance. He is playing pretty fair ball right now, but during the first months of the season was far below what had been expected of him.

"We made some trades, some of which worked out well. Certainly Lary is a better all round shortstop than Strange, and will hit better as well. Weiland and Burnett came from Cleveland in exchange for Campbell, and we got some cash, too. Weiland is gone. Burnett is doing some good relief work for us, while Campbell is having his best season with Cleveland, even though his batting hasn't seemed to help the Indians much.

"Coleman and Solters certainly have added to our punch. Cain started out well, but has petered out of late. So, at least, we haven't stood still. And, we're not going to. As for myself, everyone knows how kindly I feel toward St. Louis. I haven't any idea that Mr. von Weise and myself will even bring up the matter of the 1936 season. There are too many things to be done right now."

Asked if his contract held over for next year, Hornsby said, "No; my contract is only for 1935, and I believe the same is true for that under which Vice-President McEvoy is working."

WESTERN GOLF CHAMPION WINS IN FIRST MATCH

By the Associated Press.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 18.—Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City, the defending champion, easily advanced through the first round of the Western amateur golf touranment here today with a 5 to 4 victory over Nathan Grimes, Denver.

The 22-year-old titleholder closed out his opponent with a birdie 3 on the 418-yard fourteenth. Well on his game and missing only one green, the thirteenth, Eaton was three under par when the match ended.

A notable feature about the match play was the absence of Chick Evans, Chicago veteran, who failed to qualify for the first time in his 26 years of competition in the tournament.

Rodney Bliss of Omaha, the medalist who shot 142, two over par, in the 36-hole qualifying test, scored a rallying 3 and 1 triumph over 18-year-old Charley Reasor, the Oklahoma high school champion from Duncan.

Paul Leslie, 18-year-old Louisiana State University freshman from Jefferson City, Mo., defeated Logan Van Zandt, Tulsa, 4 and 3.

Bagging 14 pars and going over on only two holes, Neil Smith, Dallas, turned out Ben Cowdery, Omaha, 3 and 2.

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, former U. S. open champion, stuck his second shot on the home green, two feet fro mthe pin, for a birdie 3, and a 1 up decision over Dave Connell of Raton, N. M.

Gus Moreland of Peoria, Ill., Western champion in 1932, pulled out of a hard struggle with a 1-up, extra hole decision over Bob Conliff Jr., Oklahoma City.

Shabby Treatment.

FREDDIE MILLER of Cincinnati is one ring champion who has won the respect and approbation of fans in two continents. Sports writers abroad praised him for his willingness to defend his crown and for his sportsmanship in the ring.

MILLER.

Yet the Illinois Boxing commission recently notified Miller that unless he defended his title in this country within 60 days his championship would be vacated.

Considering that Miller has been defending his title at frequent intervals during the last year, the Illinois commission seems to be going out of its way to show its importance. As Illinois has been working with New York and California, the embargo may seriously limit Miller's sphere of action.

Miller had to go abroad to clear his world title by beating the British champion, Nel Tarleton. Miller fought 35 battles in Europe, many of them in defense of his crown. He has beaten Arizmendi and Casanova, America's standout challengers.

If the Illinois commission can find another champion who has done as much, we will arrange a testimonial for its members. Miller is about the only world champion who doesn't have to be begged to defend his honors.

Defense of Mutuels.

"THOUSANDS of people are learning a livelihood from the business of racing," explained a Bostonian in justifying the epidemic of mutuel betting in Massachusetts. "A great number of people share in the profits and a race track, properly conducted, can justify its existence."

True, a great number of persons may share in the profits; but a far greater number find nobody to share in their losses.

The World's Worst Season.

WE were fanning about the winning streak of the Cardinals and last year's crack-up of the Giants.

"Speaking of the best winning streak, did you ever hear of the worst?" asked the Old Timer. "Well, the best and the worst winning streaks happened the same year to the same team, at the same time.

"That was in 1916 and the New York Giants were the honor boys. The Giants set a record that year by winning 26 consecutive games. In the same year they ran up another streak of 17 more consecutive victories.

"But in spite of this really marvelous achievement, the Giants blew the pennant and finished fourth. That's why I say that the best winning streak was also the worst. Brooklyn won the flag."

The Embargo Lifted?

AT times the major leagues have frowned on any sort of gambling connection maintained by officials or players. An umpire was eased out of the American League. Players were shunted out quietly as undesirables, even in the cases of several prominent players.

In many instances the gambling connection concerned horse racing; and even this association was taboo. Players with betting complexes became black sheep.

Judge Fuchs, a few months ago, threw the baseball world into an uproar when he threatened to rent his park to a dog-racing promotion. The league rose up and smote the idea hip and thigh, and not only flattened it but brought Judge Fuchs down on the old knuckle bones.

But Charles F. Adams, who controls a major part of the Braves' holdings, seems to be immune from criticism. He owns stock in the new Suffolk Downs race track, but so far has escaped criticism.

At one time Stoneham, of the Giants, and the late John McGraw owned the race track at Oriental Park, Havana, as well as the Casino there. But after a time they were persuaded to relinquish their holdings for the good of the game.

There may be a reason for not hopping on Mr. Adams. It is said that Adams holds his Braves' stock only as security for a loan.

A Real Step Forward.

TENNIS amateurs and professionals have been crabbing for some time without approaching any settlement of the main idea—which is, to bring about "open" tournament play.

That the amateur and the pro can lie down together is shown by our golfers. They get along famously, greatly promoting interest in the ancient Scottish folly.

Instead of profiting by golf's ready-made example, the tennis officials of the amateur set have rebuffed the pros in the matter of open tournaments.

The proposal to bring the No. 1 tennis pro against the No. 1 amateur player in a charity match, was made recently, but Great Britain turned a stony face to this proposal, which would have pitted Fred Perry against Ellsworth Vines.

The tennis world is missing a lot—and so are the promoters—by not hooking up with this viewpoint. A match between Perry and Vines would be just what the doctor ordered in public interest.

Amateurs Once Dominated

EVER since Tilden broke away from the amateurs, taking with him some of the finest stars of the simon pure division (pure is right, believe it or not) the world has been wondering whether the pro group or the amateur was the better. Prior to Tilden's defection, there was no reason to wonder. There wasn't a professional who had the ghost of a chance to run the gauntlet of amateurs like Cochet, Lacoste, Tilden and other good ones.

But since Big Bill began to assemble a group of pro players, each benefiting by play with the old master himself, there is considerable doubt today whether the Perrys, the Crawfords and the Von Cramms are equal to Vines, Nusslein and even the ancient Tilden.

Demonstration is the only way to prove it. Too bad we can't see Vines meet Perry.

Tilden has admitted they are the two representative men of the respective groups. Vines had it on Perry for a while as an amateur; then in his Davis Cup finale, Vines did not look so good.

But since he turned professional he is the world's greatest player, and that opinion is generally accepted.

WEIRD

REFEREE NAMES JOE WINNER BUT JUDGES HOLD TO 50-50 VERDICT

By Ed Cochrane,

Sports Editor of the Journal-Post.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 18.—The Missouri State Athletic Commission today has another weird decision on its record books, one which enables Davey Day to continue marching along shoulder to shoulder with Joe Ghnouly as a contender for the world lightweight boxing championship.

The referee, more than 3000 customers and virtually every newspaper man at the ringside thought little Joe beat the Chicago Hebrew several ways from the ace, but two judges thought it was a draw.

The disappointing crowd that paid approximately $2300 to see the bout was stunned, then bewildered. Their emotions changed. At first they were enraged, now they are laughing about the whole affair. Decisions like that were meant for the comic pages of the Sunday supplement.

"In more than 30 years in the game I never saw such a decision," said Gus Wilson, veteran trainer-manager of Ghnouly. "Never before did I say I was robbed. I hesitate to say I was robbed now, but I was robbed—or else. Either those judges were not competent to judge a fight or they went about the job with malicious intent."

"Won Every Round but One."

"I thought I won every round but one," was Ghnouly's comment in the dressing room after the bout. "I was so confident that I was ready to leave the ring before the decision was reached."

It was not the only peculiar verdict of the night. The commission exercised a strange prerogative in reversing a decision made by the judges and referee in an earlier bout.

In the main event each of the judges gave the fighter 50 points each. Referee Walter Bates voted in favor of Ghnouly, but commission rules say that the vote of the majority rules. It was called a draw.

This writer gave four rounds to Ghnouly, two to Day and voted the remainder even.

Ghnouly carried the second through sheer aggressiveness. He carried the fight to his taller opponent and through the Chicago Hebrew's longer arms almost from the start. Day rallied briefly in the fourth and again in the tenth.

Midway in the sixth Ghnouly started an innocent looking uppercut that found its mark and he continued to sweep all before him during the remaining minute of the round. He was a whirling dervish, a whirlwind of fists and gloves during the seventh, and he continued the fierce pace in the eighth.

The savage fighting in those three rounds was enough to gain him the decision.

Ghnouly was unmarked when it was over. Day, who had his stablemate, Barney Ross, in the corner, had a hump on his nose and the end of it was almost curving into his mouth.

Managers of both principals were dissatisfied with the promoter's box office count on the fight receipts.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Olive McKean, defending champion, today raced away with the 100 meters dash title, first championship decided in the four-day women's National A. A. U. swimming championships.

A crowd of at least 5000 jamming the space about the big 50-meter pool under a broiling sun, saw the powerful Seattle, Wash., girl make up the yard she trailed Katherine Rawls, 18-year-old Miami Beach youngster, through the first half of the race, and win by about four feet.

Miss Rawls was second and Mary Lou Petty, also from Seattle, third, in the field of seven that qualified through three heats this morning. Miss McKean's time in winning the national title for the second straight year was 1 minute, 10.2 seconds. The world record for the distance established is 1:06.8 held by Helene Madison in the 1932 Olympics.

Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., who is defending three free-style titles in the meet, was fourth, with Betty Lea of Seattle, fifth; Alice Bridges of Whitinsville, Mass., sixth, and Dorothea Dickinson of New York, last.

Eleven-Year-Old Wins Title.

Tiny Mary Hoeger, 11-year-old Miami Beach miss, won the three meters springboard championship by less than a point over Janice Lifson of New York. She is the youngest champion in Amateur Athletic Union championship history. eHr points totaled 128.59 while Miss Lifson scored 127.80.

Miss Dorothy Poynton Hill, national platform diving champion, was third with 125.93, and Marion Mansfield of Chicago, fourth, with 118.67.

High School Boy Sets Record With 65 at Woodlawn

Louis Wasson, 16-year-old Kirkwood High School boy, broke the course record at Woodlawn Country Club, shooting a 65 to lower the old mark of 66 by one stroke. Earl Lancaster, Woodlawn professional, held the old record jointly with Jim Fogertey, former pro at Osage.

Although Wasson ran home some of the difficult putts, he missed two easy ones. For instance, on No. 8 he was about a foot away from the cup, but he missed; on No. 18 he failed to drop an eight-inch putt.

Wasson was out in 30, four under par, and back in 35, one under regulation figures. He was playing in a foursome with Jim Garstang, who had an 81; Richard Hencke, who had an 80, and Ernie L. Lyons, Kirkwood High coach, who had a 78.

American's Big Batting Guns Of Last Year Now Missing Fire

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Big guns on the batting range a year ago—Al Simmons, Heinie Manush and Hal Trosky—are not booming so impressively this season.

They have been in a hitting slump. Simmons, highly-paid Chicago White Sox outfielder, is almost a 100 points behind his 1934 batting average and barely over the lowly .250 mark. Actually, the former siege gun found himself benched for a time.

Washington's veteran gardener, Heinie Manush, is far behind his usual pace and apparently heading for an average below .300 for only the third time in his 13-year major league career. Manush, once batting leader and twice runner up, is hitting only .294. At this stage a year ago he was leading both major leagues with .400.

Trosky, Cleveland first baseman who broke in with such a bang last season that he was hailed as another Babe Ruth, is down around .240. Few recruits have been such first year sensations as was Trosky, who ries traffic in mind.

batted .330, and knocked out 35 home runs. Some trace his trouble to a chance in stance.

Others are having their woes, too. Jo Jo White, the Detroit outfilder, has a mark of around .200 as compared with his .313 of last season, while Bill Werber of Boston is nearly 80 points lower than his .321 pace of 1934.

Earl Averill of Cleveland, out for several weeks now with a hand injury, is below .300, as are Goose Goslin of Detroit, Ben Chapman and Earl Combs of the Yankees and Marvin Owen of Detroit.

WINNING STREAK OF COLUMBUS IS BROKEN AFTER TENTH VICTORY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Donie Bush and his first-place Minneapolis Millers moved into Columbus today to find out for themselves why the Red Birds have become the talk of the American Association during the past month.

Columbus, winner of the 1934 championship, was in sixth place the last week in June. A couple of nice winning streaks, however, the latest of which went 10 games before St. Paul snapped it yesterday, carried the Red Birds from the second division right into the battle for the leadership. They were in third place, five and one-half games behind the Millers today, but were confident of using the next four days to bring the league leaders back within grabbing distance.

The Millers, who were idle yesterday, had a wide edge over Columbus in their meetings to date. Bush's aggregation had won 10 out of 12 games, including two out of the three played in Columbus. All this, however, was accomplished before the Red Birds attained their current pace.

Lee Stine restricted Columbus to seven hits yesterday as the Saints won, 4 to 2. The Saints cracked Bob Klinger and Jim Mooney for 12 hits, with every man in the lineup connecting at least once, but just managed to bunch enough of them to win.

Excellent double duty relief pitching by Forest Pressnell helped Milwaukee to two victories over Louisville and put the Brewers back into a contending position.

Travis Gets "Beaned."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON. — Cecil Travis, Senator third baseman, may lay claim to the most-hit batsman of the year. He already has been dusted off nine times, the last occasion on July 4 in Philadelphia.

POPPIN' OFF by Dizzy Dean

YOU never know when somethin' that looks like a bad break is gonna turn out the other way. For instance, the Braves this spring have reasons to complain when Pinky Whitney gets hurt, but before Pinky has recovered Bill McKechnie finds he has a clever young ball player on his squad that maybe he didn't figure to do him a lot of good.

When Whitney got hurt it gave Joe Coscarart a chance and he now looks like one of the finds of the season. We were talking about him on the bench before Hallahan and Brandt has their 2-1 pitchin' duel and we figure it's gonna be hard to keep the kid out of the lineup even when Mallon gets over the flu.

The old confidence is a great thing. Terry Moore hits a home run off Ed Brandt at Boston, May 5, and when he comes up in the ninth inning against the same Brandt he figures he can hit that guy and how he hits him.

Just one for four bases into the left field seats. And it was a tough one for Brandt to lose, but we needed it worse than McKechnie did, as the Giants finally win one from the Reds.

OMAHA AND BLACK HELEN ARE READY FOR CLASSIC MEETING

FIELD OF 14 IS LIKELY TO FACE THE BARRIER IN $30,000 EVENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 18.—That dark cloud on the racing horizon of nationally famous Omaha is Black Helen, with which William Woodward's star colt tangles Saturday in the renewal of Arlington Park Classic Stakes at a mile and a quarter for $30,000 added, and championship of the three-year-olds.

Omaha and Black Helen, one of E. R. Bradley's entries for the race, have been installed as favorites for the event and again punters have their choice of horse or filly.

That Black Helen will be hard to beat was indicated yesterday when she breezed the full distance in 2:04 4-5, within three seconds of the track record. The great filly, however, had something to spare and she was carrying plenty of weight. Despite this, however, the winner of the American Derby was caught at :24 3-5 at the quarter, :49 for the half, 1:14 for the three-quarters and 1:39 for the mile, after which she was slowed down the last quarter.

Bloodroot, the other Bradley flapper entry, went the full route five seconds slower than her stablemate.

Omaha Runs in Blinkers.

Omaha, running with Gallant Prince and with Saturday's rider, the nation's leading jockey, Wayne Wright, up, went a mile and a furlong in blinkers in 1:50, eased up, but still within three-fifths of a second of the track record.

Dale Shaffer's St. Bernard was pulled up in the last furlong, but turned in 2:10 for the Classic distance.

Calumet Farm's Skip It was also pulled up in the last quarter, but had a creditable 2:06 for the distance.

Out of the spotlight but dear to the hearts of the punters is Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count Arthur, which ran second to Black Helen in his last race. Hence his excellency will have a bit of a private grudge to settle with the little miss.

Indications now are that 14 entrants will go to the barrier. They are: Omaha, Black Helen, Bloodroot, Calumet Dick, Skip It, St. Bernard, Advantage, Official, Blackbirder, Count Arthur, Chief Cherokee, Tearout, Toro Nancy and Roman Soldier.

Backers of Omaha pin their faith on his being able to stay within striking distance when Black Helen and probably St. Bernard set a stiff pace which may tire both before the last furlong, allowing the Easterner to come up with a rush for the finish.

Cavalcade May Meet Discovery.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—There is a possibility that the long-awaited clash between Cavalcade, last year's champion three-year-old, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery, current handicap king, will take place at Arlington Park on July 27 in the $10,000 added Arlington Handicap.

Bob Smith, trainer of Cavalcade, has informed track officials he would let them know next Monday or Tuesday if he is going to start Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Ace. Discovery, winner of his last four races, is regarded as a certain starter.

White Cockade, stablemate of Omaha and Ogden Phipps' candidate for the $60,000 Arlington Park Futurity, had a narrow escape from injury after working a half-mile in 47 seconds yesterday. The colt, winner of the Youthful Stakes at Jamaica, attempted to bolt over the outside fence, but was halted just as he reached the railing. His sudden stop catapulted his rider over the fence. The boy was not injured.

League Meeting, July 30.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 18.—The annual summer meeting of the International League will be held in New York July 30, Charles H. Knapp, president of the Circuit announced today.

The Passing Show.

THE Redbirds won the T. B. game,
Through old Pop Haines, well known to fame,
Whose work was very nice;
By way of adding to the fun
An icebox "Ripper" Collins won,
And put the game on ice.

Two rousing hits by Sammy Byrd
Around the cock-eyed world were heard,
And were to us a boon.
With bases loaded twice he hit,
While Terry's Giants threw a fit,
On Tuesday afternoon.

In short, it was in every way
A capital red-letter day
For Frankie and his crew.
In other words, they got the breaks,
And old Pop Haines had what it takes
To make a dream come true.

Cheer Up, Cap.

Captain "Slug" Durocher let his public down to a certain extent by making only one hit, a single. But even Babe Ruth has often gone for days and days without making a homer.

And speaking of Babe Ruth, see where Col. Ruppert has signed Joe McCarthy to a two-year contract. Indicating that while the Babe may eventually manage some major-league team, it will not be the Yankees.

Alva Bradley turned down an offer of $750,000 for the Cleveland Indians. The brokers who made the offer were told to start the bidding at a million and a quarter and see what happens.

Those New York brokers whose ancestors bought the city of New York from the Indians for $2.50 and a string of Woolworth beads don't seem to realize that times have changed.

Those brokers were told to kick in with more dough,
For Lo the poor Indians their price was too low.

Or Grass Roots

The man on the sandbox says it looks as though the Federal courts were getting down to brass tax.

noon. With the fatal "13" out of the way maybe he'll get a break.

It is said that Kiki Cuyler sold himself and his $12,000 contract to the Reds for $1000. Kiki has the makings of a great manager.

Remember the ceremony and hullabaloo that used to attend the signing of Babe Ruth? Jake Ruppert didn't make any more fuss over signing Joe McCarthy to a two-year contract than if he was a first-year rookie. But then you know Joe is only a manager while Babe was—the Babe.

Sammy Byrd who is rated one of the best golfers in baseball is getting so he can hit the horsehide as well as he does the putta percha pill.

We don't know what is par for Crosley Field, but Sammy came up twice with the bases loaded and made a double and a single which is pretty fair hitting no matter what kind of a club you are using.

SOCCER LEAGUE TO SHOW SMALL DEFICIT FOR THE PAST CAMPAIGN

By Dent McSkimming.

Despite the fact that virtually no profit was derived from the cup final games in which the Central Club emerged victorious over the Pawtucket Rangers, there will be but a small loss to report when Phil A. Riley, treasurer of the St. Louis Soccer League, reads his annual statement to the stockholders. Although he declined to reveal figures for publication in advance of the annual meeting, Riley said today that the deficit shown in his books for the 1934-35 season is so small that it might well have been wiped out and a profit realized if rain had not cut the attendance at one of the Western cup finals.

"On the whole the season was far from satisfactory," the league treasurer said. "Our largest single expenditures were to visiting clubs and to players, items which did not admit of any curtailment. The attendance was not good but I believe we didn't suffer any greater proportionate loss than do other sports and entertainments. What loss we did suffer was due, I think to general economic conditions and we should see an improvement as soon as business picks up."

The annual meeting of league stockholders, of whom there are seven, probably will be held late this month. It appears at present that the professional league, which enjoys direct affiliation with the United States Football Association, will not be represented at the annual convention of the national body at Atlantic City, N. J., July 27 and 28. Two delegates will represent the Municipal Soccer League of this city.

A persistent rumor to the effect that the professional league will not operate as such next season remains still in the rumor category. If any concerted plan or effort has been made to dissolve the league none of the stockholders seems to be aware of it. One report has it that the owners of the Central Club franchise, Justice of the Peace James A. Burke and Constable Jack Dwyer, are eager to pull away and operate their club independently. Dwyer said today that he has no definite plan in mind for next season but he admitted that he is negotiating with several firms with a view to obtaining a new sponsor.

"The chief change we have in mind is to turn our team over to a sponsor of such standing that he can afford to pay our players a fixed salary throughout the year. We would then be in position to give St. Louis another national champion team and whatever profit the team made would go back to the sponsor to reduce his investment. There's no fun in having a weak team in the field. We will have a winner or none at all."

The question of a Western intercity league with Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis as members, is under consideration and probably will be discussed at the annual meeting. Officers will be elected and a new contract for the rental of Sportsman's Park discussed.

A crowd of 70,000 persons witnessed the first game of Spain's tour of Argentina, last Sunday. The Spanish picked team was held to a 2—2 score by a picked team of stars of the big clubs of Buenos Aires. Leading 2—1 at half time, the Argentines found the Spaniards much too good in the second half but the home goaltender "a veritable wall" robbed the visitors of victory with his sensational saves.

The promoters of the United States team's visit to Mexico City where they have played five games apparently are faring very well. Crowds have exceeded 10,000 in each game and last Sunday went above 12,000. The admission charge last Sunday ranged from 3.50 pesos down to 1.25 pesos, or about $1 U. S., down to 35 cents. The final game of the visit will be played next Sunday against club Espana.

FORMER ST. LOUISAN REWRITES OPERETTA

Lester O'Keefe, New York Librettist, Adapts German Version for Municipal Opera.

Lester O'Keefe, former St. Louisan, now a New York librettist and radio production director, is putting the finishing touches on a virtual rewriting of the German operetta "The Beloved Rogue," which will be given its American premiere at the Municipal Opera next Monday night.

O'Keefe, who did the American adaptation of Teresina, opening attraction of the Municipal Opera season, has written all of the lyrics for the forthcoming production and has prepared the book in collaboration with Laurence Schwab, producing director of the Municipal Opera.

In adapting "The Beloved Rogue," which is known on the Continent as "Venus In Silk," the music of its author, Robert Stolz, was left virtually intact although it was revised to meet certain situations which arise during the three-act production. It contains many lilting airs reminiscent of Stolz's "Two Hearts in Waltz Time."

Only Five Lines of Original.

Although the basic plot was retained, it was necessary so to rewrite the German version that only five lines remain of the original dialogue. A third act was added to the production although its settings remain the same.

O'Keefe, who was graduated from St. Louis University in 1917 and then taught mathematics there and coached high school athletics, wrote the lyrics before coming to St. Louis at the opening of the season. Ever since then he has been working on the book and now is witnessing his work take tangible form at rehearsals.

When it was decided to incorporate a third act, O'Keefe and Schwab retired two weeks ago to a cottage at Bagnell Dam and wrote the entire act in two and one-half days—of course, they had an outline in mind before beginning it.

How He Composes.

In composing the lyrics, O'Keefe first plays through the tune and notices where the rhythms should fall. Then he composes the words accordingly. Both lyrics and dialogue are timed to insure a smoothly running performance, he said, and are based on "comedies of situation, rather than gags."

O'Keefe, who said the work of adapting "The Beloved Rogue" was "the biggest job I ever did," obtained an eight weeks' leave of absence as a production director for the National Broadcasting Co. to come here.

When the United States entered the World War, he enlisted in the navy, attained an Ensignship, wrote lyrics for service shows together with his brother, James, who now is head of the music department for Fox Films.

Then he entered the theatrical business professionally, starting as an actor, in 1920, playing the juvenile in the road production of George White's Scandals and later appearing in a sketch on the RKO circuit. Now his radio work, akin to stage direction, but "with a stop watch in hand," takes up most of his time.

Last month he received the degree of bachelor of science in commerce from Northwestern University. At Harvard he will work toward the masters' degree in the same subject.

TWO WOMEN WHO KILLED BROTHER SENT TO ASYLUM

Tell Judge They Promised Mother Not to Let Imbecile Be Taken From Them.

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, England, July 18.—Two sisters who said they killed their imbecile brother because they had promised their mother to do so were ordered confined indefinitely in an institution for mental illness.

The sisters, Catherine Walsh, 39 years old, and Mrs. Evelyn Constance Alexander, 35, Tuesday were charged with killing their brother, Sylvester, June 10, "by administering gas and tablets." They had nursed him for 20 years.

The women told the Court their mother had told them on her death bed it would be "better to kill Sylvester" than permit him to be placed in a hospital for the insane. And they had promised never to let him be taken away.

25 TONS CARRIED UP 3 MILES

Unofficial World Record Set by Flying Clipper No. 7.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 18.—Lifting a total load, including its own weight of 51,300 pounds to an altitude of 18,200 feet, the Flying Clipper No. 7 yesterday established an unofficial world record for aircraft performance.

The payload aboard the craft was said by executives of the Glenn L. Martin Co., its manufacturers, to have totaled 24,000 pounds. Ten persons were aboard the large airplane. The record broken was the international seaplane record established several years ago when a 16,608-pound payload was taken to an altitude of 6551 feet above sea level. Since the National Aeronautic Association did not supervise the flight, the new record is not official.

NEW GOODRICH SILVERTOWN TIRE SAVES LIVES

says JOEL McCREA,
famous movie star now playing in Samuel Goldwyn's "BARBARY COAST"

HEAT CAUSES BLOW-OUTS
The Life-Saver Golden Ply Resists Heat
PREVENTS THESE BLOW-OUTS

GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION IS FREE!

"THERE'S nothing like plenty of suspense to make picture work interesting," says Joel McCrea. "But a blow-out is a thrill I don't care to have repeated. That's why I put Golden Ply blow-out protection between my car and the road."

If you could only get some kind of a signal when a blow-out is coming. But you can't. When you drive along at today's high speeds, terrific heat is generated inside the tire. Unless there is protection against that internal heat, the rubber gradually pulls away from the fabric. A blister forms and grows bigger and BIGGER until—sooner or later—BANG! Your tire blows out. And all the driving skill in the world may not save you.

How you're protected

But in the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown, internal heat is resisted by the Life-Saver Golden Ply. Thus, rubber and fabric don't separate. Blisters don't form. High-speed blow-outs don't get a chance to start.

On the outside, too, Goodrich Silvertowns have another safety feature—a sure-footed, extra-thick tread. See this new Silvertown. Press your hand on the tread and feel its big, husky cleats grip. Then you'll know why Silvertowns also protect you from dangerous "tail-spin" skids . . . why they stop so quickly in an emergency or on wet, slippery roads. Notice, too, the ruggedness of this husky tread—the Silvertown tread that gives months of extra mileage.

No extra cost

Isn't life too sweet to take chances? Equip your car now with Golden Ply Silvertowns and keep danger a stranger. Even though they give you extra mileage—and are the only tires that give you Golden Ply blow-out protection—they cost not a penny more than other standard tires.

FREE! Handsome Safety League emblem with red crystal reflector to protect you if your tail light goes out. No obligation. Just join Silvertown Safety League. Endorsed by Traffic Officials. Come in today.

CERTAINLY! YOU CAN PAY AS YOU RIDE

TERMS TO SUIT YOU

We mean exactly what we say. Our friendly plan fits everyone's pocketbook. So why worry along on worn-out or inferior quality tires or pinch yourself by paying cash? We give you first quality merchandise at reasonable prices and you can make your own long or short terms to suit your income. No red tape. No delay. Only a slight handling charge. MILLING BOSS, RELIEVED OF JOB BELIEVED TO HAVE KILLED SELF

Body of Edward Morstrain, Higginsville, Found Lying Between Rails of C. & A. Near Depot.

HIGGINSVILLE, Mo., July 18.—A few hours after he had been discharged as floor boss at the Higginsville Milling Co., the body of Edward Morstrain, 52 years old, was found on the tracks of the Chicago & Alton Railroad here Tuesday.

The body was found near the depot shortly after the westbound passenger train, which arrives at 5:53 a. m., had resumed its trip and officers believe that Morstrain might have crawled under the train while it was at the station. Wheels had passed over the neck and shoulder, the body lying between the rails. The fact that it did not have the appearance of being dragged as if the man had been struck, added credence to the suicide theory, officers said.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Carrie Morstrain; two sons, Eldon and Wilbur here; a daughter, Eva, Kansas City; two brothers, Charles and Thomas, Highland, Ill., and four sisters, Mrs. Anna Geyer, Highland, Ill.; Mrs. Josephine Hofman, Marine, Ill.; Mrs. Lizzie Stoute, Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. Verena Frangas, St. Louis.

CATHOLICS SAY NAZIS INTEND TO SCRAP CONCORDAT

Abrogation Action Will Be Taken at Party Parley in September, According to Reports.

By the Associated Press.

WURZBURG, Germany, July 18.—Catholic circles said they learned today of Nazi party plans to announce abrogation of Germany's concordat with the Holy See. The report is that the Nazis will terminate the covenant, concluded between the Hitler Government and the Vatican July 8, 1933, during their annual convention in September at Nurnberg.

No confirmation of the Catholic report could be obtained from Nazi sources, as such matters are held confidential.

Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Nazi Minister of Interior, has come out openly on the side of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, leader of the German Faith Movement, and Catholic circles are convinced that the concordat will be abrogated.

These sources said Reichsfuehrer Hitler was determined to establish a special ministry for religion of all faiths, with Hans Kerrl, president of the Prussian Diet, in charge as minister without portfolio.

Thus far two Ministers—Frick and Bernhard Rust, Commissioner for Culture and Education—have dealt with the religious situation through their ministries.

Kerrl is expected to show a conciliatory attitude toward the Protestant opposition, the first aim of his ministry being—so the Catholics say—to make the Catholic church subservient to Naziism.

Later, the Catholics said, Kerrl also would resume a campaign against the Protestant opposition.

Protestant circles said that they, too, had heard that Kerrl would become Minister for Religion. They insisted that they did not propose to yield their principles in return for any temporary amelioration such as a reinstatement of dismissed pastors.

The Vatican already has protested to Berlin against alleged violation of the concordat. Objections were offered to application of Nazi sterilization laws to Catholics, interference with Catholic lay organizations, and attacks on the freedom of the Catholic press in Germany. The Vatican said these last phases of the Nazi Catholic controversy were specifically covered in the concordat.

Under the concordat, the church agreed to keep priests and religious associations out of politics, and the State promised the continuance of Catholic religious associations, whether clerical or lay, provided they be restricted to religious activities.

GOV. HORNER VETOES LIQUOR AND BANKING REVISION BILLS

Alcohol Measure Declared Adverse to Agriculture; Concludes Action on Legislation.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—Gov. Horner concluded action on all bills passed by the General Assembly by vetoing Senate bills which proposed revision of the State banking law and amendment to the State liquor control act.

In disapproving Senator Richey V. Graham's liquor amendment bill, the Governor said that his objection was that it was "adverse to agriculture—one of the most important interests in Illinois." The bill, he believed, would permit the sale of liquors made from black strap molasses and other materials with the result that millions of bushels of Illinois corn would be without a market.

FAVORABLE ACTION PREDICTED ON DROUTH RELIEF MEASURES

Missouri Legislators Expect Presidential Approval—Appropriation is Set Tentatively at $200,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Despite the delay already occasioned, proponents of an appropriation for relief in drouth and flood stricken agricultural areas, remained hopefull today by obtaining action at the present session of Congress.

Identical bills to appropriate $150,000,000 were introduced several weeks ago by Senator Clark and Representative Cannon, Missouri Democrats. No action has been taken on either, but Clark and Cannon expressed confidence that approval from the White House would be forthcoming and congressional action easy.

Senators Clark and Truman (Dem.), Missouri, and Cannon already have discussed the plan with Roosevelt. At a later conference with Rexford G. Tugwell, Under-Secretary of Agriculture, and Harry Hopkins, Relief-Works Progress Administrator, it was agreed to increase the appropriation to $200,000,000. Under the tentative plan, $40,000,000 would be earmarked for feed loans to flood and drouth area farmers, $20,000,000 for the purchase of sub-marginal land and a large portion for direct relief.

TVA POWER SALE UPHELD BY U. S. COURT OF APPEALS

DECISION BASED ON WAR POWER

Says Government May Dispose of Excess Electricity Same as Any Other Property It Has.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—Constitutionality of the act of Congress creating the Tennessee Valley Authority was upheld by the United States Court of Appeals of the Fifth Circuit in a decision reversing United States District Judge W. I. Grubb of Birmingham.

Judge Grubb, in issuing an injunction to prevent 17 North Alabama municipalities in seven counties from using Federal funds to acquire electric power systems to use current purchased from the TVA—in effect, forbidding the sale of TVA power—ruled that Congress had gone beyond its constitutional power in authorizing the sale of TVA power in competition with private enterprise.

"Within Province of Congress."

The Court of Appeals, finding that the TVA was started primarily to supply power for manufacture of munitions in war time, declares it to be within the "province of Congress to adopt any reasonable means" to dispose of surplus power not needed in peace time.

"Of course, it is true," the Court goes on, "that the Government of the United States cannot engage at will in private business, but it by no means follows that it cannot sell property which it owns, even though in doing so it may enter into competition with other public or private owners of property."

Remarking that Judge Grubb's decision was grounded on conclusion that "the program of TVA for the manufacture and disposal of electric surplus power bore no substantial relation to any lawful governmental function," the Court of Appeals says:

"It is the contention of TVA that as an agency of the United States it has the constitutional right and statutory authority to dispose of all electric power, in excess of such of it as may be needed from time to time for the production of war materials and for purposes of navigation, that the Wilson Dam operated to its full capacity can be made to produce."

On Right of Disposal.

After noting that Wilson Dam is capable of producing much more power than is needed for governmental purposes in time of peace, the Court of Appeals continues:

"Congress, in the exercise of its power, under Article IV of the Constitution, to dispose of property belonging to the United States, may dispose of water power created at Wilson Dam as freely as it may of any other Government property.

"It never heretofore has been held that the right of disposal exists only as to such part as it accidentally produced in excess of the amount strictly necessary for purposes of national defense or of navigation; but always that right has been supposed to extend to all the excess or surplus . . .

"It is within the Province of Congress to adopt any reasonable means, whether of lease or sale, for disposing of the surplus. The use of transmission lines to facilitate sales cannot fairly be said by the courts to be unreasonable or inappropriate.

Dual Nature of Government.

"It is not doubted that each of the several states holds in perpetual public trust dominion over the navigable waterways within its borders; but it is equally true that the rights of the states in navigable waters are subject to the supreme war and commerce powers of the general Government.

"We live under a dual government of divided powers, not under two separate governments of conflicting powers. The power over navigable waters granted to the Federal Government is not in conflict with but is necessarily superior to the dominion over such waters which the states reserve to themselves.

"It leads nowhere to say that the Federal Government is exercising its constitutional powers within 'state domain,' since at the same time it is acting within its own domain as well. We conclude that the decree below cannot be sustained on the theory of a lack of constitutional power."

Conclusion of the Court.

Concluding, the opinion says:

"It does not appear that TVA in respect to its operations at Wilson Dam is doing or proposes to do

"It is within the Province of Congress to adopt any reasonable means, whether of lease or sale, for disposing of the surplus. The use of transmission lines to facilitate sales cannot fairly be said by the courts to be unreasonable or inappropriate.

Dual Nature of Government.

"It is not doubted that each of the several states holds in perpetual public trust dominion over the navigable waterways within its borders; but it is equally true that the rights of the states in navigable waters are subject to the supreme war and commerce powers of the general Government.

"We live under a dual government of divided powers, not under two separate governments of conflicting powers. The power over navigable waters granted to the Federal Government is not in conflict with but is necessarily superior to the dominion over such waters which the states reserve to themselves.

"It leads nowhere to say that the Federal Government is exercising its constitutional powers within 'state domain,' since at the same time it is acting within its own domain as well. We conclude that the decree below cannot be sustained on the theory of a lack of constitutional power."

Conclusion of the Court.

Concluding, the opinion says:

"It does not appear that TVA in respect to its operations at Wilson Dam is doing or proposes to do

McADOO AND GLASS ASSAIL BILL TO BAR GOLD SUITS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The propriety of forbidding all damage suits against the Government based on devaluation of the dollar was heatedly argued by Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, and Attorney-General Cummings yesterday.

Cummings, testifying on the measure before the Senate Banking Committee, characterized as "impertinent" charges that the move was "immoral." Glass and Senator McAdoo (Dem.), California, both former Secretaries of the Treasury, each had characterized the administration's proposal as repudiation.

The exchange ended in an argument over the meaning of the Supreme Court's gold decision, in which Glass contended the Court upheld his view. Cummings dissented.

"We don't read the Supreme Court decision the same way," Glass remarked hotly.

"No, and we never will," Cummings retorted.

Morgenthau Also Testifies.

Earlier Glass and McAdoo had argued almost as bitterly with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau about the effect of the move on Government credit. They insisted it would destroy confidence in future security issues.

Morgenthau insisted, however, that the legislation to block damage suits would help, rather than hurt, Government credit by removing the threat of suits to recover additional cash on the outstanding gold clause obligations totaling about $10,000,000,000.

Morgenthau told the committee the Government faces $9,000,000,000 of financing during the present fiscal year, of which about $5,000,000,000 will be refunding operations.

Advances in the price of Government securities since the President asked for the legislation, Morgenthau said, proved that it would not have a bad effect on Government credit. He testified that in the Government's latest financing, a $50,000,000 operation, it obtained the lowest interest rate in history—one-twentieth of 1 per cent for nine months.

Moral Turpitude and Bill.

Glass got into the discussion by asking Morgenthau how it would help Government credit to "formally notify creditors that the Government reserves the right to repudiate its indebtedness." He said the Government was "implying there is no moral turpitude in repudiation."

McAdoo denounced the proposal as "a complete repudiation of a solemn obligation." He predicted that "when that peroclates into the minds of the people it is going to have a serious effect in the future."

"I don't think a great government should do it," McAdoo said, adding that the United States had "never failed to perform literally every obligation assumed."

As Morgenthau continued to insist that the Government's credit was sound, Glass remarked: "Somebody thinks the credit of the Government is precarious or this resolution wouldn't be here."

HOW TO COLLECT NEW SALES TAX IN DOUBT

Treasury Officials Rule Tokens Are Illegal—Amendment to Law May Be Needed.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 18.—The ultimatum of United States Treasury officials that tokens as a means of collecting the new 1 per cent sales tax "are out" is worrying Missouri officials. State Auditor Forrest Smith, who will administer the act, is in Washington, hopeful of working out "something definite."

In enacting the law the Legislature failed to specify the manner in which the tax should be collected, leaving to the State Auditor the problem of devising a means to collect a 1 per cent tax on amounts less than a dollar.

Should no acceptable system be advanced for collecting the tax on fraction of a dollar purchases—and Treasury officials have ruled that the issuance of tokens would be coinage of money and a constitutional violation—then Missouri's revenue would be greatly reduced Aug. 27 when the 1 per cent law goes into effect. A solution to the problem might lie in one of the following possibilities:

1. That the Federal Government might coin mills to aid in the collecting of the levy.

2. That a compromise might be reached with Federal officials whereby some type of token, coupon or stamp might be used and not be considered as conflicting with the coinage regulations.

3. That a special session of the State Legislature be called to enact a workable sales tax law.

In the event that no solution is advanced within the next six weeks, the chances that a special session will be called will be more of a reality than a possibility. Under the 1 per cent sales tax law, the present ½ of 1 per cent act is repealed, and hence sales tax revenue would be cut off if the 1 per cent levy cannot be collected.

Upwards of $1,000,000 a month was expected to be collected under the 1 per cent sales tax law. The revenue was to be used for the State's share of unemployment relief, old age pensions, public schools, and for shifting two-thirds the cost of caring for the insane poor from the counties to the State.

While Smith expects to remain in Washington this week, Hubert Bates, the sales tax supervisor, said the department would "mark time" pending the Auditor's return.

Gov. Park, Attorney-General Roy McKittrick and other officials made no comment yesterday on the situation.

There was plenty of comment, discussion and speculation, however, from Missouri's buying public and, Smith said, unless some method is found for paying the tax on fraction of a dollar sales, he believed that the law would be held unconstitutional. Other states with sales tax laws are facing similar difficulties.

Illinois Considers Test Case on Legality of Tax Tokens.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—That Illinois will take its sales tax token difficulties into court was indicated today by Sam Nudelman, assistant to K. L. Ames Jr., director of the Department of Finance. He said:

"We feel that we have a right to issce the tokens and an opinion by Attorney-General Otto Kerner supports our position. We may carry the fight to the courts by making a test case."

More than a million of the one and a half mill tokens issued by the department are in circulation. They have not been recalled, Nudelman said, but no additional ones have been placed in circulation since the Federal Government questioned the State's right to issue them.

The Department of Justice has under consideration the State's right to issue the tokens. A plan is reported under consideration in Washington for the Federal Government to issue a coin in a one-mill denomination as a number of states in addition to Illinois have sales taxes.

Issuance of 1-Mill Pieces by Federal Government Considered.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Treasury and Justice Department officials today promised Forrest Smith, State Auditor of Missouri, an early decision on how Missouri's 1 per cent sales tax could be paid on fraction of dollar purchases.

"Since 33 states now have sales tax laws," Smith said, "the most feasible solution seems to be the issuance of 1-mill pieces by the Federal Government. I wouldn't be surprised if that is not recommended."

Missouri's 1 per cent sales tax law, with a mandatory provision that the tax be passed on to the consumer, goes into effect late in August. Unless some method is found for paying the tax on small purchases without penalizing the consumer, Smith said he believed the act would be held unconstitutional, thus necessitating a special session of the Legislature.

SCARLATINA IN ALASKA COLONY

Children Vaccinated and Field Hospital Put Up.

By the Associated Press.

PALMER, Alaska, July 18.—Twelve cases of scarlatina developed last week among children of the Matanuska colony project. A field hospital was put up within 24 hours to take them from the community hall, where they were being cared for. With the arrival of more building materials, the work on a permanent 40-bed hospital was begun. Under direction of Dr. C. Earl Albrecht of the Anchorage Hospital, the colony's children were vaccinated and he said yesterday the disease was well under control.

JUDGE SAYS BAR MUST GET RID OF LAWYER-CRIMINAL

COMMITTEE REPORT ON STATES' RIGHTS

Under Stress of Depression, Temptation Is to Overlook Bounds of Federal Power, It Says.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 18.—One of the most important duties of the American Bar Association is to "rid the country of the lawyer-criminal," John J. Parker, United States Circuit Judge of Charlotte, N. C., told the national convention of the association yesterday.

He denounced attorneys of the "vulture type, the ambulance chaser and the police court racketeer, who have presented the lawyer in the role of a mere parasite, preying none too honestly upon the miseries and misfortunes of his fellows."

Judge Parker further criticised the "lawyer-criminal" who "counsels and advises in the commission of a crime and uses his knowledge of legal process to protect the enemies of society from the avenging hand of the law, and who have led many to think the object of lawyers is not to uphold but to thwart and defy the law."

Parker mentioned as last, "but not least," the "unlawful practice of law by corporations which has given rise to a new form of solicitation of business and has tended to commercialize the practice and degrade it into a mere skilled trade."

The latter type of lawyer, Judge Parker said, has more to do with the loss of public confidence in the profession than the miserable lawyer criminal or the pitiable shyster."

Frank Atwood Speaks.

Frank Atwood, president of the Missouri Bar Association, spoke.

"Nothing could be more harmful," he said, "than a widespread notion that the Supreme Court is taking over the manifold responsibilities and activities of the Bar Association. The bar must still act and speak through its associations."

Atwood said integration of the bar—the compulsory forming of all lawyers practicing in the State into one organization—is essential to national organization.

Other speakers on the same subject pointed out such an accomplishment would permit closer disciplining of lawyers and aid in the association's campaign to rid its organization of "shysters" and other undesirable members.

Other Speakers.

Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School, said law schools, institutes for research and ministries of justice, state and Federal, creation of which he advocated, should join forces in an intelligent overhauling of criminal law.

George Z. Medalie, former District Attorney in New York, attributed "disrespect for criminal law" to the growth of racketeering and the "inability of authorities to cope with it." He said efficient personnel should not be "hamstrung by archaic and antiquated criminal procedure."

Benjamin Wham of Chicago, who won the $1000 Ross Bequest Essay Prize this year, said the "net result of the present bar examination policy is to force legal education and the profession into a strait jacket."

He said because bar examiners question prospective lawyers on conventional subjects, with no thought of the specialized training which may be required, "bad stu-

BRITON SAYS GUN SHELLS MADE IN U. S. WERE FAULTY

More Dangerous to Men Using Them Than to Enemy, Lord Marley Declares.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 18.—Lord Marley, the chief opposition whip in the House of Lords and former British artillery officer, told the Royal Commission inquiring into the private manufacture and trade in arms today that some of the ammunition manufactured in the United States during the World War was more dangerous to the men using it than to the enemy.

Lord Marley won the Distinguished Service Cross in the front lines in France where he served more than two years with French mortars and anti-aircraft artillery. He was wounded in action. The Royal Commission called him in as a witness.

"As a soldier," said Marley, "I suffered from an inadequate supply of ammunition in the early stages of the war.

"I remember we had to use American artillery and ammunition considerably. My unit was always careful to be as far away as possible from our artillery because, unfortunately, the shells had a habit of bursting at the muzzle instead of over the enemy, to the suffering of our own troops rather than the enemy."

CHOLERA SWEEPING CHINESE AREA AS RESULT OF FLOOD

Disease Taking More Lives Than Waters Themselves, Missionaries From North Report.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, July 18. — The flood in Northern China was described by missionaries arriving here yesterday as one of the most destructive on record.

The sufferings of refugees from hunger, disease and exposure are beyond description, they said. Cholera is causing even more deaths than the flood itself, according to the missionaries.

Tsinanfu authorities estimated 1,000,000 persons in the Yellow River Valley had been made homeless by the flood. The river was reported rising continually because of heavy rains.

ONE OBSTACLE DELAYS SOCIAL SECURITY BILL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The House and Senate agreed yesterday on all compromises to the administration's social security bill but disagreed on the Senate amendment to exempt private pension systems. The House refused to recede from its opposition to the Clark amendment to exempt from Federal old age pension taxes concerns which have annuity plans.

Like the House, the Senate accepted all compromises of its conference committee but asked for another conference on the Clark amendment.

The House voted twice on the amendment, first balloting 269 to 77 against instructing its conferees to accept it. Then it turned around and voted 269 to 65 to instruct them not to accept it.

The administration chiefs, who had hesitated to make any predictions about the House's attitude on the Clark amendment, were surprised at the size of their majority.

In reaching the Clark amendment vote, the House also agreed to elimination of the so-called Russell amendment which would have let the Federal Government contribute $15 a month to those more than 65 in states which could not match the Federal contribution before July 1, 1937. Under substitute language accepted, the states may be excused from matching the Federal contribution, but an equal amount must be furnished by city or county.

51 "Mercury" Pickets Arrested.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Twenty-nine men and 22 young women were arrested on a charge of picketing yesterday in front of the Fifth avenue offices of the American Mercury, a monthly magazine which has been having difficulties with its office staff. Among the prisoners, most of whom were members of student organizations, was Michael Smith, a Representative in the Washington State Legislature. All the pickets were discharged in court today.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

In Defense of William Green.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PAUL BAKEWELL'S letter of July 14 "viewed with alarm" a New York speech by President Green, American Federation of Labor, anent the Wagner law. The A. F. of L. would be the last to defy courts or other constituted authority. We will not emulate the NRA chiseler and labor cheater. Green merely was inferring that a showdown is due; if Congress is hog-tied, unable to act in a stark crisis, then a constitutional amendment delegating such power is in order. Outstanding men who share Green's view are legion.

Mr. Bakewell's innuendo is that the Wagner Act was won by "a noisy minority." Does President Roosevelt go into that category? He backed the bill. Senator Wagner worked hard through two sessions for the measure. Does Bakewell excommunicate that honest, industrious solon as the mouthpiece of a "noisy minority"?

If the court must retain its present final "yes-and-no" power over acts of our elected legislators, then let's quit bluffing; let us slam our cards on the table, abolish the House and the Senate in frank admission that our supreme legislative body is constituted of nine appointed (not elected) Judges.

Those of us whose hearts are consecrated to the ideals upon which this Republic was founded are not anxious to have millions of ragged, hungry, yet honest and law-abiding, citizens feel that their Congress is powerless to act in their behalf. Our real patriots are men with the intestinal fortitude to cry aloud and spare not in an effort to resuscitate their stricken nation and her people, while the laissez-faire boys are a menace.

MARTIN A. DILLMON,
Editor, St. Louis Union Labor Advocate.

Tall Weeds.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHY do our city authorities allow the weeds on private property, and also on property belonging to the city, to grow so tall? Where are the Police Department and the Health Department and the many inspectors employed by the city? It is a disgrace to allow such a condition to exist.

MRS. E. T. TURNER.

The People or the Utilities?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE people of St. Louis cannot permit the issue that has been raised by the utility-inclined Aldermen to go unchallenged. Either the majority group of Aldermen represent the people or they represent the utilities.

If they represent the people, they will, upon reconvening on Friday, take steps to demonstrate the fact by supporting Mayor Dickmann and his program and restoring to the president of the board those prerogatives that ordinarily go with the office. If they elect to misrepresent the people, then the suggestion made by Bourke O'Rourke that they be recalled should be followed.

The people of St. Louis will simply not tolerate the condition created by the subversive political machine that is in control of the Board of Aldermen. The sooner the Aldermen realize and understand that the City of St. Louis is not theirs to trade off to the utilities, the better off they will be. FRANK.

Gas Meters and Arbitration.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN arbitrating the gas strike, should not the arbitrators take up first the replacing of connections which were torn out (by order of the gas company) at the homes of those of us who would not let anyone read our meters until the strike was settled? We stuck to the union; now let them stick to us by insisting that we get our gas first.

JOHN A. BEZDEK.

Dubious About Farmers' March.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN Letters from the People June 15, you published the contribution of Thad Snow, Charleston, Mo., vigorously defending the recent farmers' jaunt to Washington, D. C. I wonder if it raised the same questions in the minds of other readers that it did in mine?

Interested observers of national affairs coming in contact with any of Secretary Wallace's program of crop control and its questionable methods are likely to have read Mr. Snow's lengthy article.

What kind of farmer is Mr. Snow? He described himself as "a farmer among farmers" and "a fan about farmers' meetings." That sounds more like an organizer than a "soil superintendent," since he doesn't seem to understand that term.

If Mr. Snow is as capable of real farming as he is in expressing himself in defense of that Washington jaunt, one would think that he would be an opponent rather than a proponent of controlled farm production. It seems to me that successful farmers know more about their business than that staff of harebrained statisticians in Washington does. It also seems to me that farming chafes just as much under Government regulation as industry.

I wondered if Paul Mallon didn't get his figures reversed and that there were 4000 county organizers and only 200 farmers just for color effect in that jaunt, after all.

Government by minorities and propaganda seems to be at bat just now, but not for long. X. Y. Z.

THE LAST TELEGRAM BARRAGE?

"Government by telegram" is an innovation of this high-pressure, rapid-communication era. Father Coughlin used it with notable success in the World Court and Patman bonus bill fights, for his radio listeners heeded his pleas and deluged their Senators with about 100,000 messages on each occasion. The Post-Dispatch criticised these tactics at the time as a dangerous form of pressure politics, whereby vociferous minorities intimidated Congress with a deceptive show of strength.

If the World Court and Patman bill barrages deserved condemnation, then what is to be said about the facts as to the telegraphed protests against the utility holding company bill, as brought out at the current lobby inquiry? The genuineness of the Coughlin-inspired messages was never questioned, but there is evidence to show that at least several hundred telegrams on the utility bill were signed with names drawn at random from the telephone directory by a utility company employe.

Such was the testimony of the manager and a clerk of the Western Union office at Warren, Pa. Representative Driscoll of Pennsylvania testified that he had received 844 telegrams from Warren and Meadville, Pa., signed with the names of persons who later denied having sent them. The originals of the messages were burned, the telegraph company manager said.

The flood of messages to Congress was represented by utilities spokesmen as the spontaneous and indignant reaction of investors against an alleged attempt to ruin the value of their property. What happened at Warren, Pa., not to mention other information about how protests were produced elsewhere, shows that many of them were far from spontaneous. Propaganda excesses of the utilities in the past have defeated their own ends. Their organizations have pledged reforms time and again, but new instances of underhanded attempts to influence public opinion constantly come to light.

"We hope the telegram demonstrations continue," the Post-Dispatch said last May 10. "The more they occur, the more Congress will realize that, with the right of petition as a cloak, greedy groups are trying to take it for an unmerciful ride." The present disclosures should supply the finishing touch.

Only "a small number of companies" may have committed acts of this sort, as Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the Committee of Public Utility Executives, says. But Congressmen in future, on receiving a flood of telegrams, will perforce be in doubt as to whether they are spontaneous messages, the product of mass-production methods or downright frauds. The value of this pressure method must, as a result, be virtually destroyed.

It would be fortunate if the latest barrage proved to be the telegram demonstration that ended telegram demonstrations.

WELL-INTENTIONED BUT ILL-ADVISED.

Six months ago, it was the consensus of the best-informed opinion that an inquiry by Congress into the status of religious rights in Mexico would be a mistake, calculated to disturb the friendly relations between the sister republics which lie on either side of the Rio Grande. Nothing has occurred since to lessen the validity of this view. The petition signed by 250 Representatives and Senators and presented at the White House by an unofficial congressional committee of 25 members, which again urges such an investigation, doubtless is well-intentioned. It fails to take account of a fundamental principle of international relations. We may deplore reports of interference with religious freedom, governmental or otherwise, in Mexico, just as we deplore political and racial repressions in Italy and Germany. But it should be unnecessary to point out that since Americans want to be free to work out their internal problems without direction from the outside, we must leave it to the people of other countries to work out theirs.

RELIEF FOR ETHIOPIAN FEET.

The Italian Army, it was reported two weeks ago, had perfected a chemical which was to be sprinkled on the ground in the Ethiopian war, to burn the feet of the barefooted foe. So powerful was the substance, it was said, that it would even burn through shoe leather.

Italy now denies that it intends to use such tactics. It would be cruelly ironic, of course, to employ this barbaric method in a war which the modern Scipio Africanus loudly proclaims is to carry the blessings of civilization to an uncivilized people. But strategy rather than humanitarianism probably brought the decision. Some military genius at Rome doubtless discovered that, unless the Italians intend to be in constant retreat, this chemical would do more damage to Fascist shoes and feet than to Ethiopian soles.

Nevertheless, American friends of the Ethiopians are much concerned over the alleged foot-burning strategy. In Harlem and elsewhere, contributions are being sought to equip each Ethiopian soldier with a good, heavy pair of acid-proof shoes. Much as this friendly impulse is to be admired, we fear it is a misguided one. Imagine a warrior, who has never worn shoes in his life, marching into battle while breaking in a new pair of army shoes. Haile Selassie's men, so tortured, would be likely to shuck off the gift footgear and let the good old acid do its worst. The toughened Ethiopic sole, without artificial aid, should be efficient in either advance or retreat.

With dismissal notices the order of the day, City Hall employes are probably working with their hats and coats on.

POLITICS AND VEGETABLE COMPOUNDS.

The Republicans are in a fair way to be torn between a half-dozen possible candidates to run against Mr. Roosevelt next year.

We suggest to them, in this dilemma, that they consider the possibilities of the vegetable compound and run all their candidates as an asparagus ticket. They are already among the grass roots. The asparagus ticket would extend their vegetable experiments. "A harem of dusky beauties, 50 bound with a string," sang the poet Kipling. "A bevy of candidates, six bound in a bunch," might well be the hopeful ditty of the G. O. P.

The device would have its obvious advantages. First, it would pool the strength of all the candidates. It would get out all the votes Mr. Hoover would get, all those Mr. Mills would get, etc. Second, in the event of defeat, it would save the party from the torment of suspecting that it might have done better with somebody else. It would be spared the pain of suspecting that it would have done better with Mr. Hoover, say, than it did with Mr. Vandenberg.

The Whigs finally went down and out because they could not find a leader who enjoyed the support of all the Whigs. The asparagus, or group, idea is, in our judgment, the only way out for any party in such a dilemma.

WHAT ALTON LAKE WILL MEAN.

The river has not yet been dammed at Alton but, thanks to the heavy rains of last spring, the thousands of men, women and children who have spent recent holidays and week-ends along the Mississippi from Alton to Cap au Gris and on the Illinois below Kampsville have been privileged to view an advance showing of the great lake as it is to be. As now shown, the lake will extend for some 30 miles upstream from Alton, spreading out as wide as two miles and covering over some 11,000 acres, mostly in St. Charles County, in the vicinity of West Alton.

It is impossible to look on this development without having the imagination kindled to its possibilities as a center for healthful recreation for this entire area. With the water standing high, the usual beaches are covered, but sand can readily be pumped from the river to make literally hundreds of rendezvous for swimmers and sun bathers. The cruising waters of the steadily growing numbers who pilot motorboats, cabin cruisers and yachts will be notably extended. For those venturous water lovers who are even now so bold as to steer sail craft or paddle canoes, the widening will be a real boon. As the lake encourages sail boating, it will develop that aquatic sport which many persons place above all others in enjoyment and thrill.

But it is not only from the standpoint of recreation that it is important for Missouri and Illinois to agree on a carefully planned program of development of the region about the lake. The area's natural beauty also requires some plan such as that which the St. Louis Regional Planning Association has presented to the National Park Service. Above the quaint little hamlet of Elsah and up and down the river from it on the Illinois side tower the white bluffs from whose highest point the late Frederick Oakes Sylvester feelingly painted the "mighty stream" in its every mood. Only the Palisades along the lordly Hudson are comparable. Upstream from the quiet town of Grafton—which may very well prosper as a recreational center in time to come—the several eminences of Pere Marquette State Park, handsomely developed by Illinois and the CCC, overlook the rivers and the rich valley beyond. Hiking trails, bridle paths and good roads should follow the water's edge. Manifestly, these shores will be no place for structures that are unsightly.

Persons who are interested in historical background and geography find in the lake territory a region richly endowed. As the Hudson has its Storm King, Spuyten Duyvil, Sleepy Hollow, Kinderhook and Klaversack, so the Alton Lake region has, besides those already mentioned, such fascinating place names as Portage des Sioux, Deer Plain, Lock Haven, Golden Eagle, Piasa, Eagle Nest Island and Coon Creek.

Now is the time to arrange for the development of a playground which measures up to its fine possibilities. The plan which Harland Bartholomew and R. H. Riley have had the vision to formulate appears not a bit too soon.

NOTE ON CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

The young married woman who assisted in the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping has been convicted by a jury and sentenced by a Federal Judge to serve 20 years in a woman's farm prison. Justice would have proved herself indeed blind if the youth and sex of the defendant had brought about her acquittal.

As in the local Kelley kidnaping trials, the result is doubly gratifying because of the tactics used by the defense. We showed in our comment on those trials how defense attorneys, in addressing the jurors, had made charges and insinuations for which there was no shadow of support in the evidence. We condemned that procedure and the antiquated rules which made it possible.

Certain of the remarks by the chief attorney for Margaret Waley, though not so shocking to one's sense of justice as the attacks on the prosecuting witness in the Kelley case, are likewise deserving of censure. Unfortunately, they are typical of the methods permitted in American courtrooms. Said Attorney Dore, on behalf of Margaret Waley: "People who judge a girl like this with an empty stomach ought to have empty stomachs themselves." In other words, kidnaping is excusable if you happen to be hungry.

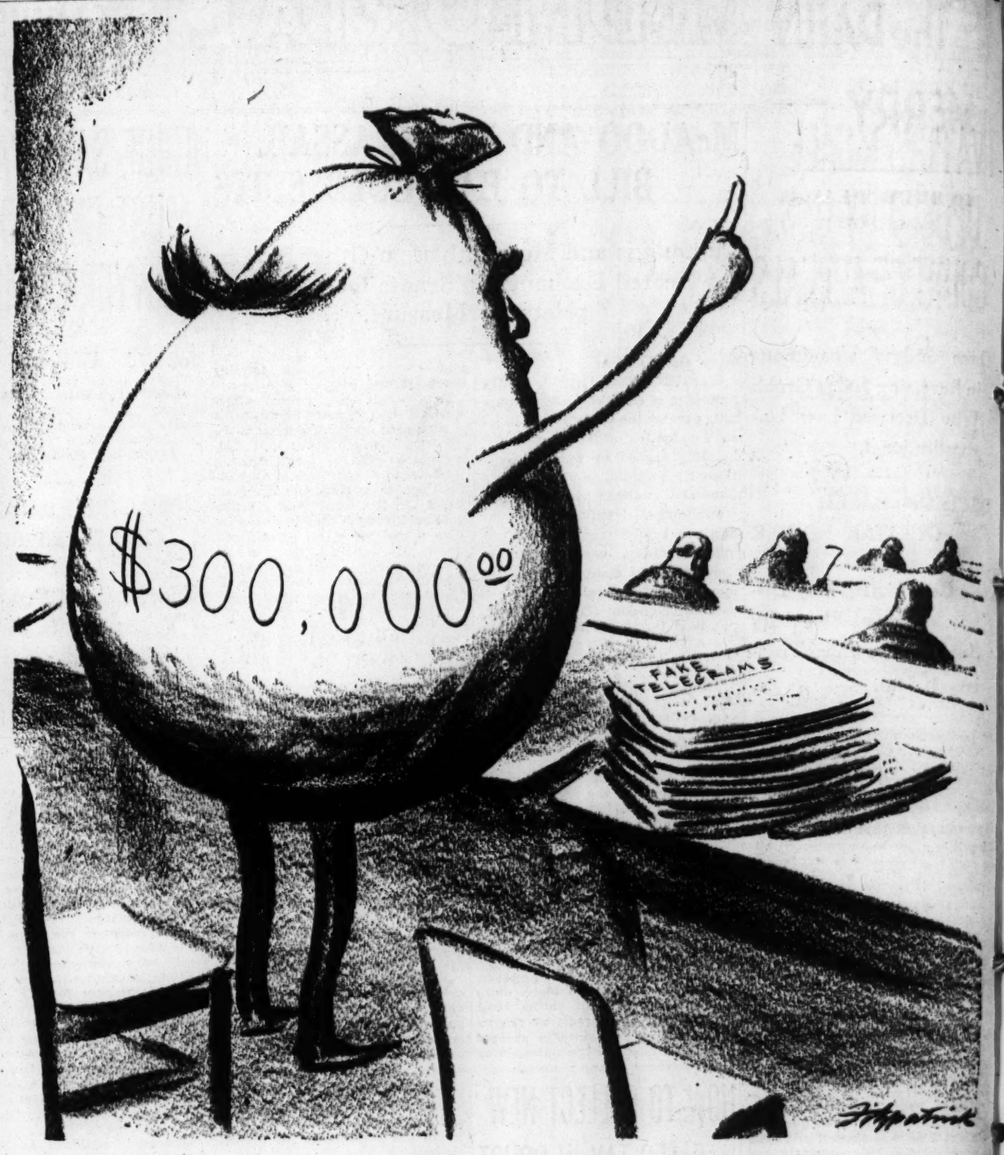

Our criminal procedure will continue to invite scorn so long as attorneys are allowed to abuse their prerogatives with "arguments" of that character.

ILLINOIS JOINS THE OLD-AGE PENSION STATES.

With Gov. Horner's signature on acts of the recently adjourned Illinois Legislature setting up an old-age pension system and appropriating $5,000,000 toward its operation, Illinois joins the rapidly growing list of states which are providing in some measure or other for security in age. More than half the states in the Union now have old-age pension statutes of some sort, most of them mandatory. At the next meeting of the legislatures, still other states will be added to the list, while present laws will doubtless be strengthened in many instances. Gov. Horner, for example, said in approving the Illinois system that he would ask for strengthening amendments when the legislators assemble again.

The most striking thing about the old-age pension movement in this country is the way in which it has gone forward after its slow start. Denmark set up a governmental old-age pension system in 1891; prior to that, the groundwork had been laid in Germany and for selected groups in France, Belgium and Austria. By the outbreak of the World War, such systems were common in foreign countries, from Finland to New Zealand. Yet in the United States the movement made little or no real progress until 1928—the year in which the American Association for Old Age Security got into operation. The depression gave it impetus and, during the worst period—within the years 1929 to 1932—no fewer than 11 states placed systems in operation, among them the important states of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and California.

In a time when proponents of national laws providing for social insurance and regulating hours and wages are complaining that the states have not shouldered the burden which is theirs, it is heartening to find the movement to give security to those in the evening of life making really notable progress among the states.

THE HOLDING COMPANY CONGRESSMAN.

The Auto Horn Nuisance

Accidents and damage to health are among charges against excessive use of auto horns; authorities in many countries seek to curb nuisance; Italian cities forbid honking save in emergency; Paris and England bar it at night; advocates of ban claim greater safety will result when drivers are forced to rely more on brakes.

James O. Spearing in the New York Times.

THE automobile horn has come to be recognized as an international nuisance and, in its disturbance of sleep and agitation of nerves, often a definite menace to health. In the opinion of many, it is also frequently a contributing cause of accidents instead of the aid to safety it is supposed to be. The argument is that too many drivers depend upon loud blasts rather than brakes to prevent collisions with vehicles and pedestrians.

In virtually every country in the world in which automobiles are used extensively, measures have been taken to restrict the use of horns. In some places, this restriction has gone to the limit of absolute prohibition of the noise they make, except in cases of emergency.

This is true in many cities in Italy. Some months ago, the use of horns was forbidden in Rome. Since then, it is reported, most Italian cities have availed themselves of a law giving every municipality the right to prohibit the blowing of horns in inhabited areas. Beneficial results have been achieved by this outlawing of horns, according to Arnaldo Cortesi, correspondent of the New York Times in Rome.

"The experience of the various Italian cities," he reports, "has proved conclusively that it is possible for traffic, even very heavy traffic, to move without the use of any warning signals whatever. The speeds of vehicles are reduced, of course, but not greatly, and recent statistics seem to show that the number of accidents of all sorts has decreased since the no-horn regulations came into effect."

Sweden has also gone far toward silencing the horn. It is reported from Stockholm that the national Riksdag has passed a measure decreeing that horns shall not be blown anywhere in the country except when a driver wishes to signal another driver of his intention to pass. The driver receiving such a signal must respond by extending his arm or flashing a light. The law expressly forbids the blowing of horns at street and highway intersections.

One of the latest recruits to the movement for the limitation of horn blowing is Great Britain. In August of last year, it was ruled that no horns should be sounded between 11:30 p. m. and 7 a. m. within a five-mile radius of Charing Cross. Results were so satisfactory that, within a fortnight, the rule was applied to all built-up areas in Great Britain.

Whether this has resulted in fewer accidents has not been officially determined, but no evidence that it has caused an increase in accidents has come to light, and there is much support for the presumption that the greater care imposed on drivers by depriving them of the use of their horns as signals has reduced traffic casualties. In the opinion of Leslie Hore-Belisha, British Minister of Transport, "there is overwhelming evidence that the establishment of silent zones has contributed greatly to the general comfort without constituting a source of danger."

Paris has been quiet at night since Jean Chiappe, Prefect of Police, forbade the blowing of horns between 10 p. m. and 7 a. m. seven years ago, but it remains one of the noisiest cities in the world during the day. Agitation for the suppression of horns during the day as well as at night has been revived, however, with some prospect of success, according to P. J. Philip, correspondent of the New York Times in Paris.

"The ego of the French taxi driver, as well as of the young man about town, is far too powerfully developed to permit slowing down at intersections," he says. "In the daytime, such drivers blow their horns and at night they switch on their lights as signals, but they never stop. If they weren't permitted to hoot in the daytime, they might get into the habit of slowing down. Klaxons are forbidden, but if there is a traffic jam on the Champs Elysees or any of the boulevards, the air for miles around is instantly torn with pipes, squeaks and squawks.

"Throughout the country, the blowing of horns is carried to a majestic pitch, and villagers along the main roads are usually reduced to a state of nervous prostration after a two-day public holiday."

Horns have become unpopular in Austria, too, and word from Vienna is to the effect that honking will probably be forbidden there within the next few months. At present, the chief restriction is that all horns, except those on postal, police and hospital vehicles, must have only one tone, of pleasant sound.

The search for relief from raucity by tempering the sound of horns has been especially successful in Belgium, according to report. All cars are required to have the same kind of horn which, it is said, minimizes the shock of traffic noise for horses as well as human beings.

Germany presents a picture considered typically German—little activity in regulation yet relative quiet. The Reich has a uniform traffic code which merely provides that horns must not be too loud and must have only one tone. Excessive use can be punished only by application of the law against "creating unnecessary noise or disturbance."

In New York City, so far, little has been accomplished in the direction of silencing horns, but members of the legislative and police departments of the municipal government are interested, and private organizations have renewed propaganda for peace in the streets. Without proposing any definite degree of limitation, the League for Less Noise has begun a campaign to arouse public support for restriction of the use of horns, and the First Avenue Association has joined the movement.

One definite proposal has been made. It is that the blowing of horns be entirely forbidden in Manhattan. It is felt by some that experience abroad justifies this experiment. It is argued that drivers would exercise much greater caution than they do now if they were not permitted to blast paths for themselves through pedestrian and vehicular traffic. And if the experiment proved a success in Manhattan, it could be extended to the other boroughs.

Excess Profits Taxes

From Editorial Research Reports.

SENTIMENT in the House Ways and Means Committee and in the Senate is said to be veering away from the graduated corporation income tax proposed by the President. Heavy taxation of excess profits of corporations has been proposed as a substitute.

The excess profits taxes of the war period—enacted in 1917 and repealed in 1921—yielded huge revenues to the Federal Government. The total yield was $7,113,561,4[illegible], equal to 40 per cent of the total tax revenues of the Government during the period these taxes were in effect. A Treasury calculation, submitted to a congressional committee in 1931, indicated that Federal taxes on corporations "absorbed about 70 per cent of the increase of the average profits of the war years over the average profits of the years immediately before the war."

While they were highly productive, the excess profits taxes of the war years proved exceedingly difficult of administration and led to numerous abuses which generated sentiment for their repeal. President Wilson believed an excess profits tax should be a permanent part of the tax system. In a message to Congress May 20, 1919, he said:

"The excess profits tax need not long be maintained at the rates which were necessary while the enormous expenses of the war had to be borne; but it should be made the basis of a permanent system which will reach undue profits without discouraging the enterprise and activity of business men."

Six months later, however, Secretary of the Treasury Glass recommended that the tax be repealed. In his annual report for 1919 he said:

"It encourages wasteful expenditures, puts a premium on over-capitalization and a penalty on brains, energy and enterprise, discourages new ventures and confirms old ventures in their monopolies. In many instances, it acts as a consumption tax, is added to the cost of production upon which profits are figured in determining prices and has been, and will, so long as it is on the statute books, continue to be a material factor in the increased cost of living."

The greatest difficulty in the administration of the excess profits taxes of the war period was encountered in the determination of "invested capital." The taxes were levied on the excess of current earnings over a "normal return" on invested capital. Other difficulties were met in the determination of taxable income and the determination of nominal capital in cases where large profits were gained with little capital investment.

A moderate excess profits tax was imposed by the National Industrial Recovery Act and was renewed by the Revenue Act of 1934. With it was combined a tax on "present net worth" of corporations. The two taxes together have served to eliminate all the difficulties of administration which went with the excess profits taxes of the war period.

Under the present system, the corporation, in effect, determines its own "net worth" for purposes of taxation, and the excess profits tax is levied upon earnings in excess of a fixed return on that net worth. The two taxes are so related as to make liability to the one increase as liability to the other decreases, and vice versa. Each levy thus supplements and checks the other.

This ingenious device will undoubtedly provide the basis for any expanded system of excess profits taxation which may be approved by Congress as a substitute for the administration proposal of a graduated corporation income tax.

The DAILY MERRY-GO

By DREW PEARSON and

WASHINGTON, July 18.

THE other day bull-voiced Joe Robinson, leader of the President's none too loyal forces in the Senate, had mimeographed and made ready for distribution a quotation from a confidential Washington news letter.

The letter advised that the President was weakening under the strain and that he was emotionally upset, unstable, unreliable in many of his recent public and private utterances.

Joe Robinson was prepared to denounce the letter from the Senate floor. The mimeographed copies had been delivered to him and he was in his seat ready to make the speech. Suddenly he abandoned his plan.

Reason, though not definitely known, probably was word from the White House. For the President has evolved plans of his own to crush the present whispering campaign.

His answer is the trans-continental trip which will start as soon as Congress adjourns.

It will be similar to last year's trip, except that the latter was taken for relaxation and in order to get acquainted with the West.

This trip will be solely to give the country an opportunity to get acquainted with him.

White House Gossip.

GOSSIP-MONGERING about White House incumbents is not new. Woodrow Wilson, Harding, even Coolidge and Hoover suffered from it. There was the fantastic story during the last campaign that Hoover had suffered a stroke. Again the wild yarn that Hoover had shipped some gold out of the country on the eve of the banking crisis and was being detained in New York after Roosevelt's inauguration.

The present innuendoes deal almost entirely with the President's health. Most of them emanate from Wall Street. Most of them are pure fiction, some weirdly fantastic.

Most current is that Roosevelt has developed a state of hysteria, has become moody, irascible, subject to violent fits of temper. Another story is that the President is in such bad shape that Mrs. Roosevelt will be nominated in his place.

At first they were not taken seriously at the White House. Those who see Roosevelt daily realize that he is standing up under the strain probably better than anyone else around him.

But as the rumors grew, the President himself determined to make the trip west when Congress adjourns, in order that the country may see for itself that his health, his good humor, his poise and patience, all are excellent.

Sissy.

ENVIRONMENT, as any Psychologist will tell you, is a potent influence. Take for example the case of Representative Vito Marcantonio of New York.

When the first hot breath of summer hit Washington, Marcantonio's colleague broke out in white linens. But he sniffed disdainfully. "Sissy clothes," said he. "Up in my district we don't go in for such get-ups."

But with the Capital's notorious humid heat in full blast, the other day there appeared on the floor of the House a new Marcantonio, gleaming in a suit of snowy white.

Obviously self-conscious, Vito hurried to his seat. Members about him smiled, but refrained from comment. It looked as if he were going to escape joshing when suddenly up sailed his radical partner, Maury Maverick.

The Texan was one of those to whom Vito had boasted. Maverick eyed him from head to foot, then leaned over and in a loud stage

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, July 18.

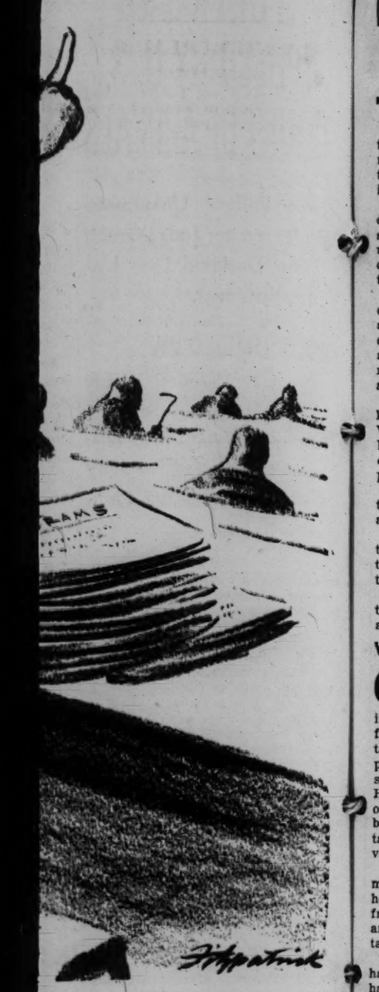

GREAT pother is made about the administration urging to pass the Guffey Bill, on the following arguments:

The bill is unconstitutional. To ask for its passage is to violate the oath of the urger to support and defend the Constitution, and to subborn a violation of his oath by every legislator who is urged.

To support this dictum the argument is that the Guffey bill purports to regulate mining within a state, that the Supreme Court in the Sick Chicken Case decided that Federal Government could not, under the Constitution, regulate mining within a state, and therefore that a vote for the Guffey bill is a vote to violate the Constitution.

"The Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is"—so asserted the outstanding legal luminary of the law. It is not what Congress says or what any legislator may think it is. If a bill was proposed to restore slavery, a man would be impeached if he voted for such a clear-cut violation. But in the vague and cloudy air of the extent of Federal power under the Commerce Clause, nobody but the Supreme Court knows the answer.

Secret Brain Truster.

Only 34 years old, he has been a one-man Brain Trust for the President on a dozen important projects, always with success. Hitherto he has avoided the mistake of other famous Brain Trusters—publicity.

"The others all went after epaulets," says Corcoran. "But since I have no epaulets, they can't take them away from me."

Officially Corcoran occupies an obscure position with the RFC. Actually, Jesse Jones gives him a free hand to work on anything. As a result, he has been the key man behind the Stock Exchange Act, the Truth in Securities Act, the Holding Corporation Bill and the Social Security Act.

Corcoran bobs in and out of the White House like an animated shuttlecock. If he wanted it, he could have been elevated to the White House secretariat, but he chose the shadows of the RFC.

Grandson of a New England sea captain, Tom was initiated to Washington as secretary to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. Until the veteran jurist died, Tom read to him regularly every Sunday evening. Their favorite book was "The Education of Henry Adams."

Young Politician.

BRILLIANT student of Felix Frankfurter, Corcoran also learned politics at Harvard. He put up a "people's candidate" for class president against a Harvard blue-blood and elected him.

After college, he joined Senator McAdoo's former law firm, Cotton & Franklin, where he amassed a small fortune, lost it, came to Washington.

Corcoran was shoved into the limelight once before when Representative Fred Britten assailed his home—the "Little Red House" in Georgetown—as center of New Deal radicals. Others living with Corcoran are Ben Cohen, famous coauthor of various New Deal bills; Judge Johnny Burns of the SEC, and Gerard Swope, son of General Electric's head.

His office hours are from 10 a. m. until 3 a. m. He takes no vacation.

Despite a mind like steel, Corcoran has all the lovable emotions of the Irish. He is more addicted to human beings than to principles. He will never let down a friend.

Merry-Go-Round.

AFTER months of preparation the Government is now ready to receive applications from seaport cities for licenses to establish "foreign trade zones." These areas, authorized by Congress last year, are tariff-free points for the trans-shipment of foreign goods. License applications should be sent to Thomas E. Lyons, acting chief of the transportation division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. . . . Although Muscle Shoals is in his district, Representative A. H. Carmichael did not attend the recent celebration staged there. Reason for his absence was that he had been warned by irate constituents that his opposition to the "death sentence" provision in the Holding Company bill was hotly resented, and that if he appeared "things would be made uncomfortable for him." . . . Although Carter Glass is recipient of five honorary college degrees—from Yale, Wesleyan, Princeton, Tufts and William and Mary—he never went to college. This year's batch of degrees brings the Glass total to eight, highest number received by any member of Congress.

General Johnson's Article

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, July 18.

GREAT pother is made about the administration urging to pass the Guffey Bill, on the following arguments:

The bill is unconstitutional. To ask for its passage is to violate the oath of the urger to support and defend the Constitution, and to subborn a violation of his oath by every legislator who is urged.

To support this dictum the argument is that the Guffey bill purports to regulate mining within a state, that the Supreme Court in the Sick Chicken Case decided that Federal Government could not, under the Constitution, regulate mining within a state, and therefore that a vote for the Guffey bill is a vote to violate the Constitution.

"The Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is"—so asserted the outstanding legal luminary of the law. It is not what Congress says or what any legislator may think it is. If a bill was proposed to restore slavery, a man would be impeached if he voted for such a clear-cut violation. But in the vague and cloudy air of the extent of Federal power under the Commerce Clause, nobody but the Supreme Court knows the answer.

The Supreme Court has never said that the Federal Government may not regulate coal mining in a state. In fact, coal mining within a state has been regulated under the Commerce Clause and the Supreme Court has upheld the regulation—not once but several times.

The Court in the Sick Chicken Case did not decide that Congress cannot regulate the bituminous coal industry. It only decided that it cannot regulate wages of a shoctim butcher who kills a chicken in Brooklyn for sale in that city—which is a very long way from saying that a great national natural resource industry, which is dying for want of regulation, and which no state can possibly regulate, must go on and die, to the acute distress of millions of people, because there is no power in our system—either in any state or in the United States—to protect it from suicidal abuses.

In argument in the Sick Chicken Case, the Court quoted language from another case in which it was said that mining was too remote from interstate commerce to bring it within the Sherman Act, and it probably was shown to be exactly that remote in the commerce of that quoted case. But, on the very same day that it decided the Sick Chicken Case, the Court warned that such language so quoted from another case does not make the law or confine its decision in a subsequent case.

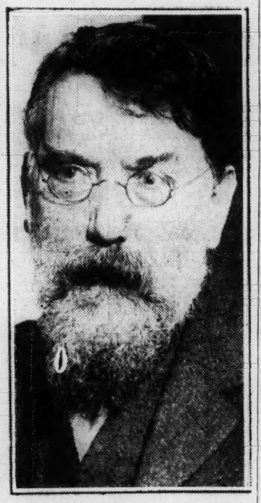

The disclosures of NRA prove that, unless the Federal Government can regulate these great national industries, there is no power in this country that can regulate them. The Court cannot and will not, in a case clearly presenting this outstanding fact, decide that in this Government alone, of all the governments on the globe, there exists any such vast zone of economic anarchy.

NRA can't be brought up again to present that problem. The Guffey bill, if enacted and promptly brought before the Court, would present it. It must be presented and presented quickly for, if we have any such insane blind spot as that in our Constitution (which is an absurd idea), then we must amend the Constitution and do it quickly.

There is every reason in economics, Government and humanity to pass the Guffey bill promptly. The argument for not passing it is the urging of those who would like to preserve exactly the unregulated zone of license which any uncertainty on this fundamental point permits.

NOTED POET DEAD

GEORGE WILLIAM RUSSELL
HIS pen name was "AE."

Noted Writer, George William Russell, Had Hand in Many Undertakings.

By the Associated Press.

BOURNEMOUTH, England, July 18.—George William Russell, Irish journalist, poet and painter, who was known under the pen name of "AE," died last night at a nursing home. He was 68 years old.

Already ill when he returned from the United States a few months ago, he suffered a setback in London during the first heat wave of the summer. At that time he told a friend, "I feel cramped in London. I need the sea and mountains and wide views of the sky."

His funeral will be Saturday in Dublin.

Helped Organize Abbey Theater.

Although known primarily as a poet, he had a hand in many undertakings. He helped to organize the famous Abbey Theater in Dublin, painted a great deal and worked energetically as a business man, organizer and editor.

Despite his own activity, he was an advocate of a philosophy of idleness. He once said Longfellow's line, "Let us, then, be up and doing," in the American poet's "A Psalm of Life," was "one of the most terrible lines in all poetry."

Born at Lurgan, County Armagh, Ireland, in 1867, Mr. Russell was educated at Rathmines School, Dublin. He entered an accountant's office, but soon became interested in agricultural co-operative associations, and in 1897 joined the Irish Agricultural Organization Society.

Thenceforward literature, painting and agricultural organization divided his attention. He edited the Irish Homestead, farm journal, from 1904 to 1923, becoming editor of the Irish Statesmen in that year. Critics have called the latter review the most skillfully edited in all Ireland.

Some of His Works.

He was in his late twenties when he published his first book of poems, "Homeward: Songs by the Way," in 1894. His spiritual mysticism found an immediate place among poetry lovers. His last book, "House of the Titans, and Other Poems," appeared in 1934.

Other of his published works were: "The Divine Vision,' 1904; "The Mask of Apollo," 1904; "New Poems," 1904; "By Still Waters," 1906; "The Candle of Vision," 1919; "The Interpreters," 1922; "Midsummer Eve," 1928; "Vale and Other Poems," 1931; "Song of Its Fountains," 1932, and "The Avators," 1933, most of them volumes of poems or philosophic musings.

In addition he published several volumes of essays and a three-act play, "Deirdre," besides pamphlets concerning co-operative farming.

He hit on his pen name accidentally. He used the signature "Aeon" in one of his earliest works. When the printer could decipher only the first two letters, Mr. Russell decided to adopt the shortest known pseudonym in literature.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE wedding of Miss Rosalee Allen Smith, daughter of Mrs. Forrest Bedford Smith of Houston, Tex., and Thomas Skinker Maffitt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skinker Maffitt, 4520 West Pine boulevard, will take place at 6 o'clock this evening at the home of the bride's mother in Houston. Bishop Clinton S. Quin, assisted by the Rev. J. P. de Wolfe, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church of Houston, will perform the ceremony in the presence of the two immediate families.

Miss Catherine Forrest Smith will be her sister's only attendant. Mr. Maffitt's father will be best man. Miss Mildred Milligan, harpist, will play the nuptial music. There will be a garden setting in the wide reception hall of the colonial home. The ceremony will take place at the bend of the stairway, with oak leaves for background, wrought-iron vases filled with gold-banded lilies of Japan and clusters of white iris. White tapers in antique standards will light the room.

The bride will be given in marriage by her cousin, Forrest Lee Andrews. She will wear a gown of beige chiffon combined with Chantilly lace. There are long bishop sleeves and the square neckline is finished with a standing lace collar. The full chiffon skirt falls from a yoke of the lace into a short train. She will wear a hat of brown tulle trimmed with a face veil and will carry yellow and brown orchids. The maid of honor will wear a formal afternoon gown of Nile green net. She will carry a small net muff overlaid with white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Smith will be in blue chiffon and will wear white orchids and the bridegroom's mother will wear gray lace and pink orchids.

The bridal table will be covered with an heirloom lace cloth, the pattern of which will be outlined with real forget-me-nots and trailing arbutus. The flower-decorated table will be lighted by white tapers in candelabra. The dining room, music room and drawing room will be adorned with lilies, white gladioli, phlox and asters.

Mr. Maffitt and his bride will spend the honeymoon in San Angel, near Mexico, D. F., and will make their home in Houston. She attended the Spence School in New York and was graduated from Wellesley College. She is a member of the Houston Junior League. Mr. Maffitt prepared at the Taft School in Watertown, Conn., for Yale University, from which he was graduated in 1928. He belongs to both the St. Louis Country Club and the country club in Houston. For the past six years he has been in business in Houston. Through his paternal and maternal grandparents Mr. Maffitt is descended from families long prominent in St. Louis. His mother is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pierce and his paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Chouteau Maffitt.

Mrs. Robert S. Hoxie, formerly of 4515 Maryland avenue, sailed yesterday for a summer abroad. She will join Mrs. George B. Winter and her party and tour through England, Scotland and Ireland. Mrs. Hoxie left St. Louis Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thornburg Ravenscroft, 625 Skinker boulevard, have gone to Harbor Point, Mich., for the summer. Their son, Kent Ravenscroft, plans to spend his holiday in Denver, Colo., where his family formerly lived. He will leave St. Louis early in August.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Bergs, 4396 Maryland avenue, have gone to La Jolla, Cal., to join the summer colony for the season. On their way West, Mr. and Mrs. Bergs spent a few days at Colorado Springs, Colo. Also leaving for La Jolla this week was Mrs. John S. Leahy, 4944 Lindell boulevard, and her sons, John S. 4 RARE TAPESTRIES GIVEN TO MUSEUM

Tournai Hangings Presented by Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim to Metropolitan in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Visitors at the Metropolitan Museum of Art now will find displayed in the room of recent accessions four rare sixteenth century Tournai tapestries presented by Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim in memory of her husband.

These colorful hangings, made largely of wool and interwoven with highlights of silk, depict incidents from the life of Hercules. In 1932 Mrs. Guggenheim lent the tapestries to the museum, and they were displayed in Gallery H9, to which they will be returned after being shown a month in their present setting.

Tentatively these tapestries have been attributed to the looms of Clement Sarrasin. In accordance with a common medieval anachronism, the figures in the tapestries are portrayed in the medieval settings and costumes. These hangings, which were popular not only as decorations but for their utilitarian value in drafty castles are each 13 by 11 feet.

Life of Hercules.

The first of this series depicts the birth of Hercules and his half brother Iphicles; the second shows the marriage of Hercules and Dejanira; the third records Hercules wooing Iole, and the fourth presents the apotheosis of Hercules.

The faces in the tapestries are executed realistically, as in Flemish paintings of the period, James J. Rorimer, curator of medieval art at the museum, points out, in the museum's monthly bulletin.

"Tournai, which had already become an important tapestry center at the beginning of the fourteenth century," Rorimer writes, "is particularly celebrated for tapestries of the type of the Hercules series, which are neither purely Gothic in inspiration nor entirely Renaissance, notwithstanding the numerous Renaissance details."

Watered Steel Sword.

Another of the museum's recent accessions is a seventeenth century East Indian scimitar, presented by Carl Otto v Kienbusch, with a blade of Damascus or watered steel.

This pattern of watered steel "as well as the qualities of strength and toughness shown in the metal, is the result of the irregular crystallization which takes place with the slow-cooling of a crucible steel of high carbon content, and the subsequent reheating and forging required to fashion the blade," according to Stephen V. Grancsay, curator of arms and armor. The hilt is incrusted with silver in floral motives.

Edward S. Harkness, a trustee of the museum, recently has presented to it a group of Egyptian antiquities of high quality, including several examples of Egyptian small sculpture. Among these are an uninscribed alabaster shawabti or tomb figure, of about 1500 B. C.; a statuette of black dolerite, showing a man seated on a circular mat, with his knees drawn up to his chin. Included also are a bronze statuette of the Goddess Uto of the twenty-sixth dynasty, and a gold finger ring and a bronze statuette of King A'h-mose II of the same period.

LOUIS M'H. HOWE RECOVERING

President's Secretary Ill Since Last Spring.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Louis McHenry Howe, secretary and political adviser to President Roosevelt, is slowly recovering from the attack of bronchial asthma that threatened his life this spring. Howe's courage has kept him alive for months and today physicians declared him much improved. He probably will spend the entire summer at the White House.

He sits up part of each day, and even wheels himself around the White House when he feels equal to it. He calls on the President in his office, and visits Mrs. Roosevelt in her upstairs sitting room occasionally. Most of his time, however, is spent in his air-cooled room playing solitaire or reading papers.

Carrier Air Conditioned places pull

We honestly believe that business men of this town who are ignoring air conditioning are missing a good thing. Those who have installed a Carrier System find it one of the best investments they ever made.

Naturally, they were able to keep merchandise crisp and fresh, salespeople more courteous, patrons cool and comfortable. But what's more, they bought 20 years of specific air conditioning experience when they chose a Carrier System. Carrier has made more installations of every size and variety than all others combined.

Follow the leader. We, as representatives of the Carrier Engineering Corporation, are equipped to give you the traditional Carrier service. Make us prove it—show you what a good tonic a Carrier System is for the dreaded "summer slump" disease. May we estimate?

TRUST FUNDS IN WILL OF MRS. VANDERBILT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Trust funds to be set up under the will of Mrs. Virginia Fair Vanderbilt indicate she left an estate of several millon dollars though the value was stated merely as "more than $20,000."

Mrs. Vanderbilt died last July 7. Her will was filed for probate yesterday at Mineola. It names her former husband, William K. Vanderbilt, co-executor with a bank and refers to him as "the father of my three children."

The will is dated June 5, 1930. Among its provisions is an annual income of $50,000 for her son, William K. Vanderbilt Jr., who was killed in an automobile accident last fall.

Two daughters are the chief beneficiaries. Muriel Vanderbilt Phelps of Middletown, R. I., is left a trust fund worth $150,000 annually, and Consuelo Vanderbilt Smith is bequeathed a trust fund worth $75,000 annually. Mrs. Phelps also is given jewelry, table silver and automobiles. Mrs. Smith will receive jewelry, a Long Island country estate and the Manhattan town home in which her mother died.

PRICE OF FARM LAND UP 20 PCT. IN THREE YEARS

Gain in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas Cited by St. Louis Land Bank Officer.

Farm lands in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas, the territory of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, have increased about 20 per cent in market value in the past three years, according to J. M. Huston, vice-president of the bank.

Good farms in the corn belt, Huston said, now sell for $125 to $175 an acre, $25 to $50 an acre more than they brought three years ago. Medium grade farms, selling for from $30 to $60 an acre, bring about $10 an acre more than they did several years ago, he said. There are other farms in the territory, regarded largely as submarginal, which may be bought for from $10 to $25 an acre.

Since the first of this year the land bank has sold 252 farms for $722,090. In the same period last year it sold 224 farms for $633,490.

PEASANT ARMY OF 900,000 TO BE ORGANIZED IN MEXICO

President Cardenas Proposes Reserve Force to Maintain Peace in Rural Areas.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, July 18.—President Lazaro Cardenas informed an agrarian assembly yesterday that a "peasant army reserve" with a potential strength of 900,000 men would be organized immediately to "maintain peace" in rural districts.

He told the small landowners that plans recently announced for a "confederation of peasants" included the formation of a national organization to defend the civil code and guarantee that elements friendly to the peasants are elected to municipal offices.

The agrarians were not informed whether the reserve forces would be armed, but President Cardenas said that in the State of Jalisco army officers would be instructed to begin organizing the peasants immediately. Military officials, he announced, will direct the efforts of the peasant groups to complete the agrarian program.

SUNDAY IS AD DAY

IT'S THE WOMAN WHO BUYS AND BUYS

Ask the Miss of 18 what she wants and almost invariably she will name something she has seen advertised in the Big Sunday Newspaper. The reason is simple... "SUNDAY IS AD DAY". Girls always have plenty of time on Sunday to sit down and read the advertisements in the paper. And if all advertisers were girls, they would know how interesting and important are the advertisements which feature new things to wear... places to go... and things to enjoy. Girls usually get what they want IT'S THE WOMAN WHO BUYS AND BUYS... buys what is advertised in the Big Sunday Newspaper.

30-HOUR WEEK BILL APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

Connery, However, Dubious Measure for Licensing Industries Can Be Passed This Session.

HE URGES IT AS 'NRA SUBSTITUTE'

216 Congressmen's Signatures on Petition Necessary Before He Can Force Vote on Proposal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Terming his 30-hour week bill "a substitute for the NRA," Representative Connery, chairman of the House Labor Committee, hopes to steer his measure toward a House vote before adjournment.

Frankly dubious that the bill, which would require licenses of industries sending goods into interstate channels, will be enacted this session, Connery said that at least it would "give the President something to look at and show the country that the House Labor Committee is not wanting for an NRA substitute."

The bill was approved by the House Labor Committee yesterday. Whether Connery introduces a petition to make a House vote mandatory will depend on the support he is offered by colleagues. He said should there be any chance of securing the necessary 216 signatures before adjournment of Congress he will introduce the petition.

To obtain a Federal license under the Connery bill an industry would be compelled to limit its employes to a 30-hour week, except by special exemption; establish minimum wages, prohibit child labor and forbid so-called "yellow dog" contracts.

Constitutionality of the bill will never be questioned, Connery said, since the measure is applicable to only industries engaged in interstate commerce. The measure would not apply to banks, newspapers and magazines, or to agricultural products sold to the consumer without processing after leaving the farm.

MRS. BLAIR URGES WOMEN TO SET WAGE STANDARDS

Suggests They Work for Amendment Giving Congress Right to Legislate on Labor.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 18.—Mrs. Emily Newell, who was head of the NRA consumers' council, said in an address prepared for delivery at the national convention of the business and professional women's clubs today, "How, Women Must Remember to be Women."

Mrs. Blair divided women into two classes—those seeking wage-and-hour equality with men and those seeking special protection for women.

"We find ourselves today in a world in the process of remaking," she continued. "Ours is the opportunity of building into it some of the values women hold dear.

"This they cannot do merely by providing themselves the better man, merely by keeping up with the men. They must take the leadership in some matters. Take this matter of wages and hours. A battle rages among women themselves, between those who would, by constitutional amendment, give the women the rights to the same wages and hours as men, and those who oppose it because it wipes off the statute books all the legislation which protects working women.

"Why accept the man-made standards? Why should not women set up the standards for hours and wages of both men and women? It would take no more time and work to get a constitutional amendment giving Congress the right to legislate hours and wages than to get the equal rights amendment."

54 MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS INDICTED OVER 1934 VOTE

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 18.—Fifty-four Wayne County Democrats, including Elmer B. O'Hara, chairman of the party's State Central Committee, and State Senator A. J. Willkowski, are charged with conspiracy to steal the 1934 election for Secretary of State and Attorney-General of Michigan.

Judge Thomas M. Cotter of Recorder's Court, who conducted an investigation of the legislative recount of votes, signed a blanket indictment yesterday naming the 54.

The indictment contained not only a charge of conspiracy, but a charge that the ballots canvassed during the recount were altered.

The 1934 contests for Secretary of State and Attorney-General were closely contested, and the Democratic Legislature, shortly before its term expired in December, adopted a recount resolution. The legislative committee reported back on the last day of the Legislature's term that the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State had been duly elected. Subsequent court proceedings, however, threw out the recount and the Republicans took over the office of Secretary of State.

TVA Power Sale Upheld By U. S. Court of Appeals

anything more than is authorized by the act. This being so, its motives are immaterial.

"The section of the act which provides that the President shall make recommendations to Congress as to the future policy of developing the Tennessee Valley is unobjectionable, as in any event the President may make such recommendations to Congress as he thinks proper.

"The act is not subject to the criticism that Congress has abandoned all purposes of navigation and national defense, since navigation is now being improved and in the event of war the right is reserved to use the Muscle Shoals property exclusively for national defense."

No Dissent; History of Case.

There was no dissent. The decision was written by Judge Nathan P. Bryan of Jacksonville, Fla., and concurred in by Judges Rufus E. Foster of New Orleans and Samuel E. Sibley of Atlanta, Ga.

Judge Sibley, adding to the opinion, says:

"The manner of the disposal of public property and the extent to which it may be allowed to affect private business are within the discretion of Congress. An exercise of legislative discretion is reviewable at the ballot box rather than in the court."

A minority of the preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power Co. instituted the suit after they had failed to get the company to start proceedings to rescind contracts between the TVA and the company which provided for the sale of the company's transmission lines from Wilson Dam to seven Alabama counties, to the TVA for $1,150,000.

The Court of Appeals dismissed a cross-appeal filed by the Alabama Power Co. stockholders asking for a declaratory judgment to prevent the TVA from attempting to renew the option contract giving it the right to purchase municipal systems.

Appeal to Be Made.

Joseph F. Johnston, one of the attorneys for preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power Co., said at Birmingham last night that an appeal would be taken promptly and probably would be heard by the Supreme Court in the fall.

Wilson dam was completed in 1925 at a cost of $50,000,000 as a unit of the Muscle Shoals project authorized by the National Defense Act for the purpose of supplying water power for the production of war munitions and for the improvement of navigation on the Tennessee River.

TVA Legislation Heads Into Deadlock in Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Amendments to expand and supplement the powers of the TVA faced a possible deadlock today over an attempt to reconcile deep-seated House and Senate differences over the legislation.

The House refused yesterday to go along with the action by which the Senate substituted its own bill, desired by the administration, for a modified measure passed by the House. Instead, it sent the legislation to conference, and Speaker Byrns named a House delegation, a majority of which has opposed any amplification of TVA powers. He was compelled to do that by an agreement enforced on the House Military Committee by TVA opponents before they would permit any TVA legislation to reach a vote.

But in the face of protests from Representative Maverick (Dem.), Texas, against a conference committee "unfriendly" to TVA, Byrns asserted that it was assumed "they will stand for the position taken by the House, so far as is possible."

"That will mean a deadlock," predicted Representative May. "I am sure the conferees, even though most of them do not want even the House bill, will stand by that measure, which is much better than the Senate's."

Both the Senate and House bills would give TVA definite authority to sell surplus electricity, to construct transmission lines to carry power to markets and to regulate resale rates."

News of Decision Starts Celebrations in Muscle Shoals Area.

By the Associated Press.

MUSCLE SHOALS, Ala., July 18.—News of the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals holding the TVA act constitutional started demonstrations here late yesterday. In Sheffield, Tuscumbia, Florence and Muscle Shoals City citizens were jubilant, and shouted their approval as word spread by word of mouth and extra editions of newspapers. City officials declared suspended plans for obtaining cheap power from the huge hydroelectric plant now would be pushed to early completion.

WALLACE IS NOT SURPRISED AT ADVERSE AAA DECISIONS

In Idaho, He Says, Getting Away From Washington Is Necessary for Mental Sanitation.

By the Associated Press.

POCATELLO, Idaho, July 18.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said here yesterday no immediate effect would be felt in the AAA organization as the result of adverse court decisions at Boston and Philadelphia on processing taxes.

"I am not surprised by the adverse court findings," said Wallace, "these and other decisions that are pending only serve to determine the ultimate designation of AAA powers."

Wallace is making the Western tour, he said, to learn conditions at first hand.

"One must get away from Washington occasionally for the purpose of mental sanitation," the secretary observed. "Only the high-powered boys come to Washington, and we must get away to learn the real state of affairs."

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 18.—Officials of the University of Illinois College of Law yesterday announced the appointment of Victor E. Ferrall, New York, to the staff, effective in September, to replace Prof. M. S. McDougal, resigned. Ferrall, who took graduate work at Yale University, is now practicing law in New York.

ROOSEVELT NAMES TWO TO TAX APPEALS BOARD

President Also Makes Five Nominations for Hawaiian Judgeships.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Roosevelt nominated William W. Arnold of Illinois and Arthur J. Mellott of Kansas today to the Board of Tax Appeals.

The President nominated Edward M. Watson of Hawaii, United States District Judge for Hawaii.

Mr. Roosevelt also reappointed Daniel H. Case of Hawaii, Circuit Judge for the second circuit; Emil C. Peters of Hawaii, Associate Judge of the Supreme Court for Hawaii in place of Judge Parsons; Francis M. Brooks, fourth, Judge of the first circuit in place of Judge Watson, and reappointed Albert M. Cristy, second Judge of the first circuit of Hawaii.

BUS DRIVER REPORTS HOLDUP

Ulysses Beinke, driver of a Public Service Co. bus on the Delmar line, reported he was robbed of $38 last night by a passenger who drew a revolver at the start of an eastbound trip.

Beinke said the man boarded the bus near the western terminus and rode to Skinker boulevard after the holdup. He said he made no stops for other passengers during the trip.

MRS. WALEY TO SERVE TERM AT MILAN, MICH.

Woman in Weyerhaeuser Kidnaping Gets 20 Years—Husband Moved to Alcatraz.

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., July 18.—Mrs. Margaret Thulin Waley, sentenced yesterday to serve 20 years for participation in the kidnaping of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, is expected to be taken to the Federal Women's Detention Farm at Milan, Mich., within a week.

She was sentenced by United States District Judge E. E. Cushman after he had rejected motions for an arrest of judgment and a new trial.

The 19-year-old wife of Harmon M. Waley was convicted Saturday on two counts in the $200,000 ransom kidnaping of May 24. She had tried to plead guilty both before and after her husband was sentenced. She received 20-year sentences for conspiring to kidnap and kidnaping, the sentences to run concurrently.

When Whaley pleaded guilty, Judge Cushman gave him 45 years on the kidnaping count and two years on the conspiracy count, the terms to be served concurrently.

Mrs. Waley accepted her sentence philosophically. "Now every day will bring me nearer to Harmon," she said as she asked her attorney not to appeal.

While she was in court yesterday her husband was transferred from McNeil Island to Alcatraz Island Prison, and at the same time a Washington State detainer was filed against him. This detainer doubles the time he must serve before a possible reunion with his wife. Waley may be released after 30 years for good conduct, but he may never be paroled. If the detainer had not been filed he would have been eligible for parole after serving 15 years.

The Waleys' co-defendant, William Dainard, alias Mahan, still is a fugitive. He was last seen in Butte, Mont., June 9, the day the Waleys were arrested in Salt Lake City, Utah.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS SR. BACK IN ENGLAND WITH LADY ASHLEY

No Chance of Marriage This Year, She Says; Actor's Divorce Not Final.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 18.—Lady Ashley, arriving with Douglas Fairbanks Sr. on the liner Empress of Britain, said today there was no chance of their marrying this year because she "wouldn't think of making him a bigamist."

They were in a cheerful mood on their return after a five-month absence from England.

"I refuse to discuss private affairs," Fairbanks said.

"He couldn't be married if he wanted to until the divorce in California (from Mary Pickford) becomes final in January," Lady Ashley said. "I cannot say what will happen after this year. We might be dead by then."

She parried questions about a platinum ring she was wearing on the third finger of her left hand. She said she was not in the best of health and was going to Baden-Baden to take the cure, Fairbanks accompanying her.

The two drove to London accompanied by Mrs. Basil Black, Lady Ashley's sister, and their mother, Mrs. Hawkes. After a month in Germany, Fairbanks and Lady Ashley plan to go to Japan.

"I am going to help produce Japanese films which will appeal to the whole world," said Fairbanks.

COINS AND CANDY PLACED IN AUTO-PARKING METERS

Bridge Players Put Nickel in Slot, and Set Up Table in Street Space.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 18.—The automobile parking meters here have yielded both coins and candy mints, which objecting citizens have slipped into the devices.

The first day's operation was interrupted by a District Court injunction, but before that City Treasurer Joe Ammerman got a collection of nickels, dimes, pennies, slugs and candy, and announced it amounted to $85.73.

Two bridge-playing pairs, carrying camp stools and a bridge table, sought a space on a busy street, put a nickel in the slot, and settled down to a rubber of bridge.

Ed Butterfield, former County Commissioner, obtained a temporary order restraining collection of the parking fees until next Tuesday.

LONG LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

Says He Will Answer Roosevelt and Ickes Tomorrow.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 18.—Before starting for Washington last night Senator Huey P. Long issued a formal statement in which he said "so again our answer to Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes is 'go slap damn to hell' and I will answer them on the floor of the Senate this coming Friday morning."

Long was replying to the statement of the President saying future public works loans for Louisiana were under questione because Federal policy demanded Federal supervision of the expenditures and one of Long's laws required State supervision in this State.

HONOR GRADUATE GIVES BOND ON FRAUD CHARGE

Arnold C. Mason Released After Arrest at R. O. T. C. Camp; Organizer Still Sought.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Arnold C. Mason, former St. Louisan and Yale honor graduate, charged in a Federal warrant with using the mails to defraud in stock promotion deals, was released yesterday on bond of $7500 after his arrest at Camp Devens, Mass., where he was serving as a First Leiutenant in an RCTC camp.

Bond was arranged over the telephone by his father Watson S. Mason, 8036 Watkins drive, Clayton, who posted a cashier's check for the amount with the clerk of the United States District Court.

Search continued today for Wallace G. Garland, youthful corporation organizer and Mason's superior, who began his career after studying under Prof. Irving Fisher, widely known Yale economist, and then organizing a traffic signal light company in which Fisher became interested.

Soundness of the original corporation is not under question but the Government is investigating the operation of 30 other concerns organized by Garland. All of them, it is said, were controlled by Central Commonwealth Service and the Public Service Holding Co., the portfolios of which were loaded with worthless securities.

Three other Garland-Mason employes were arrested yesterday on chharges of mail fraud. Bond was fixed at $1500 each. Warrants have been issued also for six other persons in connection with stock selling deals said to aggregate more than $9,000,000.

Those arrested were George Henriques, former head of a defunct brokerage house bearing his name, and William C. Toomey and Arnold C. Klein, described as stock salesmen. Hearings will be held July 31.

When Mason, who graduated in 1928 from Sheffield, the Yale scientific school, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Cotter he asked to be allowed to return to Camp Devens where he was attached to the 301st Engineers.

"I have worked hard there," Mason explained, "and would like to continue the performance of my duties until the close of camp."

Commissioner Cotter referred the request to the United States District Attorney.

States' Rights Report.

The association's Committee on American Citizenship presented the subject of states' rights in its report.

"Under stress of economic depression, there is a temptation to overlook the bounds in which the Federal Government may exercise power," said the report.

"The courts, however, may with confidence be relied upon to refuse judicial sanction to legislation which, under the pretense of regulating interstate commerce, invades the field reserved to the states."

The report mentioned the "general welfare" clause in the Constitution, remarking that clause is "uniformly held by the Supreme Court not to confer any power on Congress to enact any statute under this provision solely because such legislation is regarded by Congress as being for the general welfare." The committee added that "this point cannot be too strongly emphasized."

The committee on commercial law and bankruptcy stated that "an essential preliminary to recovery necessarily involves some effective process of debt reduction or major increases in the value of wealth in order to restore normal, workable ledger balances."

Inflation Opposed.

The report stated inflation of existing wealth in order to balance liability totals could be accomplished only by expansion of currency, and added: "Impending fear of resort to such an artificial and dangerous expedient has proved to be an obstacle in the way of recovery, for economists are agred that a forced balance through inflationary measures or expended currency is temporary and unsound."

"Debt scaling, on the contrary, is a scientific and permanent solution, although more difficult to accomplish. The recent Supreme Court decision in the NRA case, while turning back the tide of expansion of the commerce clause of the Constitution, will accentuate legislation under the bankruptcy clause for the arrangement of debtor-creditor relations."

The committee named by the convention last year to study the "effects of the New Deal upon the rights and liberties of the American citizen," is a day overdue with its report, and there was no definite indication when it would be submitted.

The committee consists of Owen D. Young, New York; C. E. Martin, Martinsburg, W. Va.; G. W. Pepper, Philadelphia; W. D. Mitchell, former United States Attorney-General; George L. Buist, Charleston, S. C.; C. P. Taft II, son of the former President, Cincinnati, and J. D. Clark, Laramie, Wyo.

Vote Against Tax on Silver Deals.

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The McCarran bill to eliminate the 50 per cent profits tax on silver transactions was approved yesterday by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

DISPUTE OVER OUSTERS DELAYS MAYOR'S BILL

Aldermen Cool to Streets and Sewers Measure After Dismissals.

Indications today were that the administration bill for reorganization of the Department of Streets and Sewers would not be passed by the Board of Aldermen tomorrow, because of Mayor Dickmann's action Saturday in ordering discharge of 118 city employes aligned with majority factions of the Aldermen and the Democratic City Committee unfriendly to the Mayor.

The aldermanic Streets Committee held an hour's executive session on the bill yesterday, conferring with John L. Ryan, accountant of the department. Afterward Chairman Charles O'Connor said no decision had been reached as to what report to make on the measure, and that none was expected before tomorrow. Because of delay in passing the bill, 59 temporary employes of the department have been notified they would have to be dropped this month for lack of ordinance authority for their employment.

Fitzsimmons' Position.

Vice-President Fitzsimmons, a leader of the majority aldermanic faction, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today he would not favor passage of the bill unless Mayor Dickmann rescinded the discharge of the 118 workers. He asserted that it was strange the dropping of the 59 employes would disorganize the Department of Streets and Sewers, as contended by Director McDevitt, but that the firing of 118 persons for political reasons would not impair the general city service. Fitzsimmons expressed the opinion that other Aldermen agreed with his view; half a dozen of them, listening to him, indicated that this was true.

McDevitt has said that 14 of the 16 street flusher operators would have to be dropped, as would men engaged in maintaining garbage collection wagons. He was concerned over the handling of these services in that event. The reorganization bill has been held up for several months because of antagonism toward the Mayor. However, before last Saturday's wholesale discharge it had been expected the measure would be passed tomorrow.

Liquor Control Bill.

After a short caucus of 14 anti-Dickmann Aldermen Fitzsimmons declared the majority were in favor of reconsidering an amendment to a pending liquor control bill, voted by the board July 1, which would allow saloons to sell hard liquor on Sunday except between 1:30 a. m. and 1 p. m.

However, the Aldermen present decided not to be bound by the caucus, but to vote as individuals when the bill comes up for passage tomorrow. Fitzsimmons said he would offer a motion to reconsider the amendment because of its conflict with the State Sunday closing law, and was confident it would be knocked out of the bill. Other Aldermen declined to tell how they will vote.

Fitzsimmons said he would endeavor to have an amendment prohibiting sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday kept in another liquor bill pending before the board. The State law allows Sunday sale of such beer.

CHALLENGES STATE'S RIGHT TO DECIDE WHO IS LOW BIDDER

Decatur Firm Asks That Illinois Be Compelled to Approve Macon County Contract.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—The authority of State highway officials to determine who is the "lowest responsible bidder" on county projects financed by motor fuel tax funds was challenged for the first time in a mandamus suit filed in Sangamon County Circuit Court yesterday.

Birth Brothers' Construction Co. of Decatur asked that the State be compelled to approve a contract awarded to the firm by the Macon County Board. Construction of five miles of road is involved.

The State refused to approve the contract on the ground that the county board had not awarded it to the lowest responsible bidder and had refused to furnish proposals to bidders meeting State qualifications. Birth Brothers bid $31,901.48 on the project, with one other contractor submitting a lower figure but being rejected on the grounds that bank references and past work were unsatisfactory.

ADMINISTRATOR NAMED IN FLEMING ESTATE CASE

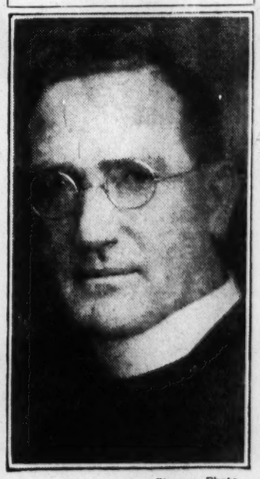

Court Retains Trust Company Specified in Will Pending Contest by Relatives.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. was appointed by Probate Judge Arnold today as temporary administrator of the $600,000 estate of Mrs. Susie Fleming pending a contest of her will.

The trust company had been named as executor and trustee in the will but contestants, two nieces and three nephews of Mrs. Fleming, alleged that it was not disinterested. They asked for a different administrator to act until the case has been terminated. Judge Arnold said no evidence was presented to support the petition for removal.

In her will, Mrs. Fleming, widow of Andrew R. Fleming, head of a printing firm, provided for payment of $74,000 in specific bequests, after which the residue of the property was to be divided among relatives and various benevolent and charitable organizations. It was alleged by the nieces and nephews she was not of sound mind.

THE REV. TIMOTHY F. O'SULLIVAN,

FATHER O'SULLIVAN FUNERAL AT CHURCH SATURDAY MORNING

Will of Immaculate Conception Pastor Leaves Bulk of Estate to Sister.

The funeral of the Rev. Timothy F. O'Sullivan, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, who died Tuesday night, will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at the church, Lafayette avenue and Longfellow boulevard. The Rev. John Nugent of St. Catherine's Church, Wellston, will celebrate the mass, and the Rev. George M. Ryan of All Saints' Church, University City, will preach the sermon. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Father O'Sullivan's will, filed yesterday, directed that not more than $1000 be expended on his funeral. Bequests were $5000 to the priest's sister, Mrs. Mary Sullivan and her husband, John Sullivan, of County Tipperary, Ireland; $500 each to the acting pastor of Immaculate Conception Church and to the Rev. D. O'Brien of Montgomery City, Mo., for masses; an automobile to John Egan of 5043 Northland avenue; household articles to Bridget Lonergan, housekeeper; and books to Kenrick Seminary. The residue of the estate, the amount of which is not indicated, was left to the Rev. Michael Joseph Sullivan, administrator of Immaculte Conception Church, for disposition in accordance with wishes expressed to him by the testator.

Father O'Sullivan, who was 55 years old, died at St. John's Hospital of kidney complications, following the breaking of both legs by a fall. He was a native of Ireland, was ordained to the priesthood here in 1905, and had been in his latest pastorate since 1921.

STE. GENEVIEVE ADDRESS BY ROOSEVELT ON RADIO

President Indicates He Cannot Attend Missouri Celebration on Aug. 22.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Roosevelt indicated today to a delegation of Missourians that he would be unable to attend the Ste. Genevieve (Mo.) 200th anniversary celebration Aug. 22, but agreed to speak over radio or long-distance telephone.

"The President held out no assurance that he could be there," Representative Williams said after calling at the White House. "We are much pleased, however, that he agreed to speak over the radio or a telephone amplyfying system."

The invitation to the President to attend the celebration was presented by the Rev. J. B. Platisha of Perryville, Mo., director of the historical pageant to be presented in connection with the celebration. Accompany Father Platisha to the White House were Senators Clark and Truman and Representative Williams, Romjue, Cannon, Nelson, Bell, Zimmerman and Duncan.

Ayers was arrested by police June 27 in the act of robbing a house at 8834 Partridge avenue, and admitted the automobile theft when the ignition key was found on him. He was on probation from a two-year sentence for Dyer act violation imposed by Federal Judge Wham in East St. Louis in February, 1934.

CHICAGO LAKE FRONT DEFENSE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Sixty civic organizations united in a "Lake Front Defense Committee," prepared today to fight in court the proposed use of 180 acres of lakefront property for a civic center in the nature of a permanent fair.

Terming the project a "Coney Island," the organizations directed their attack on enabling legislation which Mayor Kelly sponsored and which Gov. Henry Horner allowed to become law without his signature. The enabling bill stated the property could be used for "expositions, theatricals, cinema expositions, concerts, recitals, lectures, amusement devices, convention halls, public restaurants, stadia, athletic fields, athletic contests and games.

WARREN PREDICTS RISE IN COMMODITY PRICES

Treasury Adviser on Gold Price-Fixing Takes Issue With Dr. Kemmerer.

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 18.—Dr. George F. Warren, chief monetary adviser to the United States Treasury during the gold price-fixing, predicted today a substantial rise in commodity prices "after recovery occurs."

He took issue with the prediction of Dr. E. W. Kemmerer, however, that the result of devaluation would be a doubling of the present cost of living, asserting, "I have seen no sound reasons presented for anticipating that the long-time relationships of value have permanently changed."

Kemmerer evidently believes that some permanent change has occurred which will cause an ounce of gold normally to be worth only about two-thirds as much as it was before the war.

Dr. Warren said: "Presumably gold will lose considerable of its present excessive value and prices in gold are likely ultimately to rise to about the pre-war level of 100." If this occurred, he said, commodity prices would ultimately presumably rise as much above the pre-war level as the gold price has been increased, or approximately 69 per cent.

Dr. Warren, who has been little at the Treasury since the gold price fixing was discontinued last year, addressed the eleventh annual session of the American Institute of Co-operation at Cornell University, which later was scheduled to hear Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, who resigned as advisor to the Treasury nearly two years ago, partly because of disagreement with the Warren gold price theory.

Dr. Warren continued that Kemmerer evidently looked for prices to return to the 1926 level without any action on the gold price. Warren, on the other hand, has maintained that the pre-war level was the more natural level. The average for 1926 was 45 per cent higher.

Dr. Warren said that since 1916 he had looked for a fall in prices while Kemmerer thought the bulk of the deflation was over in 1922. Dr. Warren said he regretted that Kemmerer, who has been highly critical of the Government's gold policy, was unable to be present.

James D. Mooney, president of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, speaking before the conference, proposed a return of the United States to the gold standard with unrestricted redemption of dollars in gold.

Mooney recommended a dollar containing 13.714 grains of fine gold, equivalent to the present price of gold at $35 an ounce.

"The initial move in the direction of stabilization should be made by the one nation best capable of assuming the leadership—and that nation is the United States," declared Mooney.

"The assumption of this leadership would cause the dollar to become the soundest money of the world, and, in effect, the real international currency."

ADVISES REFUSING LICENSE TO KANSAS BROADCASTER

Federal Commissioner Objects to Programs on Station Formerly Controlled by Dr. Brinkley.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A recommendation that the application for renewal of the license for Station KFBI, Abilene, Kan., be denied was made to the Federal Communications Commission today by Commissioner Thad H. Brown. Brown, after investigation, reported that the character of the programs presented over this station was "definitely not of a type that serves public interest, convenience and necessity."

He referred to programs given by Dr. John R. Brinkley and "Koran," and "Omar," programs and a program sponsoring Dr. Ford's reducing tea.

The station was controlled by Dr. Brinkley at one time. The "Omar" program was devoted to revelations of the Omar birth chart and made references to the use of the subconscious mind. The "Koran" program answered questions "relating to problems of domestic life, love, employment and other matters. The Dr. Ford reducing tea program was found by Commissioner Brown to include representation that the tea would reduce weight "harmlessly." Brown reached the conclusion that "Dr. Ford" was an old showman and not a doctor of medicine.

BOARD GIVES IN TO HUEY LONG

New Orleans Group Votes Him Control Over Works Job.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—The New Orleans sewerage and water board voted unanimously today to accept Huey Long's State control and release $1,800,000 in tied-up Federal public works funds to place 4000 men in jobs.

The board's 13 members, including Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, Long's political enemy, adopted a resolution accepting the terms of the State Civil Service Commission for jobholders which would in effect place the board under Long control. Walmsley, ex-officio president of the board of Commissioner Fred A. Earhart, who stood with Walmsley 10 days ago when Long sought to force Walmsley's resignation as Mayor, voted with the reservation that they would make no peace with Long.

GRAINS CLOSE OFF OVER CENT AFTER UPTURN

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 18.—Wheat futures closed down 1¼ to 1½c today after ruling lower except for a short time following opening which was higher. Corn also was down 1 to 1⅝c.

Winnipeg opened ⅛c up and improved some early. The close was ¼@¼c net lower.

Liverpool wheat came ½d higher in one cable after ¼@⅜d lower start. The close was ⅜ to 1d higher.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Sales of large amounts of red winter wheat to arrive here for September delivery led to notable late weakness of Chicago wheat prices late today.

Indications pointed to liberal supplies of red winter wheat in Ohio. Another late weakening influence was somewhat aggressive selling of December wheat by houses with connections southwest.

Wheat closed shaky, ⅞@1⅜ under yesterday's finish, Sept. 84¼@⅝, corn ⅝@1¼ down, Sept. 75¼@¾, oats ½@⅝ off, and provisions varying from 5-cent setback to 10 cents advance.

Grain prices reacted quickly today from an upward tendency shown at the start.

There was a noticeable absence of sustained speculative demand, a circumstance taken to indicate that for at least the time being the market was overbought. Opening unchanged to ⅜ higher, September 86¼@86⅝c, wheat afterward declined to below yesterday's finish. Corn started unchanged to ⅜c up. September 76⅜@76½c, and then underwent a pronounced sag.

A bearish unofficial summary as to the Canadian crop outlook had considerable effect in turning Chicago wheat prices downward nearly 2 cents at times. The summary said Canadian wheat prospects were good, despite apprehension regarding rust damage in parts of the prairie provinces and nothwithstanding drouth conditions, too, in various sections. Increased selling that developed here was interpreted as largely coming from northwestern sources, although some observers said much of the pressure was hedging against the harvest movement of winter wheat in territory adjacent to Chicago.

The fact that the Minneapolis wheat market today failed to hold sharp initial gains did a good deal to handicap friends of higher prices here. Numerous traders who were early buyers at Chicago switched later to the selling side. Absence of fresh radically adverse news concerning black rust formed a contrast with recent developments.

Corn and oats paralleled the bearish action of wheat prices.

Provisions advanced with hog values.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 41,177,000 bushels, corn 7,259,000. Open interest in wheat was 73,430,000 bushels, and in corn 32,984,000.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Raw sugar was quiet early today and with refiners still holding aloof, no sales were reported. Offerings, however, continued rather liberal at concessions of 5 points from previously paid prices, or at 3.25 for spots.

After opening 1 point higher to 2 points lower, futures weakened under a reenwal of liquidation and hedge selling which uncovered considerable stop orders. Sellers seemed to be influenced by the easier tone of the spot market and continued nervous over the attack of the recent Circuit Court decision holding the AAA processing tax unconstitutional. The break carried Sept. No. 3 off from 2.28 to 2.21 and May fgrom 2.04 to 1.99, or 5 to 6 points net lower. There was considerable covering on the decline, however, encouraged by private advices from Cuba that an embargo may be placed on exports of unsold sugar. The early decline was nearly all recovered with the market at midday back to or within a point of the previous close, with Sept. at 2.27 and May at 2.04.

Refined was quiet and unchanged at 5.25 for fine granulated, with second hand available at around 4.97½.

The market eased late in the day under renewed hedge selling futures closing easy, 6 to 7 lower; sales, 20,450 tons. July, 2.19n; Sept., 2.21b; Dec., 2.15b; Jan., 1.92b; March, 1.94b; May, 1.95b.

BIGGEST RISE OF YEAR ON UPPER MISSOURI PREDICTED

Capt. Young, River Engineer, Expects Peak Stage of 17 Feet at Omaha Tomorrow.

OMAHA, Neb., July 18. — Capt. James M. Young, army district river engineer, predicted today that the biggest rise of the season on the upper Missouri River is on its way. He expects a peak stage of about 17 feet here Friday.

No serious damage is anticipated, although some lowlands may be flooded. He also said newly completed dikes and revetments should hold well.

The high water, Young explained, is due to heavy rains in the valley of the Yellowstone River and other points above Omaha.

LAVAL BARS DEMONSTRATION AGAINST HIS ECONOMY DECREES

Organized Opposition to 10 Per Cent Pay Cut Is Confined to Civil Workers and Labor Unions.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 18.—Premier Pierre Laval today prohibited all public demonstrations against his economy decrees.

Organized opposition to the decrees, cutting salaries by 10 per cent in an effort to save the franc, thus far has been confined to civil workers and labor unions. War veterans suspended judgment.

The Bondholders' Federation, for which the decrees provided heavy taxation of profits from war industries, unregistered securities and large incomes, preferred the decrees to possible currency devaluation.

SPECIALTIES FEATURE OF A FURTHER STOCK RISE

General Motors Prominent in Trade Very Early — Rails and Utilities Are Mostly Narrow—Some New 1935 Highs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18. — Another brisk upturn today in stock market prices helped bolster speculative sentiment. Specialties, however, continued to lead the advance.

Many issues moved into new high ground for the year and late scattered profit taking was well absorbed. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

The utilities lobby investigation and other Washington happenings apparently were not viewed as important market motivators. Business news was rather comforting.

The equities division was at its best in the first hour when several thousand-share blocks of General Motors were turned over at a fractional gain which put this stock at a new 1935 top, along with Chrysler. Packard Motors was also given a whirl, but was about unchanged.

The grains backed up after early steadiness and cotton was inclined to drift. Bonds were a trifle mixed, as were leading foreign exchanges.

Shares up 1 to around 2 points included Acme Steel, U. S. Steel, du Pont, Johns-Manville, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, American Can, Continental Can, Liggett & Myers "B," American Tobacco "B," Western Union, Motor Products, Collins & Aikman, Glidden Co., Kelsey-Hayes and Libby-Owens.

The utilities and the rails, for the most part, were narrow. Corn products and Amerada lost about a point each and Standard Oils of New Jersey and California eased.

Wheat finished off ⅞ to 1¾ cents a bushel and corn was down ¾ to 1¼. At Winnipeg wheat eased ⅛ to ¼. Cotton closed 5 cents a bale higher to 30 cents lower.

The British pound, in late dealings, showed a decline of ½ cent at $4.95¾. The French franc was at $4.95¾. A cent firmer at 6.64½ cents. Belgas, Swiss francs guilders were .01 to .05 of a cent higher. Canadian dollars were 1-32 of a cent lower at 99.81¼ cents.

News of the Day.

The power group did not seem unusually disturbed by yesterday's New Orleans court decision upholding constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority. It was realized the Supreme Court must be the final arbiter.

Bank clearings in 22 leading cities for the week ended yesterday totaled $5,863,223,000, or an increase of 13.6 per cent over the aggregate for the previous week.

Earnings reports were still being studied closely. Among these Beech-Nut Packing, for 6 months ended June 30, showed profit of $1.94 a share compared with $1.67 in the similar 1934 period. For the same time American Chicle earned $2.95 a share against $2.18. Atlantic Refining, however, in the June quarter earned 14 cents a share compared with 89 cents in the corresponding period last year.

Another reduction in the Bank of France discount rate, this time from 4 to 3½ per cent, was not unexpected in financial circles where it has been noted that fears for the franc on the continent have been waning rapidly recently.

Overnight Developments.

Overnight news from the capital and the business front threw little new light on the near-term trend of markets, observers said.

Some courage was inspired in brokerage circles by Wall Street compilations showing expansion of industrial second quarter profits over the like period a year ago.

Railroad loadings for the week ended July 13, to be published Friday by the Association of American Railroads, are expected to show a material increase over the previously reported week, which included the Independence day holiday. At the same time brokers' estimates indicated the total would be under that of the like week a year ago.

BANK OF FRANCE LOWERS DISCOUNT RATE TO 3 1-2 PCT.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 18.—The Bank of France today lowered its discount rate from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent. It was the third time the rate has been lowered in the last month.

The bank's action was taken as fear of speculation against the franc, which originally had raised the discount rate, subsided.

At the same itme, the rate on security loans was lowered from 6 to 5 per cent and the rate on 30-day notes was cut from 4 to 3½ per cent.

Gold loan rates, however, remained unchanged at 7 per cent.

TEXTILE MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Cotton goods trading was very light Thursday due to confusion arising from court decisions on processor taxes. Sheets and pillow cases were firm on a higher basis brought about by shortening discounts 5 per cent. Wool goods were steady but quiet. Silk and rayon trading was held up pending legislation in Washington proposing assessments of 5 cents a pound for rayon as a compensatory tax and 10 cents a pound on silk. Burlaps were firmer but quiet.

CORN IN MISSOURI MAKES GOOD PROGRESS

Some Fields Laid by—Weather Favorable for Hay Harvest.

The week ending Tuesday was the second week of favorable weather conditions, though not as favorable as that preceding it, according to the Missouri Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Weather Bureau.

"Temperatures were ideal over most of the State," the report reads, "but too high in some western sections, where the heat was hard on field workers, both man and beast. Heavy local rains fell in parts of the east-central section, bt in nine-tenths of the State there was no rainfall of importance. The ground surface has become hard-baked in many fieuds. Rain would be beneficial, although crops have not suffered as yet. Farmers were very busy cultivating corn, threshing wheat, cutting oats and saving hay.

"Corn ranges all the way from just planted to tasseling. All corn, except where choked by weeds, made excellent progress this week.

Although much weeding and plowing was done, many fields have not yet been properly cultivated. Some has been laid-by, with second plowing. The present condition of corn ranges from rather poor to excellent.

"Wheat threshing is well advanced and reports indicate disappointing yields in some localities, but on the average the crop seems to be fairly good. Oat harvest is well under way and this crop promises to be generally very good. Some second cutting of alfalfa has been done, and much is about ready for second cutting. Much hay was saved this week under favorable conditions.

"The week was favorable for apples, peaches, tomatoes and other garden truck. However, truck crops are beginning to need rain. Tomatoes are ripening. Prospects for apples and peaches continue good, with early varieties now ripening. The last two weeks have been favorable for cotton and the crop looks well generally. It is blooming in some fields.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—Threshing returns for winter wheat have been disappointing so far in Illinois, the Weather Bureau said today in its weekly crop report. Small grain harvesting was described as mostly completed in Southern Illinois and well under way in the central division.

Working conditions were more favorable during the week ending yesterday, said Meteorologist E. W. Holcomb, but rain is needed in most areas to soften the soil crust, baked by the hot sun.

"Corn made rapid growth and now averages two to three feet high in the northern part of the state, but is of variable height elsewhere, probably averaging less than two feet," the survey said. "A few early fields in the south are beginning to tassel. Considerable corn is laid by."

The relief examinations, conducted last fall, were intended to classify the men according to the kind of work they would be able to do under the works progress program.

A tabulation of the examination findings completed yesterday also shows 27 per cent are in Class B those unable to lift heavy objects; 16 per cent in Class C—those fitted only for timekeeping, bookkeeping and similar clerical tasks, and only 3 per cent in Class D—the total disability classification.

HORNER SEEKS RESTORATION OF 45-MILE PER HOUR LAW

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—Gov. Horner plans to ask the Legislature to restore the 45-mile-per-hour prima facie evidence section in the traffic code when it meets in special session this fall, it was indicated today.

A bill repealing the section was passed by the General Assembly and vetoed by the Governor. A similar provision repealing the section was included in the traffic code adopted and had it not been that the code contained many other sections of merit, it was said, the Governor would have vetoed the traffic code because of the repealer.

The prima facie evidence law does not set a maximum speed limit of 45 miles an hour, as, technically, the State has no highway speed limit. The measure the Governor wants restored provides that speed in excess of 45 miles an hour shall be prima facie evidence of careless driving.

Planes Without Pilots.

UNLESS somebody does something to the Constitution, or to judges who interpret it, the outlook is bad for the Government's AAA that makes industrialists pay a "processing tax" for the privilege of transforming wheat into flour, cotton into cloth, etc.

Following a New England decision, forbidding on constitutional grounds the "processing tax" on cotton, United States Judge Kirkpatrick of Philadelphia declares the hog processing tax unconstitutional.

Yesterday, to show that he is in earnest, Mussolini sent 300 new type bombing planes to Italy's African colonies close to Abyssinia. If the King of Abyssinia remains in Addis Ababa, capital of his "jungle empire," until September, he will see those planes high in the air and hear bombs bursting on the city's "brittle and ancient walls" that will not last more than a few minutes after the bombardment starts. Ethiopia's Emperor will be surprised to see his walls quickly change to dust, also he will have reason to congratulate himself if Italy sends only explosives, no gas to show what modern war really will be, especially when witch doctors talk of releasing tsetse flies against Italians and poisoning wells.

In Japan editors and Generals, who have more influence than diplomats, say Japan will take action before allowing Mussolini to drive Japanese out of Abyssinia. Mussolini will bow to the diplomats and listen to the Generals.

While King George watched maneuvers of his great fleet, he also watched an interesting airplane. It went through maneuvers, rising, descending, flying in a circle, releasing imitation bombs, with nobody on board. The plane was "radio-controlled" by an officer on land.

Radio-controlled planes, and high speed "air torpedoes" may interest this country some day. You may say: "They can never fly the ocean," and you may be wrong.

Twenty-five years ago, Lord Northcliffe said no plane could fly the English channel and offered 10,000 pounds for the first successful attempt. Bleriot, French, won it.

Russia has a plane that flies 7500 miles without taking fuel. Imagine a thousand such planes, loaded with explosives and deadly gases, controlled by a radio, sent across the Atlantic or Pacific to drop their freight on New York, or San Francisco, then turning round and flying home, under radio control.

Your mind turns gratefully to the 147th psalm, verse 20, when you consider how safe we are in a world of earthquakes, volcanoes, floods, pests. Forty or 50 die here, and we are horrified. Shanghai reports "a million inhabitants of West Shantung made homeless by floods covering 6500 square miles, 500 villages under water."

President Roosevelt selected a good man in appointing Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., Minister to Norway. When Mr. Biddle arrives, Norway will meet a young American, well described by one who has known him for years as "intelligent, conscientious, and by nature and education diplomatic."

A gentleman from Hollywood called for Rudyard Kipling's correction of script for a picture of "the light that failed." Older men can imagine the "delight" of Kipling when he read the Hollywood gentleman's statement: "Although nearly 70, Mr. Kipling is still quite spry."

Kipling wears a stovepipe hat, a flower in his buttonhole, the latest cutaway coat, holds the glove of his right hand in his left hand. For such a man there is no more terrible adjective than "spry." That's a word for your grandmother, and she resents it.

France fears a general strike, following drastic government economies that include reducing pay of civil servants, discharging many, reducing war bonuses.

In France a general strike cannot be absolute, cannot, without government consent, stop the railroads. If railroad men walk out the Government calls them all into the army. They are all "reservists," and, having called them to the army, sets them to work on railroads as soldiers. If they should then refuse to work that would be mutiny and they could and probably would be shot.

IT'S NOT ALL MAGIC

By Alexander Woollcott

WHEN men from alien lands come together, there should, I think, be barter between them. If not of goods, then of ideas. Or even of words. Recently I exchanged a few words with an Englishman who had the next deck-chair to mine. For instance, he gave me the word "muniment," which is now a treasured and permanent part of my vocabulary, although I do not know just when I shall have a chance to use it. And he has gone home to Kent to mull over the nuances of the phrase "the breaks." We were talking of magicians and how they all are uneasily aware that in magic there is an ingredient of chance which is as incalculable as the unsuspected impurity in Dr. Jekyll's philtre. The meanest and most threadbare of magicians cannot step on to the stage without an inner wonder whether the breaks will be with him or against him, whether he will be hooted off the stage before his time is done or be carried to the inn on the shoulders of an enchanted multitude.

Alexander Woollcott

They are full of devices to protect themselves when the breaks are against them. The Great Raymond, for instance, took drastic measures against such contretemps. He was a small-town Houdini, who used to tour the county fairs in our own Pennsylvania offering in each town to break free from any straight-jacket, boot, belt, handcuff, or other contraption the natives might submit. It was his manager's business to glance first over all such submitted devices to see if any of them really presented a difficult problem to the initiated. On one occasion a complacent farmer brought in a steel anklet so formidable that the manager hurried backstage and advised the Great Raymond to change his program that afternoon and do card tricks instead. But the Great Raymond merely asked, as the curtain rose, that as the challengers came upon the stage, the formidable one should be privately pointed out to Mrs. Raymond, who thereupon strolled over and stood quite close to the fellow. The Great Raymond was in the midst of his introductory remarks when Mrs. Raymond gave a little scream.

"You cad," cried the Great Raymond, "you'll insult my wife, will you?" and, to the delight of the audience, he knocked the startled farmer unconscious. The caitiff was removed to the nearest drug-store and the performance was allowed to proceed.

For a fair sample of a break of the other sort, let me tell of one that befell a magician in numbering whom among my friends and neighbors, I count myself fortunate. He is an unfrocked schoolmaster named John Mulholland, an erstwhile teacher at Horace Mann whose sinew and guile as a prestidigitator and the richness of whose lore as a student of magic have made him known among the magicians in many lands. Mulholland is forever wandering from country to country in the most agreeably detached manner, performing feats for the astonishment and irritation of the local magicians. Pharaoh would have rejoiced in so good a tricker and it seems that the little king of Rumania has something of Pharaoh in him. When Mulholland was lost in Bucharest, he performed an elaborated and spectacular feat of magic for the little King, whose response was a trifle disconcerting. "That," said the little King, "is most interesting. Do it again."

Now magicians live in dread that someone will ask just that and it was on such an occasion that something—call it luck, if you will—came to Mulholland's rescue in a fashion that magicians dream of when the great fear is on them. This happened years ago when Mulholland was a youth of 16, a shaky voice with the cards and proud as Punch of an engagement to do a few tricks in an entertainment at the National Arts Club. It seems to have been a somewhat mixed program, for his turn was sandwiched in between speeches by Bainbridge Colby and Augustus Thomas and he was just inexperienced enough to think that was a pretty tough spot. At the end of the evening, according to the custom of the club, questions were invited from the audience and of course one truculent member rose to inquire whether that young magician could do the same tricks with any pack of cards. Now the said magician may have been a novice but he was not so green that he was not ready with the traditional answer to that one. With a twinkle, he countered by asking, "Have you another pack with you?" This is usually a silencer, but an older hand would have warned him that it does not work well in a club where cards are usually on sale down at the desk.

"No," replied the truculent member, moving forward in an alarming manner, "but it will take just a second or two to send downstairs and get a pack."

And before the apprehensive Mulholland could collect his wits, there was a maddeningly efficient page-boy hurrying towards the platform, grinning like a fiend and bearing on his tray an unopened pack of cards, with the National Arts device on their orange backs. Now, of course, Mulholland, even then, could do some tricks with this or any pack, but not, as it happens, all the tricks he had just performed with the specially prepared pack he had brought with him from home. Yet with the new pack he performed a few that were considerably more mystifying than those he had exhibited earlier in the evening—rather more mystifying, indeed, than any he has been able to do since. It was, in fact, his great evening.

"Young man," said Augustus Thomas to him afterwards, "Your patter is nothing short of distressing and those first tricks you did were sheer routine. But just when I thought they had stumped you with that new pack, you did a few tricks the like of which I have not seen in half a century of show business."

The boy thanked him modestly, but did not see fit to explain that, while he was sparring for time, tearing the paper wrapping from the pack thus thrust upon him, limbering the deck in his fantastically powerful hands and fanning it out to see which way its bevels lay in the packing, he noticed something odd about it—so odd that his heart skipped a beat. What he noticed was that some error had occurred at the factory in the assembling of that pack. It was made up of 52 aces of spades.

Problems of Propriety in Table Manners

The Proper Time to Serve Salad at Dinner—Napkin Rules.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

SOMETIME ago our school was in a table setting contest at one of our leading stores and chose to set an informal table. The onlookers criticised our students for placing the salad fork before the dinner fork. We were told, "Emily Post says that the salad is always served after the meat course." People who study dietetics believe that the salad is the digestive course and should be eaten before the meat course, because if served after the most filling course much of it is usually left. For this reason we believe salad ought to be served after the soup course.

Emily Post

Answer: It is true that certain particular varieties of salad are often served as a first luncheon course—but not correctly at dinner. These varieties of salad are called hors d'oeuvres and served before the soup. But I have never heard of a "digestive course" and can't even imagine what it could mean short of a course of bicarbonate of soda, or pepsin. To serve salad after a soup course and before the meat would be as unconventional as serving ice cream first and soup last.

According to correct usage, the salad fork is put at the left of the plate and in the cosmopolitan world, if the salad is of greens, or if cheese is to be served, a silver bladed salad knife should be put at the right of the plate. The proper time for salad is after the meat course has been removed. It is absolutely incorrect to serve salad with meat that is accompanied by vegetables, but it can take the place of vegetables.

Dear Mrs. Post: Does one open the entire napkin or is it better manners to leave it folded in half on one's lap?

Answer: One opens it or leaves it partly folded as one personally prefers. The only rule is that it must stay out of sight and on one's lap.

Dear Mrs. Post: How long must one wait for others after being served?

Answer: To wait until two or three others are served is considered long enough for politeness, especially if the course is a hot one that is growing colder every moment that it stands on one's plate.

10,000 PUBLIC ENEMIES

By COURTNEY RYLEY COOPER

CHAPTER FOUR.

CRIME seems truly to start with the male at 18. He steals more automobiles at 18, followed closely by 19, than at any other time in his life. He robs more from 18 to 23 than at any other time; burglaries also reach their height at 19. Disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy also are rampant at 19, and rape is at its height. Criminal homicide reaches its zenith between the ages of 20 and 24. Persons like to talk of hardened old criminals, but it is the hardened young ones who give the law-enforcement agencies of the country the most trouble. Crime rises swiftly from 19 to 24; after that it begins to drop; even the forgers and counterfeiters slow up at 30; the embezzlers and fraudsters hang on until 39 before slackening.

The female reaches the height of her misconduct at 23. She steals more at 19 and aids in counterfeiting and embezzling best at 24. Her sex offenses are greatest at 22, as well as disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy. She also robs more and burglarizes more—and kills more. Murders go up abruptly during that year.

These statistics, as gleaned from fingerprint cards, give the answer to the American alibi that all our crime is committed by foreigners. The white American criminals exceed those foreign-born by 47 per cent. After all, the really dangerous criminals of the last few years have borne such names as Nash, Dillinger, Bailey, Bates, Kelly, Sankey, Youngblood, Robertson, Miller, Floyd, Gillis, Phillips, Hamilton, Pierpont, Makley, Green, Underhill, Bird, Bradshaw, Keating and, Holden. Only one truly foreign name stands out—that of Richetti.

More than any other factor, the fingerprint today is bearing the brunt of the fight against lawbreaking. Sometimes it fastens the "signature" of a man's fingers on his crime in spite of elaborate efforts to prevent detection. This was illustrated in the case of Odell Carlysle Boyles. For nearly three months, Joseph F. Cannon of Concord, N. C., received letters threatening to kidnap his 2-year-old granddaughter, and his 18-year-old son, Joseph F. Cannon Jr. After a time the Bureau of Investigation was notified and special agents entered the case, working in cooperation with the police of Charlotte, N. C.

Evidently this was not the ordinary extortion letter writer. Time after time, the Charlotte police, into whose hands the letters first went, strove to find fingerprints. There was none.

At last, negotiations got to the point where the extortioners gave instructions for the handing over of the cash. Twelve thousand dollars was to be placed on top of a built-in China closet in a certain vacant house in Hapeville, Ga., and a white cloth attached to the screen door to indicate that the money was waiting. This house had been suggested in a previous letter and Special Agents had anticipated that it would be designated again.

Therefore, days before the final letter of instruction had been sent to the Cannon family, Special Agents had gone quietly into Hapeville late at night, and, with flashlights taped until they emitted only a "burglar's beam" of light, familiarized themselves with the premises. More than that, they did a considerable amount of secret electric wiring, connecting the house with a garage some distance away.

Never was a place guarded more carefully or more discreetly. Powerful searchlights had been installed in the neighborhood to flood the place with light, should the kidnapers come by night. A high-powered automobile with a Special Agent at the wheel and another beside him with a sawed-off shotgun was hidden in a near-by garage, to speed forth and pursue or block the path of the extortioner's car. When these agents, could keep awake no longer, others took their places in relief. Police patrolled the neighborhood, without giving evidence that they were watching this house. There was even direct telephone communication between the hidden agents and police headquarters in Atlanta.

Every airplane which flew over the neighborhood was checked for its license numbers; this place was near an airport. Every automobile which passed the house was recorded. For three days and nights the vigil was kept without results. During that time, persons came and went about the vacant house—prospective buyers examined it, strolling through the rooms and wandering about the yard — but there was no false rush of officers.

Finally, late one afternoon, a slender, well-dressed young woman came up the street, paused in front of the house as though she might be a prospective purchaser, and at last moved slowly to the front door. She looked in the windows. Then, casually, she walked to the rear door.

She entered. A few moments later, she opened the door again and stepped forth.

TWO special agents faced her. The speed car had roared down the street and whirled to the curb, in readiness for action. The woman stared.

"What's all the excitement?"

"Your name, please," asked a special agent. "And would you mind telling us just why you happen to have that package of money in your hand? The one you got from the top of the china closet?"

She refused to answer. They took her to a neighboring house for questioning. Shortly afterward, they arrested Odell Carlysle Boyles, her husband, a parachute rigger at the Candler Airport near Atlanta.

That package on top of the china closet had been placed by special agents just beneath the ray of what is known as a beam light, installed there as the result of their secret wiring. When the hand of the young woman had broken this beam, in reaching for the packet, a signal had sounded in the hiding place of the special agents. Now there was still another surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Boyles.

They both denied the charge of extortion. The woman insisted that she had received an anonymous letter, asking her to go to this house and get a package which would be on top of the china closet. The man denied any knowledge of the plot whatever. In reply to which, the Charlotte police took his fingerprints.

Out of a series of 14 letters, there had been one in which Boyles had done an imperfect job of glazing. And the Charlotte expert had been able to develop one latent print. With the full set of Boyles' impressions, a comparison was made. The print on the letter matched one of those out of the newly made impressions. Boyles then confessed.

Thus the signature that a man leaves behind him in the commission of a crime arises to identify him. And the records of wanted men wait month upon month and year upon year in the files at Washington ready at an instant's notice to solve a mystery of the past.

What the fingerprint does for the living person, it also does for the dead; the amount of money which the identification unit annually saves for the law-enforcement bodies of the nation cannot be computed. There is nothing as costly as a long search for a hunted man. Until recently those hunts went on, sometimes year after year, without success, for the simple reason that the man no longer existed. Much of that has been changed.

A good example of this was in the notorious Irene Schroeder case of several years ago—one of the first of the so-called bobbed haired bandits. With a man named Glenn Dague and Irene's brother, Thomas Crawford, she had left a trail of banditry, robbery and murder across America, including the killing of a policeman and a sheriff. At last Irene Shroeder and Glenn Dague were captured in the wilds of the Pima Indian Reservation in Arizona. They had been trailed by Indian trackers, airplanes, men on horseback and even bloodhounds. But Thomas Crawford still remained at liberty. He had left them shortly after the first murder. Irene Schroeder, upon her capture, said he was dead, that he had been wounded in a fight with a State policeman and that they had buried him in the mountains of West Virginia.

The Pennsylvania police, to whom she had been returned, did not believe it. They obtained Crawford's fingerprints from the War Department and prepared "Wanted" circulars, one of which was sent to the Bureau of Identification. The search went on vainly. There was no trace of Crawford—anywhere.

In January of 1933, four years after the murder, two robbers put their backs to the wall of a building in Cape Girardeau, Mo., where they had been storing the loot from a robbery at Morehouse, Mo. Both were drunk; vaguely they realized that police had trailed them.

"Shoot it out!" said one thickly.

GUNS were raised; trigger finger tensed; red-yellow fire streaked from pistol barrels. Instantly the guns of the police answered; the two robbers staggered forward, strove in vain to raise their pistols for a last shot, and fell dead.

Apparently they were merely two drunken thieves, brave through liquor, who had lost lives in an effort to "fight it out with the cops." Efforts to identify them were vain. Then one day the Identification Unit received two sets of fingerprints, submitted by the Chief Special Agent of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway at St. Louis. They were marked:

Unknown Number 1 was checked. His only record was that of vagrancy, merely a stray in the world of crime. The expert bent above the fingerprints of Unknown No. 2. At last, after a search of the files, he turned to a fellow worker.

"Say," he asked, "they executed Irene Schoeder and Glenn Dague, didn't they?"

"Yes, a couple of years ago. The third member of the gang got away."

"No, he didn't," answered the first expert, and tossed over the fingerprint card of Unknown Number 2. It matched with another from the files — that of Thomas Crawford.

The High Cost One Pays for Snappy Retort

By Elsie Robinson

THOSE people with a snappy comeback. Perhaps you envy them. Yet, at the same time, wonder about them.

It must—you think—be wonderful to be as quick as that. Always ready with the smart answer. Hitting people right where they live, with a swift tie. Like that terribly clever Dorothea Lang, f'r instance——

Elsie Robinson

Remember how Dorothea cracked down on the Village Bore? And was his face red? And turned the laugh on the Family Martyr . . . that was One Red Hot Moment! You'd surely like to possess a technique like that. Particularly when people make you mad. Hours after, you think of a crushing retort. But at the moment you're dumb. If you could only be like Dorothea—hand it to 'em, right on the spot—give them the bawling out they deserve!

Yes, Dorothea is a wow in her line. Everyone says you can't beat her. And yet—there's something puzzling. Even though she's the life of the party, Dorothea isn't popular. It seems strange—a smart person like that. Perhaps that's just it. The clever Dorothea may be TOO smart.

A Snappy Come-back is a neat accomplishment. And gets a big hand. But sometimes it comes too high. For the sharp tongue cuts more than surface deep. Many a time it penetrates, unforgivably to the secret places of the spirit.

Pastor Hay of Grace Church in Long Hill, Connecticut, wise in the way of souls, puts it this way—

"I wouldn't give a straw for a man who couldn't on occasion bite a crowbar in two in pure dancing fury. But—don't do it; you simply spoil the crowbar or break a tooth . . . We have all thought, afterwards, of the cruelly perceptive remark we might have made, if we had just been a little quicker. How it would have pierced and hurt, how it would have silenced some parish pest!

"Unfortunately, there have been times when the poisonous dart lay ready to our tongue at the needful moment, and we have loosed it sharp and straight at some man's folly—but it hit his heart. It struck in those mysterious depths where each man tries to maintain a little shy and secret self-respect" . . . .

"A little shy and secret self-respect." Search the roots of your own life. . . . what is it that sustains you through periods of shame and failure? What persists beneath your mask of clowning or bullying? To what do you clutch, when all other hope seems lost? YOUR OWN "SHY AND SECRET SELF-RESPECT" . . . your own belief in yourself.

What is there in yourself that you respect? You can't say—exactly. Not your past record—that falls far too short of your desire. Nor your present attainment . . . that too is unsatisfactory. And yet—there's something. Something untouched by personal weakness or failure, cowardice or dishonesty: something enduringly beautiful and strong in which you will always believe, no matter how poorly you express it.

And that's the secret part of you which is wounded by the swift, cruel retort. Your outward conduct may deserve that retort. But that finer part of you . . . that "real self" hidden deep within you . . . doesn't deserve it, resents it fiercely. No one, you feel, however clever, has a right to invade and assault that inner self.

That's how you feel about the Smartie Come-back. And you're right! But remember—the reasoning which applies to you applies also to every other human. The obscure plodder who lives and dies unnoticed . . . the skulking thief . . . the murderer shuffling to the gallows . . . each one has also the secret respect for the self you cannot see, for the self which might have saved him if it had been recognized in time. And he'll never forgive you if you slash that secret self, for the sake of an applauding hand. Nor should he!

It's as criminally cruel to stab another fellow's self-respect as to knife him in the back.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM writing you in the hope that, through your column, I may reach some lonely person who has been so unfortunate as to be shut up in a hospital, or sick at home, with no one who feels interested enough in them, to bring the outside world to them, perhaps through reading to them. They might enjoy stories, even true detective stories—or any kind of fiction as well as current events.

Now please, Mrs. Carr, don't get the idea that I am some strange and newly budding saint; far from it, but I still have the faculty to "feel down deep" for those who have no one who cares whether they are sick or well. If I can help them pass through the most trying hours of their lives, I would be glad to offer my services, without compensation, of course, by giving a few hours of my time toward trying to help those who feel that life has passed them by.

I once knew a dear little mother who raised eight children, all by herself and that mother's heart throbs would make some fiction you read today weak and sickly stuff, compared with her life, which she gave. She married, but the father was just someone responsible for the children and there the responsibility ended for him. This is what prompted me to write this letter—I am thinking of the handicap, but which ended in the children growing up sweet and fine. I am also thinking of that father who, in after life, wondered why his children did not care for him. And now, Mrs. Carr, in case you see fit to print this letter, I will leave my name and address.

N. F.

I want to thank you for the kind offer, which may prove a boon for someone in trouble who needs it. You gave me your name, but not the address; if you will furnish this, I shall be glad to send you any inquiries I may have.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I ENJOY your letters, but I sure would like to hear from folks who have a parent as "Broken-hearted Mother" puts her case. But, to say the least, if I were a mother, I wouldn't air my family affairs for public reading. I think it silly and foolish. If she has given so much, she should not tell the world, as it certainly does not make matters better.

A READER.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN YOUR column we have read many letters discussing the bad habits of the young men of today. Therefore, we two boys, 17 and 18 years of age, are writing this letter, to show some few of the obnoxious traits of our so-called young ladies.

Recently there was a carnival in town, and we escorted two young ladies with whom we were keeping company, in a purely friendly manner, and they decided, against our will, to see the burlesque show. To all outward appearances, they seemed to enjoy the show despite the fact that some of the performers were scantily dressed, and some of the jokes questionable. When the show was over they declared that it was the worst display that they had ever seen, and gave us a thorough upbraiding.

Also a few days after the carnival escapade, we saw these same two girls on a public tennis court, dressed practically as scantily as the performers in the burlesque show. We are sure that a friendly game of tennis does not require the freedom of movement that these girls had, and that they were not wearing these scanty outfits for healthful purposes. We were so abashed at this lack of sufficient clothing that we were ashamed to speak to them, and did not. K—K.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

WONDER if you can tell me whether yawning is just a habit or whether I do not get enough sleep? I yawn practically all the time and often it is very embarrassing. I do not seem to be able to control it. TED.

Sometimes this is merely a habit. Again, one's sleep is of such a character, because of a derangement in digestion or some nervous disturbance, that one does not feel rested after sleep. Too many cigarettes are sometimes the cause of this heavy, dopy feeling. If your energy is so lacking that it handicaps you seriously, you should have a physician give you a going-over for the sake of your general health.

Dear Martha Carr:

PLEASE define the word "psychiatrist." Am I right in assuming that a psychiatrist is a doctor who works with the mind and tries to change one's viewpoint? 1911.

According to Webster's brief definition, Psychiatry is the treatment or study of mental diseases. An abnormal or morbid viewpoint might, and often does, come within the scope of such treatment.

Of course you can find a more lengthy and detailed definition in the many technical volumes written by and for the medical profession.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHAT, may I ask, is your opinion of husbands who expect their wives to live permanently in the home of their in-laws?

I know of several such cases, wherein the husband is very well able to maintain a separate establishment, though perhaps not as elaborate a one as his parents, but

Fitting Kitchen With Necessities

For the young housewife who is about to fit out the kitchen with the necessary equipment here are some essentials.

She will need a good-sized cook-pot, several saucepans, a frying pan, a double boiler, a tea kettle, a coffee pot, tea pot, strainer and a roasting pan. She will also need a meat grinder, a cheese grater, measuring spoons, a measuring cup or cup in which to stir various mixtures, a potato masher, an egg beater, can opener, corkscrew, bottle opener, a strainer, cooking fork, mixing bowl, apple corer, vegetable knife and one other sharp knife, salt, pepper and flour shakers.

She may add to this list as she sees the need but these are all pretty nearly "must" requirements for the housekeeper. Of course, too, in the kitchen, she will need a waste basket of large proportions, a combination chair and step ladder, pail, mop, broom, cloths, dish pan, sink strainer, dish drainer, refuse can, dust pan and brush.

First get the essentials and as the menus become more elaborate add requirements for greater activity.

The Fireplace.

Always clean and brush the hearth of the fireplace before cleaning the room, and never get into that very bad habit of sweeping dust into the fireplace. You only have it back in the room again within an hour.

A Helpful Notation.

On the bottom of the card containing the recipe for the cake, write the temperature you found best for baking and the length of time it took to bake the cake. It will insure even baking as different recipes require entirely different sorts of baking to obtain the best results.

There is no garnish for the fish course so attractive as thin slices of lemon, dipped either in minced parsley or sprinkled with paprika.

Frisby Dangles Logic Before the Critical Masses

—:— —:—

Dares Timid Public to Find Flaw in Proposal!

SAN DIEGO.—Surrounded by a throng of Exposition visitors, Congressman Frisby last night outlined his plan for leading the nation back to prosperity.

"My plan," said Frisby, pausing only long enough to munch popcorn offered by admirers, "is to have Congress immediately declare war the adversary to be determined by placing names of all nations in a hat, and having Miss America select the unlucky country. Immediately all adult males past 40, including bankers, lawyers and judges, will be drafted for service. Now observe how my plan works. The bankers will engage all the lawyers to file bills of exception. The lawyers will engage a host of alienists and character witnesses to prove that the bankers are unfit. By calling all unemployed as witnesses, and charging large fees, there will be a redistribution of wealth. Now, here's where the judges come in. They will rule that the war declaration was unconstitutional and issue an injunction against war as irrelevant. This will permit all witnesses to raise mushrooms. Each grower will pay a license plus a small tax of $2.00002 per mushroom, thus reducing the National Debt 10 per cent per annum. Thus my plan permits each citizen to pass his declining years in the country, surrounded by his wife's relatives, with spare time to take harmonica lessons and organize hill-billy orchestras or collect period furniture from Grand Rapids, including a handsome set of book-ends to embrace a copy of Anthony Adverse. Furthermore, all citizens having been drafted they automatically will be veterans and entitled to a soldiers' bonus without taxation, as each veteran can pay his neighbor's bonus and vice versa. Furthermore, the Postmaster-General can issue a Mushroom Stamp, and a handsome profit will be derived therefrom. As there will be great competition for the honor of sitting for the portrait of the mushroom, a small entrance fee can be charged to enhance the Government's revenue."

If I can help them pass through the most trying hours of their lives, I would be glad to offer my services, without compensation, of course, by giving a few hours of my time toward trying to help those who feel that life has passed them by.

I once knew a dear little mother who raised eight children, all by herself and that mother's heart throbs would make some fiction you read today weak and sickly stuff, compared with her life, which she gave. She married, but the father was just someone responsible for the children and there the responsibility ended for him. This is what prompted me to write this letter—I am thinking of the handicap, but which ended in the children growing up sweet and fine. I am also thinking of that father who, in after life, wondered why his children did not care for him. And now, Mrs. Carr, in case you see fit to print this letter, I will leave my name and address.

N. F.

I want to thank you for the kind offer, which may prove a boon for someone in trouble who needs it. You gave me your name, but not the address; if you will furnish this, I shall be glad to send you any inquiries I may have.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I ENJOY your letters, but I sure would like to hear from folks who have a parent as "Broken-hearted Mother" puts her case. But, to say the least, if I were a mother, I wouldn't air my family affairs for public reading. I think it silly and foolish. If she has given so much, she should not tell the world, as it certainly does not make matters better.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN YOUR column we have read many letters discussing the bad habits of the young men of today. Therefore, we two boys, 17 and 18 years of age, are writing this letter, to show some few of the obnoxious traits of our so-called young ladies.

Recently there was a carnival in town, and we escorted two young ladies with whom we were keeping company, in a purely friendly manner, and they decided, against our will, to see the burlesque show. To all outward appearances, they seemed to enjoy the show despite the fact that some of the performers were scantily dressed, and some of the jokes questionable. When the show was over they declared that it was the worst display that they had ever seen, and gave us a thorough upbraiding.

Also a few days after the carnival escapade, we saw these same two girls on a public tennis court, dressed practically as scantily as the performers in the burlesque show. We are sure that a friendly game of tennis does not require the freedom of movement that these girls had, and that they were not wearing these scanty outfits for healthful purposes. We were so abashed at this lack of sufficient clothing that we were ashamed to speak to them, and did not. K—K.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

WONDER if you can tell me whether yawning is just a habit or whether I do not get enough sleep? I yawn practically all the time and often it is very embarrassing. I do not seem to be able to control it. TED.

Sometimes this is merely a habit. Again, one's sleep is of such a character, because of a derangement in digestion or some nervous disturbance, that one does not feel rested after sleep. Too many cigarettes are sometimes the cause of this heavy, dopy feeling. If your energy is so lacking that it handicaps you seriously, you should have a physician give you a going-over for the sake of your general health.

Dear Martha Carr:

PLEASE define the word "psychiatrist." Am I right in assuming that a psychiatrist is a doctor who works with the mind and tries to change one's viewpoint? 1911.

According to Webster's brief definition, Psychiatry is the treatment or study of mental diseases. An abnormal or morbid viewpoint might, and often does, come within the scope of such treatment.

Of course you can find a more lengthy and detailed definition in the many technical volumes written by and for the medical profession.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHAT, may I ask, is your opinion of husbands who expect their wives to live permanently in the home of their in-laws?

I know of several such cases, wherein the husband is very well able to maintain a separate establishment, though perhaps not as elaborate a one as his parents, but still insists on remaining with his people. Because he is satisfied to remain in the home of his youth he feels his wife, too, should be contented and makes no effort to break away from the home ties.

To me this seems an utterly selfish attitude—expecting the wife to forfeit every right and privilege which is her natural due. For what woman does not expect to be mistress in her own home? Or what meaning to the words. "And for this cause shall a man leave father and mother and cleave to his wife?"

I have been severely criticised for taking this stand in the instance of a young niece of mine and I should like your frank opinion. DISGUSTED AUNT.

I believe, where there is no real necessity, that it is a mistake; sometimes almost a tragedy, for man to insist upon this. Sometimes it is laziness; it relieves him of certain responsibilities. It is a sort of inanition and certainly a lack of judgment; but of course if his wife meekly stands by and puts up with the selfishness, she is as culpable as he.

There have been good reasons why families were obliged to "double up," and they have done so, successfully and peaceably; but there is no reason why they should not separate, as peaceably, and see each other often and maintain friendly relations.

Brief Outlines Of the Movies For the Week

The Far East Is Setting for New Film—Grace Moore Held Over.

OPENING today, the Missouri Theater's new bill is composed of "Silk Hat Kid," featuring Lew Ayres, Mae Clarke, Paul Kelly and William Harrigan, and "The Healer," with Ralph Bellamy, Karen Morley and others. "Silk Hat Kid" presents Ayres as bodyguard for Kelly, gang leader and cafe owner. Complications arise when the bodyguard falls in love with his employer's "moll," Miss Clarke. "The Healer" tells the story of a young doctor interested in combating serious children's diseases. A young society woman assists him in his endeavors, but their partnership is broken up temporarily by another wealthy young woman who promises the physician a brilliant career. He accepts a position in a large sanatarium, but finds it is only to cater to the whims of wealthy patients. A forest fire which destroys the sanatarium sets him free again on a career of his own.

SETTING its new shows a day ahead of regular schedule, the Orpheum presents "Shanghai" and "Front Page Woman" tomorrow. "Shanghai" is a production of Walter Wanger, whose career has been marked by attempts to bring new dramatic material to the screen, as in "The Covered Wagon," "The Sheik," "Washington Merry-Go-Round," "The President Vanishes" and "Private Worlds." The new picture, from an original story and screen play by Gene Towne, Graham Baker and Lynn Starling, was inspired by an article in the magazine, "Fortune," describing a business and building boom in the Far East metropolis. The theme is racial prejudice, as directed against Charles Boyer, who takes the role of a half Chinese, half Russian financial wizard. As Boyer moves to control of a financial empire in Shanghai, he falls in love with Loretta Young, an American girl. Things go well until Boyer, resembling the Russian side of the house, tells of his mixed blood. A strange decision by the two lovers climaxes the story. "Front Page Woman," with Bette Davis and George Brent, comes from a magazine story, "Women Are Bum Newspaper Men," written by Richard Macaulay, former continuity editor at radio station KMOX. Macaulay, who left St. Louis about 18 months ago, now resides in New York. The story concerns the rivalry between Miss Davis and Brent, both star reporters on competing papers. The man, genuinely fond of the girl, scorns her journalistic ability until she beats him on an important story.

ANOTHER newspaper story is to be found at Loew's State Theater, in "The Murder Man," with Spencer Tracy and Virginia Bruce. Tracy, who has had important roles in more than 20 pictures, appears for the first time under his new contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He is cast as a newspaper reporter who has become something of a specialist in solving murder mysteries. The street killing of a prosperous crook offers him a new opportunity and he furnishes facts which result in the arrest and conviction of the murdered man's partner. Developments while the condemned man is waiting to be sent to the electric chair put the circumstances of the case in an entirely different light, and offer Tracy an opportunity for a new type of character portrayal. The cast also includes Lionel Atwill, Harvey Stephens, Robert Barrat and John Sheehan, comedian now in Municipal Opera.

THE Grace Moore picture, "Love Me Forever," is being held over at the Fox Theater. The star is seen as a young woman whose operatic career is financed by a gambler, Leo Carrillo. The major excerpts from opera which the film employs are to be found in "La Boheme." Appearing as Rodolfo, with extraordinary success, is the young tenor, Michael Bartlett, a newcomer to the screen. Bartlett, a native of Massachusetts, was first named "Edward Alonzo Bartlett" by his family, of old New England stock. Schoolmates called him "Mike" and he made it "Michael." He was educated at private schools and Princeton University and then went to Italy to study voice for five years. In 1929, he appeared in opera in Trieste, Rome and Turin, as "Edoardo Bartelli." On his return to the United States, he sang in light opera and over the radio. Recording of the arias in "Love Me Forever" represents a considerable improvement on previous films, according to sound engineers, in that two sound tracks were recorded and made to match the close-up and long-distance shots. The effect is called "perspective" recording.

By VIRGINIA IRWIN

SKIPPY EVANS . . . three poses as she does her stuff from the pitcher's mound.

WHEN the petite and naive Skippy Evans digs a dainty toe into the dirt, hitches up the left leg of her red corduroy shorts and prepares to crochet a curve over home plate, softball fans forget their pop bottles and candy bars. For just a second, Sisler's South Side Park is as quiet as an old ladies' home on a Sunday afternoon. And the next minute, it's as noisy as a bunch of orphans on an outing. Everybod yells, "Atta girl, Skippy!" And that's when Skippy Evans smiles that funny little smile that narrows her eyes and widens her mouth.

How this seventeen-year-old sensation of local softball circles does love the game. And how the customers do turn out in the evenings to be entertained by Skippy's exhibitions of plain and fancy softball pitching. With Skippy on the mound, it's bound to be a good show, because this girl takes her job as seriously as any pitcher in big league baseball.

"I look at a lot of the big-shots in softball," sighs the diminutive Skippy, "and I know I've got a long way to go, but I dream of being able to travel around the country as a pitcher." And there was a very, very far-away look in her dark-brown eyes as she gazed out over the light-flooded ball park where the Schenbergs—for whom Skippy pitches—and the opposition were warming up for the game. Dreaming of the day when she, too, would be a "big shot," that's what Skippy Evans was doing. It seemed just a little brutal to ask what she would do if her dream failed to come true.

"Well, in that case," she replied resignedly, "I shall be a secretary." But you get the idea that being a secretary would be a rather dull business for this youngster whose bag of tricks is the bane of softball batters. However, Skippy is preparing herself for the less glamourous life and her course at a local business college will soon be completed. She says she really likes typewriting and shorthand, but "detests" bookkeeping.

Skippy Evans—her real name is Isabel—inherits her love of softball from "Pop" Evans. When softball first began to interest St. Louisans, "Pop" organized a church league, and put his young daughter to playing shortstop. He taught her all the tricks he knew, Skippy added a few of her own, and last year stepped into the pitcher's box.

"I've learned a lot from dad," acknowledges the 110-pound Skippy, "and both my past and present managers have given me a lot of instruction. Whenever we're not playing, we come to the park and study the other pitchers. And then, too, I have a marvelous catcher. She deserves a lot of the credit."

After placing the credit where she thought it belonged, the little lady with the big hopes attempted to explain the pitching tricks that have netted her 164 strikeouts in 13 games, but finally concluded that "knowing the batters' individual weaknesses" just about covered her string of strategies.

"And I haven't what you'd call a slow ball," she added after some thought on the subject. Would she call it a fast ball? She didn't know. In fact, she'd never thought about it before. And that's the general impression you get when you talk to Skippy Evans—that she doesn't think much about how she plays, or what it is that makes her good. She just wants to be tops and that's all there is to it.

Skippy is a great favorite with the fans who patronize the night games at the park at Kingshighway and Chippewa and it's "Hi, Skipp," "Hello, Skip," "Howarya, Skipp?" from the time she enters the gate until she puts on her white sweat shirt to depart. She seems to be very popular with her teammates, too, and whenever she steps up to bat or prepares for a pitch, the chorus of encouragement from the bench is deafening.

At this writing, Skippy's batting average is .216, but then she shines as a pitcher and not as a slugger. So far this season she has had one no-hit game, three one-hit, and three two-hit games. And the rest have been three-hitters. It's an accepted fact in softball circles that Skip Evans never allows more than three hits in any one game. But how she does it, she doesn't know. "I just get in there and pitch," she guessed, "and I think it just happened that no team ever got more than three hits off me."

Skippy got her nickname because of a lot of excess pep she possessed a couple of years ago. "I used to run around like I was crazy," she explained. "I was always skipping around, so they got to calling me Skippy." And Skippy still has plenty of pep, and hundreds of little nervous gestures. After she takes her place on the mound, that left leg of her corduroy shorts must always be hitched up, her blouse must be tucked securely in at the waist, her curls must be tossed back, and the index finger of her right hand must be moistened with the tip of her tongue. Then she is ready to put that 12-inch ball across home plate for another strike.

• • • •

UNLIKE so many lady athletes, Skippy Evans is delightfully feminine. Where many of her teammates use caps to keep unruly locks in place, Skippy ties a red ribbon around her dark brown curls. Her voice is soft and low and musical and for all the exercise she gets, there is not one over-developed muscle in her body. Does softball keep her thin? She doesn't know any more about that than she does about what makes her a good pitcher. She never thinks about her weight.

"I've got a terrible appetite after a game, though," she confided. "And the better game I pitch, the bigger my appetite." Strikeout Skippy never eats before a game. She says it slows her up, so she waits until the game is over and then eats as much as she wants without fear of adding to her 110 pounds.

And does she have a beau? With charming naivete she pointed him out. His name is Joe, and he's a softball coach.

Recently Skippy had to take a week's vacation. The heat was a little too much for her and she flipped out during a game. "But I feel swell, now," she insisted. And she certainly pitched like she "felt swell." She held the girls in the orange shorts to two hits. The score was 18 to 1, in favor of the Schenbergs and Skippy herself got two hits out of three times at bat. In the second inning she socked a home run that drove in two more. She also added 10 more strikeouts to her record.

The Schenbergs are now leading the National League, and that means that Skippy will pitch in the Little World Series when the American Softball Association's national tournament is held here in September.

More Stories For Contratsc Bridge Fan

NEW YORK, N. Y.

LESTER SALES, 41, escaped inmate of the Middletown State Hospital for the Insane, failed to find, in the heart of the great city, a man who plays the type of pinochle to which Lester has been accustomed.

"I'm going back," he caroled, "to my little old shack at Middletown, where the boys play a good, fast game of pinochle, and melds are melds."

Seattle, Wash.—In line with the Put - Out - the Cat Derby, which was recently run off in this city, the following contests have been suggested for the benefit of bridge players.

First. Eyebrow-raising contest. The championship is now held by Horace Midriff, who raised his 1½ inches when his partner did not return his opening lead.

Second. Fourth-calling contest for ladies. Only those who have had two years intensive training in looking for a fourth are eligible.

Third. Put-Out-the-Kibbitzer Derby.

Local Editorial—I have noticed that ever so often a story is sent over the news service wires to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Somebody, of Somewhere each held 13 of a suit in a perfectly honest game played in their own living room. To a rabbit fancier, the item that I read recently, dealing with a buck rabbit addicted to chasing its own tail, probably is of little interest. But it does seem to me that the oft-repeated tale is wearing a bit thin. I can conceive of no worse purgatory for me than to be condemned for all eternity to a succession of bridge games where I constantly held 13 spades. Nothing to do but bid seven spades; nothing to do but spread the hand, and claim the tricks.

It does seem that there might be a happy medium in the news coverage of bridge—something that would be of interest to both the player and the non-player; but so far, I have been unable to strike it. I realize that the percentages are so many millions or billions to one that a perfect bridge hand should be dealt, but the fact that one is dealt only awakens in me the greatest of apathy. Man is incapable of comprehending large numbers, anyway. A thousand is a lot; a million is a lot more. And if you say that there are trillions of stars, and that some stars are trillions of miles away from us, your listener does not grasp either the number or the distance. He is merely duly impressed by the figure.

Any news story, for that matter, involves percentages. A man is struck by an automobile. The chances are about 200,000,000 to one that he and that car should chance to meet at that particular crossing; but the story is not written from that angle—even inferentially. So I am putting forth a strong plea for no more 13-of-a-suit stories unless the Mayor of London, or Adolph Hitler happens to hold the hand. That, presumably, will make it news.

Tough Steak.

If you are suspicious of the steak, cook it early in the usual pan broil. Then place the pan containing it in a steamer over hot water and let it stand over a very slow fire for an hour or two. This method will soften the toughest meat without losing the broiled flavor.

Rough Wood.

If you have had an accident to a good pair of stockings by catching them on the roughened rung of the kitchen chair or table, either sandpaper the rung until smooth or wrap it neatly with a piece of adhesive tape. You are almost certain to repeat your accident if you just let the rungs stay that way.

A DOCTOR TALKS OF HEALTH

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Logan Clendening

THE sun always has been considered by man to be the giver of life and health. From the earliest days of recorded history in Egypt the sun has been worshiped as a deity.

And certainly sunlight, as we have frequently pointed out in this column, is healthgiving and beneficial. It is good for many skin diseases, including acne. It is very necessary for babies because it prevents rickets. It produces vitamin D in the body.

At the same time, excessive exposure to sunlight when one is not used to it may have serious consequences. Burns are divided by the surgeon into those of first, second and third degree. Sunburn is usually considered to be the first degree, involving only the superficial layers of the skin, but since second degree burns are defined as those which have inflammation with blisters, it is obvious that sunburn may be of the second degree.

Quick Tan.

The fellow who goes on a short vacation and wants to get as much tan into it as possible, is liable to make himself very unhappy and profit very little from his vacation period. I concur in the recommendations of Jerome W. Ephraim in a magazine article for July, when he prescribes sun baths as follows:

"Begin your sun baths by exposing the entire body for a maximum of 15 or 20 minutes the first day. In persons of average sensitivity, this will produce a slight reddening or minimum perceptible erythema, as the ultraviolet ray experts call it. Wear dark glasses to protect the eyes. Extend the times of exposure by five minutes each day for the next 10 or 12 days (brunettes can safely increase this dosage.)"

Cloudy Days.

Some of the worst sunburns occur on cloudy days because the heat is diminished, you feel cool, and do not become apprehensive of the effect of sunlight.

Treatment of sunburn, whether mild or severe, is usually with some form of oil or grease. It makes very little difference whether this is olive oil or vaseline or special preparations. Another good preparation is calamine lotion. This is a standard product in the National Formulary, and can be obtained from any druggist. It is soothing and antiseptic.

The prevention of sunburn with oils which afford some protection from the ultraviolet rays is quite feasible. There are many preparations of this kind on the market.

GOLDEN GODDESS

A New Serial

Lillis Hears From Manuela the Astounding Story of the Cause of Her Solitary Confinement.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

"MANUELA hear things. Manuela have good ears. Senorina Fay, Senhor Julian not know she listen, but she do. Manuela know many things—"

"Do you know what they are going to do with me? Why am I here?"

The native woman nodded slowly, and a look of fear came into her bright eyes for a moment.

"Manuela know. Senorina Fay—and the others not know she know. If they do—" The brown hand encircling the white one trembled convulsively, and the thick, bluish lips quivered. "If they know, Manuela die. Senhor Derger—devil man. You see?"

This time it was Lillis who nodded. She agreed with Manuela's description of Derger. Devil man.

"They think Manuela see nothing, hear nothing—they never talk before her, always alone, but Manuela hear through thick doors. She hear things in big house before Senorina Fay and Senhor Julian go away, she hear things on boat going over water. She hear things in big city, and again on boat. When she see Senorina Lillis she sorry. Senorina Lillis good to her—kinder than anyone—"

Lillis couldn't remember any instance when she had befriended Manuela. On the trip to Rio she had seen very little of the woman. All she had done was to be considerate, as kind as she could be. And Manuela was repaying her by being her friend. She smiled down into the black eyes.

"Manuela try to tell Senorina on big boat to turn back. She ask Senhor Troy's steward speak to Senhor Troy. It do no good. Senorina come anyway. She no understand, and Manuela can tell her no more then, because Manuela not know her to be friend. Now she does."

The end of "The Rhapsody in Blue" came suddenly without either of them realizing it was finished and Manuela's last words rang through the room. Lillis jumped from the chair, put the needle back and rewound the machine.

Before she was back to Manuela, the music had started, but she found herself looking anxiously at the dressing room door, following Manuela's eyes. For some time both of them stared at the door before the maid spoke.

"We move closer to music machine. Manuela watch so she know when to stop." So the chair was placed next to the phonograph and the brown woman's eyes stayed on the black whirling record. Lillis found herself, too, watching the record. The needle was half way through it before Manuela continued.

"Some things Manuela understand, some things not. Not Manuela's fault she no understand white people all time. Long time before Manuela found what she know. Long time. Many moons come and go" Her eyes left the flying needle for Lillis' face.

"Senorina never tell what Manuela tell her? Never say?"

"I never shall."

"Good. Senorina promise. Manuela know she keep promise. Senorina Fay would not. She have promise many things—never keep promise. Senorina Lillis different, she keep promise. Neither must Senorina Lillis let anyone know she know. Not Senhor Doctor, not Senhor Cavanagh. None. They would know how Senorina Lillis find out—and Manuela, she no want to die. Much to live for. Manuela afraid to die . . ."

"NO one will ever know you told me," Lillis promised, patiently. "I won't act a bit differently when the Senhor Doctor comes in or Senhor Cavanagh—or even Senhor Derger—if he should come in."

"He come soon. He come very soon. Three, four more days he come get Senorina." . . .

"To get me!"

"To get Senorina. He take her away with him. Whether she come back I not know. Senhor Derger he come back, though. He devil man. Some day though he not come back . . . Many hate him . . . Manuela hate him." . . .

Lillis' lips opened, and her heart started pounding. Even above Manuela's words, above the music she heard it, thumping, thumping. The steady pounding seemed to shake her body, shake her chair, shake even Manuela who was so close to her.

The caress of the brown hand became more gentle.

"Manuela frighten Senorina? She still want to know?"

"I still wish to know."

The girl's eyes closed, but the dancing black disc spun before them, darker than ever in the darkness of the lids. In the midst of the black disk were spinning gold bands. While she was sitting there, shutting out the room, shutting out everything but the flying disk, the music stopped, then after a pause started again. Manuela had put back the needle.

"Three, four days Senhor Derger come for Senorina. Manuela not know exact time—she not been able to listen since she be with Senorina. Five days, though, when the moon she full Senorina be up in hills with Senhor Derger. More than day journey from mine.

"Manuela know place well. Always she know it—from childhood before she taken to sea by white missionary and learn new language and customs of white people. Night of full moon, Senorina be on great rockly ledge of Tiva and moon she be shining on her, and her hair be golden in silver light. Manuela known that."

Lillis had to lean over to hear the woman, because Manuela was not talking loudly now, and the music drowned out some of her words.

"Some way, Senhor Derger going to get Senorina over path — perhaps he and Senhor Julian carry her with Senhor doctor, although Senhor Doctor not so strong. But he go. Manuela know he go"——

The girl interrupted impatiently. "Why am I going?"

Manuela apparently didn't hear the interruption. She went on in the same monotonous voice, her eyes on the spinning needle. "Senorina will wear white robe Senorina Fay have made for her in big city. Senorina Fay not think Manuela see robe, but Manuela see. She see everything. She touch it. Soft, white as snow.

"Senorina wear it on high rocky cliff of Tiva—and there be people from hills to see her, brown men who be waiting long years, longer than my grandfather knew, and his grandfather and his grandfather before. For many hundreds full April moons browns men of hills, men no one sees except when they come to Tiva, be waiting for pale goddess to open their treasure house.

"Not every year they wait, only one year in 10 they come, whole tribe of men—never with women—to wait for goddess, like their grandfathers wait before them, and the grandfathers' grandfathers—from time when they had pale goddess among them and she lock up their treasure and their temple so it be safe from white men.

"THIS year they come down from mountains, the tribe. Weeks it take them to get to Tiva. Where they come from in hills no one know, but they come. One year, when Manuela small, she see them. She follow her father and brothers to Tiva and see them. She remember.

"She see them plain with moon shining on tall bodies. Even then she had good sight, better than father, better than brother. She see them kneel to moon. She see them wait, wait until moon she gone behind mountain, then see them go away one by one, into jungle. Father and brothers beside her. They see, too, and other men of Manuela's tribe.

"Later, years later, when she grown, she made trip back to Tiva herself, see place where Irac men kneel, see rock which is like altar. Standing before Tiva."

"A legend, isn't it, Manuela? A story you heard from your father and one that his father told him?" Lillis asked eagerly. Manuela shook her head.

"No story, Manuela see Irac men with own eyes. Her father see them, her brothers. But she not know why they come in full flower moon every 10 year, neither did father or brothers. Nor father's father.

"She and they only know that men come, kneel until moon sets, then leave. But she knows now. She hear through closed door of Senorina Fay's bedroom, when Senorina Fay and brother talk. Brown tall Irac men, who mix with no other tribe, wait their pale goddess to let them open treasure vaults and temple.

"One man of Iracs, leader of tribe, he know secret of temple but he no can open it alone. Goddess must give word. Must be with him when he go—she must be at his side. After she shut door so many years ago, she tell Irac men she come back. They wait for her.

"Once they have this land here, but slowly they push back to hills until no one know where they make home now. But they come back to Tiva to look for goddess. Mira tell Senhor Derger that, and he also tell about treasure in temple, jewels larger than any in mine, gold, so much of it, it never be carried away. Once Iracs were rich tribe—richer than Incas.

"Mira one of them—not now, he run away, and Senhor Derger find him. Manuela see Mira, too. He different from her people, tall, stronger, more like whites, but he not speak her language, nor any she speak. Last year Senhor Derger find him dying in mountains while on hunting trip. Some way Senhor Derger understand him.

"Senhor Derger speak all language. With Senhor Doctor, Senhor Derger heal his sickness, and Mira here now." Manuela corrected herself quickly. "Not this day, he is here, but he been here. He in hills, now, men say, to stay awhile—Manuela not know how long. Senhor Derger think best to send him away—"

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

LILLIS FARNOL, pretty blond stenographer, leaves New York City for a job with DEREK DERGER, owner of a diamond mine in the Brazilian jungles. On board ship she meets RIAN TROY, a young engineer who is also a new Derger employe. Immediately upon their arrival at the mine Lillis is thrust into an isolated guest house, supposedly a victim of jungle fever. Her only companion is a native woman, MANUELA, and her only visitors DR. SOAMES and CAVANAGH, Derger's physician and secretary, neither of whom offer to explain her seclusion or to help her escape. However, Cavanagh suggests to Manuela that with the portable phonograph turned on loud, she and Lillis can converse without fear of being overheard.

The Miracle Which Proves Man Divine

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

WHAT is the best piece of news in the paper today? It is full of all sorts of happenings, stories of the doings and undoings of humanity, many of them stranger than any fiction ever told.

Wars and threats of war, of course, are a part of the tale. People in Europe are practicing wearing gas masks, preparing for war in the new style when the airy navies grapple in the blue.

Here is the history of the day, from the heart-tragedy in the dismal city slum to the debates in the League of Nations—all the spicey, picturesque, unusual and startling facts and sayings.

News of armies and navies and the talk of peacemakers are side by side, with news about trade—or the lack of it—and wrangling of politicians, and all the tribe of the headline hunters.

Sports, markets, personalities, crimes, marriage muddles, divorces in which dirty linen is hung on the front gate—all the glorified gossip of the world served up to us with breakfast toast.

What is the best news? It depends on who is reading the paper. For the sports man it is sports, for the financier it is the markets—or maybe that is the worst part—each to his interest.

For some of us the best news of the day old how three men had risked their lives by plunging into a river to save a child of seven, and one of them, a rising journalist, lost his life.

Tragic news? Yes, but news of the miracle of courage, and the love and sacrifice which forgets self-seeking, and therefore can conquer all the ills of the world. It is proof that man is divine.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

» by WYNN «

For Friday, July 19.

MOSTLY favorite vibrations today, with possible exception of negative emotions. Much depends on how you have been training yourself—if you are in the habit of doing right, you have a strong armor that protects you.

Jealous.

A friend once told me she was "terribly jealous of her husband." When questioned, she admitted she did not in the least suspect him of any wrong but "just thought it made her love him stronger to cultivate the sense of jealousy." So she invented imaginary things he might do. This is all part of the sin of sensing lack, real or imagined—a violation of THE Law.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead is generally expensive, but depends largely upon how you handle changes and new ventures; these look good, if wisely chosen. Affections stirred. Danger: Nov. 19 to Jan. 5; and March 21 to May 2.

Tomorrow.

A wonderful day planning the future; take time to think it all out.

Rip Is Rescued On His Way Home By a Small Boy

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I WANT to drive over to talk to your Uncle Norman about our camping trip," a father said to his son Bert. "Will you come along?"

"Sure," Bert answered.

As they were driving out of the town to go to Uncle Norman's place Bert said:

"Dad, did you ever see that advertisement about the dog that is lost? I wish I could find that dog. The advertisement read as though he must be a real pet. They sounded so fond of him."

"Yes, I read it. I hope they get him back. Surely some one will see the dog unless he's kept a prisoner; and if he's a friendly, nice dog there's no point in that. No point in it, anyway."

The father went on to talk about plans he had for the camping trip when suddenly Bert cried out:

"Look, Dad, down by those tracks there's a brown dog. Let me see if he can be Rip."

The father stopped the car and the boy ran across a small field to the place where he had seen the dog.

"Rip? Are you Rip?" Bert exclaimed.

Rip had tried to hobble away on his three legs. He had been having a hard time traveling with a sore paw and had had to stop every little while.

When Rip heard his name he knew that something had happened so that people who knew and understood were looking for him.

He wagged his tail and barked in such a way that the boy knew he must be Rip. "They've advertised for you, Rip!"

Out of the Weather.

One housewife who keeps her curtains up all year round sews the smallest size white snaps on the bottoms of her bedroom curtains, with the corresponding snap about a third from the top. Then at night she simply snaps the two ends to the snaps higher up and her curtains do not beat against the screen and become soiled.

"COOL, fresh milk poured over graham crackers—or on soda crackers with a little sugar and a dash of cinnamon. It's a treat my family loves. And with an extra bottle of milk I also plan many meals around thrifty creamed eggs on toast, corn fritters, cream soups and other good things. Then there's always milk left over—so delicious to drink with tasty cold snacks, cookies, sandwiches and doughnuts. You'll be as amazed as I was that this simple plan of ordering an extra bottle of milk soon runs up into big savings—as much as $12 to $15 a month."

1. —Men had shell shock both in war and peace long before gunpowder was invented. As pointed out by Prof. R. S. Woodworth in his "Psychology," "shell shock" is not the result of an injury to the brain, but is due to the man's inability to solve the conflict between his physical fear—which all men feel in battle—and his desire to take it on the chin like his fellows. So he devised, unconsciously, the mental escape of "feeling sick," which preserved his sense of dignity and importance.

2. —President Theodore Roosevelt thought the practice led to moral weakness, lack of strong convictions and developed the ability to put up a good argument for either side, right or wrong. In his fine book on the techniques of debating and public speech, A. Craig Baird, professor of speech, Iowa University, argues that young people have few settled convictions and that debating helps them to intellectual clarity, if under proper guidance. I agree with Professor Baird.

It's been glorious." "Object-happiness" would seem to have been after all the underlying motive, as all but one said they would do it over again.

Another Color

THE eastern sky was suffused with early daylight; long streamers of sunlight flung themselves upward from the fringe of trees bordering the exposition grounds. In the uncertain light Jeff Henderson leaned upon the rail of the oval racetrack looking at its far side through the pair of binoculars which hung from his neck on a leather strap. Every now and then he glanced at the stop watch in his hand.

Presently around the far turn a horse came streaking swiftly toward him, head held high and legs beating the ground with mechanical rhythm. As it stormed past Jeff grunted with satisfaction.

"How did she behave, Moe?" he called as the horse came trotting back.

"Like a million, boss! I'd say that she's got the edge on anything in this county except maybe Mr. Nichols' black filly, Niteshade!"

The mention of Nichols' name brought a momentary frown to Jeff's countenance. Nichols was a newcomer to the blue grass; his wealth had been able to purchase for him a place in the community, but not in the hearts of the land owners, most of whom regarded him as an interloper.

"Hello, Miss Mary!"

Jeff turned at Moe's greeting and smilingly returned Mary Hunter's wave as she walked toward them from the deserted grandstand. Mary was his fiancee—had been for almost a year. Bad business and no profit from the stock farm had prompted Jeff to hesitate at marriage until he had at least a stake.

"Well, early birds," she regretted, "it seems as though I am too late to watch Meadow work out!"

"I've decided to give her a chance at the $5000 purse at the county fair next week, Mary." Jeff's voice was jubilant. "She just did nine furlongs in 2:08. Not bad for a two-year-old, eh?"

Mary's face mirrored his enthusiasm. "But," she objected, "what about the $250 entry fee?"

"We'll manage," Jeff returned. "Meadow can beat any two-year-old around these parts, and we can use five grand."

Mary was still reluctant. "Can she beat Niteshade?" she asked.

Jeff sobered momentarily. "It'll be a close race," he admitted.

But Jeff's spirits rose to new heights after he encountered Nichols that afternoon. His inquiry about Niteshade's condition brought a scowl to Nichols' face.

"Seems to have sprained a forefoot this morning," Nichols said. "She oughta be all right with a few days' rest. These young horses, you know—anything excites them."

"Yeah," Jeff admitted, trying to express concern over his rival's ill fortune. Nichols was a notoriously poor loser and Jeff almost felt sorry for him. "Too bad you can't send Tannin in to pinch hit for Niteshade," he grinned.

Nichols smiled in spite of himself. "That would be an idea!" His enthusiasm began to mount. "Say, Henderson, there is a horse! Niteshade will never approach him for speed. He won the two-year-old race at the fair last year, you remember."

Jeff remembered, rather ruefully. Tannin had been kept under blankets before the race and Jeff was one of the many who had not bet on him. Now, at the height of his career, Tannin was cleaning up Derby purses all over the country.

"Niteshade will be in all right," Nichols said in parting. "And I'm afraid Meadow hasn't a chance," Jeff grinned.

FAIR day at the exposition grounds! The thousands of persons thronging the track turned to watch the feature event of the day—the two-year-old race. Down at the rail stood Jeff and Mary.

Clutching his arm, she watched down the stretch of fresh tanbark to the left as he excitedly called to her the numbers of the horses coming around the turn into the stretch. "Ten, that's Niteshade, and 14 Meadow, and they're neck and neck! Come on, Meadow! You've got to win!"

Mary felt him quivering with anxiety and expectation as she tightened her grasp on his arm. She felt an unexpected wave of tenderness for him. He had been so wrought up what with Nichols being late with his entry and the last-minute rush to get the money for the entry fee. She knew how he felt —and how much the race meant to him—to them.

Another moment and the field was almost to the finish line. Jeff's knuckles were white with clutching the rail before him. He sagged with an inarticulate cry as the string of horses thundered across the finish line with Nichols' big black almost a full length ahead of Meadow!

"We're beaten, Mary!" His cry was almost a moan. "For good, I guess. . . . I sold everything but the buildings to get the entry fee and bet on Meadow! I was a fool!"

"It's a shame, Jeff!" Mary's voice held a trace of tears.

Jeff took her by the arm. "At least we can congratulate Nichols. Come on, Mary, there he is with Niteshade before the judges' stand!"

They made their way through the milling crowd, hardly heeding the expressions of sympathy from friends as they went. Through the paddock gate they stepped upon the track and over to where Nichols stood watching the judge place a huge horseshoe of flowers about the neck of the black filly.

"My congratulations, Nichols," Jeff said, extending his hand.

"Thanks," Nichols replied. "I'm sorry it was you I had to beat!"

Jeff was about to turn away with Mary on his arm when he heard the judge exclaim in surprise. Turning, he saw him staring at his white-gloved hand, across the palm of which was a broad streak of black.

Taking his handkerchief from his pocket, the judge rubbed it along the sweating neck of Niteshade and it came away black, while where he had rubbed on the horse's hide there gleamed through the sheen of a light-brown coat!

TESTIFIES ARMY SUPPLY MAN AIDED MISSING WITNESS

Lawyer for Joseph Silverman Jr., Mentioned in War Department Inquiry, Tells of $100 Payments.

SAYS MONEY WENT TO FRANK SPEICHER

Thought Client Was Aiding House Committee by Getting Information From Man Sought.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Testimony that Frank Speicher received money from Joseph Silverman Jr., dealer in surplus army supplies, while being sought by the Department of Justice as a witness in a grand jury investigation, was given today to the House Military Committee.

Thomas J. Ryan, New York attorney who has represented Silverman, testified that several times in the summer of 1934 Harold Schneuer, a lawyer, had received money in his office from Silverman.

Although he denied knowing the money went to Speicher, Ryan said later when asked by Chairman McSwain where the funds came from: "It came from Silverman. Every dollar Speicher got came from Silverman."

He added he had acted in the transfer of funds at the direction of Silverman and his attorney, A. Mitchell Palmer, former United States Attorney-General.

Sought for Months.

Speicher was sought by the Justice Department in connection with a District of Columbia grand jury investigation of War Department business practices in which Silverman's name was mentioned frequently. The inquiry began in January, 1934, but Speicher was not found, McSwain said, until Sept. 17 of that year.

The long-sought witness was described at the time of the grand jury inquiry as the representative of a tire company which had tried to sell the War Department a large quantity of "leak-proof" tubes.

Ryan said that probably six or eight times Schneuer received money in his office and that he thought in no instance was it less than $100 in cash. He said he understood the money represented counsel fees and that Schneuer was supplying Silverman with information which Silverman in turn was handing over to the Military Committee in Washington.

Ryan told the committee he did not recall ever having seen Speicher, but that he had talked with him several times by telephone last summer.

"Not to my knowledge," Ryan said. "I thought it was in 1933. He told me he had a lot of grief and trouble and that people were looking for him. Some General. But I haven't heard of him since."

Under repeated questions Ryan finally agreed the conversations must have occurred in 1934.

General Dismissed.

The General mentioned, he said, was Alexander Williams, then Assistant Army Quartermaster-General, who recently was ordered dismissed from the service as a result of facts brought out by the committee's investigation.

Ryan said he never knew at any time where Speicher was and that finally he told him not to call up any more after they had a "row" over the telephone. He said he had advised Speicher several times to make his whereabouts known to authorities.

The witness told McSwain he had not known at the time of any arrangements for Williams and Speicher to meet at a New York hotel or for Speicher and former Representative Goss of New Hampshire, a former member of the Military Committee, to meet in other hotels. Later, he said, he heard of the arrangements through Silverman, about the time Williams was tried by a court martial.

He said he had understood Silverman was turning over information from Speicher to Goss for use of the committee and that he thought it more the committee's duty than his to report on Speicher.

Meetings at Hotels.

"Doesn't it strike you as remarkable," McSwain said, "that the Department of Justice was searching the country for Speicher but was unable to locate him until Sept. 17? Yet somebody in New York was sufficiently in touch with Speicher to arrange for Goss to meet him at a cigar counter in the Roosevelt Hotel and another occasion in the lobby of the Ansonia Hotel, and on
